

RASELEY CONCERT

VOL. VIII.

Raseley Concert Tuesday, Oct. 11

Mr. Raseley Previously Connected With Salem

On Tuesday evening, October 11, the Civic Music Commission of Winston-Salem will offer to the music-lovers of the city its first concert of the winter, at which time will be heard Mr. and Mrs. George Raseley, both Mr. and Mrs. Raseley are musicians in note, but Mr. Raseley is of especial interest to Salem students because of the fact that he was formerly a student here in the voice department. He came to Salem during the winter of 1911 and 1912 to study especially with Mr. Mazzei, then head of the voice department at Salem College. While here Mr. Raseley sang solo parts in the "Mikado" and "Pinafore" under the direction of Dean Shippy. Since leaving Salem he has been in concerts, the first being a "Slavopagan Pageant" and the second the tenor solo part in "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast."

Mr. Raseley has had many important engagements in New York City, among them, a solo part in the New York production of "The Chin Chow."

The complete program of concerts for the winter to be given under the auspices of the Civic Music Commission is not yet ready for publication, but the public awaits its appearance with great interest as many well-known artists are expected to appear here during the winter months.

Students Vote On Statistics For Annual

On Tuesday afternoon, October 4, the student body voted on the statistics for the Sights and Insights of 1927-28. The results were as follows:

- Miss Salem—Katherine Rizzano.
- Most Popular—Margaret Hansen.
- Best Disposition—Rose Frazier.
- Best Athlete—Theodore Frazier.
- Most Intellectual—Margaret Schwazze.
- Best All-Around Senior—Mary Aubrey Strough.
- Best All-Around Junior—Lilyan Newell.
- Best All-Around Sophomore—Margaret Sells.
- Best All-Around Freshman—Edith Kirkland.

In order to decide on the prettiest girl, two are chosen from each class, and from these eight, the final decision is made by some judge, or judges who are not directly connected with any department of Salem College. The girls chosen were: Sarah Kincaid, Elizabeth Sifford, Isabel Dunn, Mary Johnson, Fritz Pierz, Athena Campouranis, Jacqueline Willford and Katherine Fawcett.

Betas Entertain At Informal Tea

Attractive Function Held At Blue Willow Tea-Room

On Friday afternoon, tea was given by the members of the Beta Beta Pi sorority at the Blue Willow tea-room, in honor of their pledges, Virginia Martin and Adelaide Webb.

The reception room was very artistically decorated with fall flowers, and the honorees were presented with lovely corsage bouquets.

Those who attended the tea were: Mrs. Harry Grimsley and Mrs. Dan Richardson, chaperones; Anna Pauline Haffner, Martha Dorch, Katherine Egerton, Belle Graves, Mary Johnson, Cam Borch, Virginia Cooper, Mary Martha Lybrook, Virginia Martin and Adelaide Webb.

On Monday afternoon, October 3, at half-past one o'clock, the members of the Alpha Phi Kappa sorority entertained at a luncheon held at the Salem Inn, in honor of their pledges, Margaret Ross Walker, Carolyn Brinkley and Adelaide McAnally.

The table was very attractively decorated in a color scheme of black and gold, the sorority colors, and a delicious three-course luncheon was served.

Those who were present at the luncheon were: Margaret Hauser, Lilyan Newell, Sarah Kincaid, Ernestine Hayes, Letitia Currie, Mary Duncen McAnally, Mary Neal Wilkins, Carolyn Brinkley, Margaret Ross Walker and Adelaide McAnally.

Junior Class Gives Y. W. C. A. Program

Violin and Vocal Solo and Meditation Features of Service

The regular Y. W. C. A. Vesper service was held on Sunday evening in the Campus Living Room. At this time the Junior Class had charge of the program which proved to be very interesting and inspiring.

Mary Miller, Fainker, president of the Junior Class, presided. The meeting was opened by the singing of a hymn.

Elizabeth Roper conducted the devotional exercise. A violin solo by Miss Hazel Reed and a vocal solo, "The Paradise of God," by Lilyan Newell added much to the service.

Margaret Hauser then recited a poem in friendship by Edgar A. Guest which carried out the idea of the whole program.

Math Club Holds Interesting Meeting

The opening meeting of the Math Club was held on Wednesday, Oct. 5. The first half of the meeting was devoted to the reading and explanation of the constitution. After this the officers for the ensuing year were elected, and the ballots cast in favor of Hal Alford, president; Ruth Edwards, Vice President; Ernestine Whitely, Secretary; Frances Hanes, Treasurer; Edith Kirkland, reporter to the Salemite. A small, but enthusiastic group attended, giving evidence that this is to be one of the most successful years in the history of the club.

MacDowell Club Offers Interesting Program

"Senorita" Presented At First Entertainment of the Year

On Saturday night, October 1, the MacDowell Club gave its first entertainment of the year in Memorial Hall. The picture shown was "Senorita," starring Bebe Daniels and James Hall. Both of these are universal screen favorites and they were at their best in this production. Bebe Daniels plays the part of the vivacious Senorita Francis Hernandez, while James Hall takes the role of Rodes Olivas, a South American ranch owner.

The picture begins in a town in California, but later the scene shifts to South America. At the birth of Francis Hernandez, her grandfather is compelled to return to South America, but leaves thinking the child just born is a boy. Years later the trouble arises on his ranch with an old enemy, the Olivas family, and since he is now feeble and unable to fight he sends for his grandson, whom he thinks to be a strong man, to come to his rescue. The girl, Francis, goes disguised as a boy, but has much difficulty in convincing the grandfather and his ever, through her skill in handling a sword, her wit and presence of mind she soon becomes a great help to the Olivas in many measures, much to their disgust and embarrassment.

The part of Rodes Olivas is played by James Hall. He sees Francis dressed as a girl at a festa in the village and falls in love with her. Later when she is again dressed as the grandson of Senor Hernandez, he challenges her to a duel and when she refuses calls her a coward. The Olivas make a raid on the Hernandez ranch, but their attack is stopped through the skill of the brave Francis. She is now the idol of her grandfather and his men that she is a boy. Her identity is kept secret until she is forced into a duel with Olivas. Here she is wounded and the fact that she is a girl is disclosed. Senor Hernandez loves her all the more for her secret and so does Olivas. The old grandfather approves of the marriage of Francis and Olivas and the feud which has existed for years between the Hernandez and Olivas families is brought to an end.

The picture is a delightful one, filled with comedy and romance from beginning to end. Indeed it con-

Dr. Rondthaler Speaks In Expanded Chapel Service

Discusses Phases of Education.

Dr. Rondthaler was the speaker at the expanded chapel service on Wednesday, October 5. As a rule this hour is given over to some outside speaker and it is very seldom that the student body has the privilege of hearing Dr. Rondthaler in an extended address.

The students were reminded that they had been together at Salem for three weeks, and that the first three weeks bring one into the most crucial period of the year's work. During this time, a person's habit of study and sense of obligation are formed. To some, these three weeks have been long and hard, but to others they have passed by quickly. Already one eleventh of the entire school year has elapsed.

Dr. Rondthaler stated that he seldom thought of school and work without thinking of and comparing it with the Gempt Pass. This ancient pass is the same as it was 2000 years ago and still remains unchanged except for pilgrim's foot steps that have chanced to pass that way. It is a narrow footway that totally separates two groups of Swiss people, for only by weary ascent over the steep, narrow way may the path be traversed. This path, and its ascent, is a picture of what the process is through which Education must be achieved. For fifty-two times does this pathway turn upon itself as it winds through the rocks. Higher and higher it goes, until finally, after a wearisome journey, the snow white summits, with all their beauty and elegance, are reached. There are three types of people who attempt to climb this path-way. First, there are those who slowly, stubbornly, heavily, wearily and clumsily seek to summit. Second, there are those who hastily, breathlessly, spasmodically, erratically and enthusiastically set out to climb. The third type includes those who know the technique of mountain-climbing, and who have a joyous sensitiveness to that surrounds them. They are those who have strength of limb and vigor, and joy of heart. These are the types of student life. In the first class go those girls to whom the round of school life may be the round of a holiday. In the second class go those who are overly enthusiastic, and who come to an early halt, to be passed by those in the third class who know the technique of studying.

Dr. Rondthaler stated that he had tried to think of the fundamental technique that is needed in the preparation of each day's lessons. He believes that any student of reasonable intellect and health can do the necessary work required in this college. First a student must learn relation, comprehension and projection for these are necessary in each daily preparation. Dr. Rondthaler next gave an excellent suggestion as to how studying should be done. First there is a necessity of daily review of relating each day's assignment to that of the day before. Just as all the formal formulae of trigonometry are related, just as geometry is not a set of isolated puzzles, but a series of developments, so our daily lessons are a series of related events and subjects.

Comprehension, which means to grasp, is the next thing that is necessary. There is no royal road to learning, one must continually struggle. There is no easy way or elevator up to Gempt Pass. To come to grips with each daily assignment can be, and may be a joyous task. Dr. Rondthaler begs that a student never pass over unexplained unknown words for they will rise to frustrate a student again and again. There is nothing in reading a page over and over. The thought should be, and must be grasped and comprehended the first time. Concentration is absolutely required. The person who interrupts or distracts one who is attempting to concentrate is a thief. It is better to

Enjoyable Picnic Given Glee Club

Miss Desha Entertains For Choral Organization

On Saturday afternoon, October 7, Miss Lucy Logan Desha gave the members of the Glee Club an enjoyable picnic at "Peter Pan." The crowd rode to the end of the track, then hiked the remainder of the way.

A large camp-fire was soon built over which the girls broiled bacon, made coffee and toasted marshmallows. The long hike and the crisp fall air had sharpened their already keen appetites, so no time was lost in spreading out the picnic supper.

The supper was much enjoyed, and after it was over the picnickers hiked back to school.

Dean Shirley Speaks At First Music Hour

Gives Delightful Lecture On "Paris, A Musical Center"

At the first Music Hour of the year on Thursday, October 6, Dean Shirley told of his visit to Paris in the spring of 1927. His subject was "Paris, a Great Musical Center." He made a lecture very interesting by telling his musical experiences there. The Dean took an unusual route. He sailed from New York and went to Montreal where he took a Canadian Pacific steamer across. He gave an amusing account of his experiences on the ship. After landing and going through the Customs House for Paris. On reaching the city he had great difficulty in finding a room. Since it was the week of the Grand Prix, most of the hotels were full. He finally obtained a room, however, at a small hotel owned by a French lady to whom he had been referred. His landlady was very kind and spoke enough English to
