TENNIS

"If it doesn't rain, the second round of the tennis tournament must be played off by Friday, May 22," announced Gooch in the expanded chapel service.

But it did rain, in fact, it rained until Thursday afternoon! Those who did challenge their opponents on the wet courts dangerously threatened the lives of their tennis rackets and balls. However, by Tuesday, all matches in the second round had been played.

The following players, having survived the first round, contested:

Richardson	vs.	D. Graves
Chandler	vs.	Abernathy
Ward	vs.	Gooch
Hudley	vs.	J. Smith
M. Thompson	vs.	M. Price
Riggan	vs.	E. Price
M. Smith	vs.	M. Wolfe vs.

Winners were: Richardson, Chandler, Gooch, Hudley, M. Price, Riggan, and M. Wolfe.

Quarter-finals are over now! Soon the semi-finals and finals will be played off. Right this way, girls. Place your dimes on Riggan, Gooch, or Chandler! It'll be a close race, whoever wins.

POSTURE EXPOSTULATED

Chin in, shoulders up, head up! Attaway, girls! Look at yourself (or a change) every time you pass a mirror, and see if you have good posture.

When you go thru the halls, walk like you think you're a king or a royal princess or somebody regal. If you think you are good enough for anybody, show it in your looks! Don't lo!l around on classroom chairs or way-side benches; sit erect.

And above all, while in class, show off your good figure and your excellent posture for a week at least, for chosen members of the faculty as judges for the contest, are secretly spying on you. If you see a prof intently peering at you over his glasses, don't be frightened and think you haven't handed in your American History Map—he's probably only a judge picking the winner of the Posture Contest.

SWIMMING

Jo Walker is proving to be quite an efficient swimming teacher. Some of her most promising pupils in the Life Saving course are N. Miller, Chandler, Bliss, and R. Smith. Maier, Pat Holderness, Preston, and M. Sample are also showing good form in all other features of the swimming meet. All contestants in the meet are compelled to pass the Minnow, Sunfish, Shark, and Running Front Drive tests.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Camp At Hanes

Major Officers and Faculty Members Also Enjoy Trip

The old and new Y. W. C. A. Cabinets and the new and retiring Presidents of the other major organizations are spending the weekend at Hanes Camp as guests of the Salem College Y. W. C. A.

The faculty guests were: Misses Katherine Riggan, Mary Duncan McAnally, Elizabeth Lilly and Anna Pauline Shaffner.

The campers left at 3:30 this afternoon in the college truck, expecting to have a great deal of fun out-of-doors before they return early Sunday evening.

MATHEMATICS CLUB ENJOYS PICNIC

On April 30th the Mathematics Club, with Miss Hastings and Mr. Curlee as sponsors, enjoyed a picnic supper at Crystal Lake. Mr. Curlee, with the help of some industrious girls, built a huge fire while others were dancing on the platform raised above the water. Even Mildred Biles, the new president, could not mathematically account for the number of hot dogs, marshmallows, good American cheese and refreshing drinks that quickly disappeared. As one member said: "The water, the moon and the victrola were enough to satisfy anybody."

At 7:30 the party left the hospitable park, and arrived at Salem shortly afterward.

Mary Knight, an Alumna of Agnes Scott, has become a staff correspondent and a fashion feature writer for the United Press of Paris. Desiring to interview the famous French star, Maurice Chevalier, she had a little trouble with the theater authorities. When she went to the stage door, she was asked out into a very unpleasant ally, but she managed to slip in the door. After nervously colliding with the star at her hurried entrance, she got her interview, and M. Chevalier sang her requests when he went back on the stage.

Bridgewater, Va.:

The Bridgewater debating teams have just returned from a northern trip which included Columbia and a law school in Washington. The questions for debate were, "Compulsory Unemployment Insurance" and "Chain Stores." Although the teams won only one debate out of four, they made a commendable showing.

People coming into our shop, like students when first entering college halls . . . stand a moment, quiet. Then they go happily from this floor to that, seeing here the sort of shoes in which they have always wanted to walk, there the perfect hat for them or again some rare looking dress or coat. It is the shop of which you dream at times. A shop with magic in it's making.
