

SALEMITE SPONSORS HUMBLE STATISTICS

We notice that the students at King College recently collected an annual group of statistics. For a long while Sights And Insights have given wide and due popularity to our most beautiful, most popular, most intelligent, most athletic, most humorous girls. The lists have necessarily been narrow and we feel that there are really numbers of worthwhile people at Salem who merit a degree of publicity. Do your part by helping us choose these girls. Tear off the blank below, fill in the name of your favorite candidate and deposit the vote in a box on the table in the Salemite office. The names of the winners will be published next week.

SPORTS

The first games of the Class Championship Series were played on Wednesday, February 25, between the Freshmen and Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors. From the first contest the freshmen emerged victorious with 22 points to their opponents, 13, while their sister class playing in the second game held the long end of the 12-2 score. A number of spectators witnessed the contests.

The first game got off to a rather slow start and through the first half the teams kept the score even. At the end of the two periods it was 6-6. With the opening of the second half the freshmen began a swift and successful pick-up which increased their score noticeably. The sophomores rallied to a good defense but till the last whistle they were unable to check the Red and Black scoring which gave the latter victory.

The Senior-Junior battle began in a much livelier manner and showed favorably for Juniors from the first. Seniors rang up their only goal during the first quarter which ended 6-2. The half gave 4 more points to the Juniors; the third period resulted in no score for either side, while the last showed one more goal for the winners.

FACULTY TO PRESENT OPERA ON MARCH 8

The version of this gory tale to be presented by the Faculties of Salem College and Academy on March 8 is the composition of Miss Elizabeth Lilly.

The exact cast has not yet been discovered, but rumors are abroad and we feel fairly certain of being able to publish them in our next issue.

MARY MYERS FAULKNER SPEAKER AT VESPERS

realizing an equality to men. They can vote, they have gone to Congress, they go to college, and they are taking their places as leaders of the world.

In 1858 a group of about thirty-five women in New York formed the first Y. W. C. A. They did this believing social virtues, elevation of character and intellectual excellence might best be accomplished by associated effort.

At its organization of course there was no idea of them, but at the years would bring many changes, many new branches of work, many new ideas. Yet, however, with all changes, and with all developments, Christ is still its center. The first expression of the idea was a charitable and social service activity, recognizing industrial woman as an individual without clearly seeing her function as a member of an economic system. Yet, the spring of human personality had been tapped and the idea grew into a realization that the woman who were active in the association as wage earners were, many of the conditions which were contradictory to the association's purpose of living more abundant life to women.

The present day challenges to the idea has been a continual emphasis on the search for facts, a need for more freedom in expressing experience. The only way to carry on social service and Y. W. work successfully is to talk with them instead of to them. Instead of being good to people, be good with them; instead of preaching to them, talk with them; work with them, and so instead of talking with them, teach them to work, talk and be good.

In bringing about a feeling of equality there are inevitable barriers. There is a division between the factory working girl and the college woman. Yet they are connected in what they can teach each other and they are both playing the game of life and the mill-posts in each life.

are often the same. Isn't this what "Association" means? It suggests intimacy, close relationships, all working together for the fulfillment of a dream, the achievement of an ideal. In the world war the Y. W. had its biggest challenge to make good. Its purpose and its work is a restraining praise.

Mabel Cratty the woman whose name and works are revered and beloved in Y. W. C. A. is one of the world's finest and most influential characters. She is an explorer of the hearts of mankind, a teacher of life, an international states-woman whose citizenship is of the world, a friend of God.

The Y. W. C. A. helps the individual girl most of all in the close contact it gives with other girls, the contagion of fine spirits, the inspiration to work and to grow.

The best gift of the Association to any one is the privilege of working closely with women, and through working with them learning to know and love them.
