CAROLINA FAVORED TO WIN OVER WAKE BY 3 TO 33 POINTS

If general concensus of opinion neans anything, Carolina will break losing streak of four years Satur day and emerge an easy victor over her ancient Baptist foe. Guesses of the correct score of Saturday's game have been pouring n , Stetson " D " offering a free neckie to every one guessing the correct core, and students are unanimous in the belicf that Carolina will win. Not a single prediction of a Wake Forest victory was made. Estima-ions of the score ran from a marin of three to 33 points.
The favorite guesses placed Caroina's score at 19 and 20 and Wake lorest's at 6 and 7 , with a number of others cstimating 13 to 0,13 to 6 , was so on. Thirty-three to nothing was the biggest margin of victory red almost every possible score beween this and $6-3$,
The contest has been drawing quite a bit of interest, and probably in thousand guesses will be turned in before it is closed. Those guess ing the correct score will be given their pick of any necktic in the store as their prize.
