

World Fellowship week is being observed at Salem this week in a variety of ways. Every evening at 5:45 o'clock a short prayer service is held in the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet room, for the purpose of praying for girls in foreign lands. At the Vesper service last Sunday evening Mrs. Holt Haywood spoke on "World Fellowship," tracing its origin in Geneva, Switzerland, to its present wide-spread observance, and suggesting that each Salem girl devote some moment in every day to silent prayer in behalf of the spirit of world friendship. A number of talks on this subject is also being conducted in the morning chapel periods.

A group of Social Service workers spent Tuesday afternoon at the Children's Home. These girls carried suckers with them to insure sincere hospitality, and devoted the afternoon to entertaining the inmates with games and stories.

Vesper services will be held Sunday evening at 6:00 o'clock in the Campus living room. The topic for the evening will be "Sportsmanship." Millicent Ward will render a vocal solo.

At the Theatres

CAROLINA

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, the famous stage play "War Nurse" will be reproduced in a very unusual talkie. Robert Montgomery plays the leading male role, and he is supported by Anita Page, who is the real star of the picture. The supporting cast is headed by Robert Ames, and June Walker, the famous stage star whose Thursday successes have been internationally known. This picture gives a realistic version of the late war as seen through the eyes of the Red Cross worker, and the V. A. D. Corps of the English service. Robert Montgomery, the supporting star, has had an unusual number of recent successes, and his portrayal of this part is eagerly awaited by scores of fans. Among the short subjects with which the Carolina always supplements the feature picture, there will be a number, "Office Blues," featuring Ginger Rogers, the peppy little star of "Queen High," and also "Silly Symphonies."

The last half of the week will bring to the Carolina, William Haines' newest picture, "Remote Control." This popular comedian's pictures are always hailed with delight by his fans, and when it is known that the formidable Polly Ryan will be his main support, attraction is added to attraction. Mary Doran will play the part of the heroine. Among the short subjects will be a colortone revue, "Manhattan Serenade."

STATE

Harold Lloyd in "Feet First" will be the main attraction at the State Theatre for the entire week of November 17-22. America's most popular comedian has not appeared in quite a long while and this, his newest production will attract thousands of loyal fans—especially the young people. Barbara Kent will play the part of the heroine. There is a strong supporting cast, and the audience is due for a merry two hours, full of laughs, and jokes all in the last-minute mode. Horn-rimmed spectacle and all, Harold Lloyd is headed for Winston "Feet First."

ETIQUETTE SUBJECT AT I. R. S.

It is critical of everything the college girls do. This is very unfortunate, and it shows to what extent college girls should be careful of their behavior in public places. A time when courtesy is very necessary is at stores. Good manners might well be defined as putting oneself in the place of the other person and being as considerate as possible. There are many different personal traits and ideas, and good manners help tremendously in social contacts.

At the close of Mrs. McCuiston's helpful talk, and while delicious refreshments were being served, an attractive musical program was given. Millicent Ward sang, "Song from Paradise" by Sidney Brown, and "Big Brown Bear"; Maria Bowen played two violin solos "Song of the Dawn" and "Just You, Just Me"; and a trio composed of Ethelyn Barger, Mary B. Williams, and Mary Ann Matthews sang, "All Through the Night," "Singing a Song to the Stars," and "In a Cottage small by a Waterfall."

Virgil attempts not to show frivolity of desire, but the nobility and sacrifice of the attempt. He believed life's success lay in a continual struggle made up of hindrances and failures—yet aspiration was the incentive of success in life. Pondering on this Virgil is forced to wonder, not logically but simply, why such a man must be true. "He is a mystic," he might be asked. "Why must this good man be at Aeneas be pursued by such unending hatred?" The answer is in the author; he is a Prometheus, the champion of mankind, and it is for this that we love and honor him. To Dr. Howe, the audience—among whom were girls and boys of the Latin classes of Reynolds High School, alumnae of Salem and citizen guests—are indebted for having lifted the study of Virgil from a mechanical realm to things of emotional spirit. This was a scholar's knowledge—a review from a lover of this study.

COLLEGE UTOPIA IS REALIZED IN FLORIDA

A College Utopia is being realized by the students at Rollins College, Rollins Park, Florida. Class lectures and the need for night study have been abolished. The students sit around in comfortable chairs or arrange themselves at tables. The room may be silent as the students read or write, or there may be a buzz of conversation as they discuss some aspect of the subject which they are studying. The instructor sits at his desk and listens to the discussion. He answers when asked, but his main purpose is to sit still and keep quiet.
