

Think About
Politics

Don't Forget
Fashions

Young Democrats Hear Waynick Thursday Night

High Point Editor Praises Political Movement Of Youth

Predicts Election of Demo- cratic President

The second meeting of the Young Democratic Club was held Thursday at 7:30 P. M. in the recreation room of the Louisa Biting Building. The president Beth Norman, after opening the meeting, welcomed Mr. Capus Waynick and Mrs. Waynick, who is an alumna of Salem College. Mr. Waynick, editor of the High Point Enterprise and Democratic nominee for the State Senate, commended the interest of new voters and near-voters in the selection of politicians, saying that their knowledge and consequent support in political affairs would determine the future course of government.

Mr. Waynick predicted the election of a President by the Democratic party this year, but expressed the conviction that a matter of greater importance than the election is the question of the capacity of the leadership and the people to improve the government. Indications show that the people are turning to the liberal party for relief from burdens that have become too heavy; he realized that the voters are being moved by feeling as much as, if not more than, by reasoning as they turn to the party. Under such circumstances, he stated, the party itself, from the youngest member to the highest official, must be more than ordinarily concerned in trying to justify the faith that seems to be developing.

The significance of the organization of Young Democrats lies not merely in what the movement does in helping to elect a ticket, but in (Continued on Page Four)

Music Association Announces Concerts

Civic Music Association to Present Four Concerts This Winter

The Civic Music Association will present an interesting series of four concerts this winter. The first one is to be given by Gladys Swarthout, soprano, who was a singer in the Chicago Civic Opera Company until last year when it disbanded. She is now a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company. She has a glorious voice beside an attractive appearance and a magnetic personality.

On December 1, Rudolf Gonsz, pianist-conductor, will be heard in piano recital. Mr. Gonsz is one of the foremost pianists in this country today, and his concert will be inspiring to everyone; he was formerly director of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and now has an orchestra of his own, the National Chamber Orchestra.

On January 9, we shall hear Charles Mackert, called the "Romantic Tenor" because of his ability to sing Romantic tenor roles, especially in the French opera such as "Faust" and "Pelesas et Melisande." Mr. Mackert sings with perfection of detail, which is found in few singers; he studies his song and consequently (Continued on Page Four)

Dean Vardell Traces History Of The Piano

In First Music Hour Tells Usefulness of This Instrument

The first Music Hour of the year was a lecture given by Dean Charles Vardell, on How to Play the Piano. Mr. Vardell told of seeing the first piano ever made. It was in the Metropolitan Museum among instruments of every kind from all countries, dating from the beginning music history to the present day. This little piano was five feet long; its ivory keys, yellowed by age, bore the distinguishable note Christopher 1720. Resembling the old harpsichords it is indeed the great grandfather of our modern pianos.

Dean Vardell told briefly of the ancestry of the piano. First came the dulcimer; then the clavichord, with its slight variation of tone production; and then the harpsichord that had no dynamic variety. Christopher was the first to make the change from the harpsichord to the piano. The dulcimer is another distant ancestor of the piano. Christopher combined the dulcimer and harpsichord, giving to the world the piano, in (Continued on Page Three)

Salem Graduate Sings In Atwater Kent Contest

Doris Kimel Broadcasts In Audition

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Doris Kimel, pupil of Mr. Ernest Schofield and graduate of Salem of the past year, sang in the Atwater Kent Radio audition at Raleigh. It was her second appearance in the contest, which is held every year, for last year when she competed Miss Kimel won the second place for women's voices.

Not long ago in chapel service this talented pupil of the Salem School of Music sang two beautiful selections. Her lovely coloratura soprano was as beautiful as at her brilliant recital last spring. It is certain that in this contest her attainments in singing will bring her recognition.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

UNIVERSITY OF CAROLINA
Sept. 24—Wake Forest at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 1—Vanderbilt at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 8—Tennessee at Knoxville.
Oct. 15—Georgia at Athens.
Oct. 22—Ga. Tech at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 29—N. C. State at Chapel Hill.
Nov. 4—Florida at Chapel Hill.
Nov. 12—Davidson at Davidson.
Nov. 19—Duke at Chapel Hill.
Nov. 24—Va. at Charlottesville.

N. C. STATE
Oct. 1—Richmond at Richmond.
Oct. 8—Clemson at Raleigh.
Oct. 15—Wake Forest at Raleigh.
Oct. 22—Florida at Tampa.
Oct. 29—U. N. C. at Chapel Hill.
Nov. 5—Davidson at Charlotte.
Nov. 12—Duke at Raleigh.
Nov. 19—Open.
Nov. 24—South Carolina at Raleigh.

DAVIDSON
Sept. 24—Duke at Durham.
Oct. 1—Washington and Lee at Davidson.

Fashion Show In Memorial Hall

Salem Girls Will Model Latest Fall Styles

Every Salem girl who is interested in her appearance and grooming will anticipate with many thrills the Fashion Show to be presented by I. R. S. Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall, the admission to be only ten cents. Four of Winston-Salem's leading stores are lending new fall outfits; two girls from the Academy and six from the College are going to act as models. Monday's is to be represented by Ruth Crouse and Phyllis Clapp. The Ideal by Elsie Patrick, Virginia Bailey, and Lucy James. Virginia Smith is to exhibit styles for the Anchor, while Mary Lillian White and Janie Hall present the new fashions from Sossnik's. All the latest modest straightens from Paris are going to be on exhibit. Every Salemite and faculty member are invited to come. If you want to be sure you have a correct costume, the exact color combinations, just the right accessories, don't miss the Fashion Show Saturday night.

Alpha Iota Pi Holds Its First Meeting

Miss Smith Entertains Latin Club

Alpha Iota Pi, the Latin Club of Salem, met Thursday night at seventhirty with Dr. Minnie J. Smith. On account of her work at Chapel Hill, Miss Smith was unable to attend Latin Club meetings last year, and members are particularly glad to have her with them this year. Every one enjoyed playing anagrams with Latin words, after which a short business session was held. Delicious refreshments consisting of hot chocolate, butter tarts with sandwich spread, and cake were served by the hostess.

A good time was had by all. Members attending the meeting were Susan Calder, Dorothy Sims, Pauline Setser, Elinor Phillips, Dorothy Heidenreich, Dorabelle Graves, and Margaret Johnson.

DUKE

Sept. 24—Davidson at Durham.
Oct. 1—V. M. I. at Lexington, Va.
Oct. 8—Auburn at Birmingham.
Oct. 15—Maryland at Durham.
Oct. 22—Wake Forest at Durham.
Oct. 29—Tennessee at Knoxville.
Nov. 5—Kentucky at Durham.
Nov. 12—N. C. State at Raleigh.
Nov. 19—U. N. C. at Chapel Hill.
Nov. 26—W. and L. at Durham.

WAKE FOREST

Sept. 24—U. N. C. at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 8—S. C. at Charlotte.
Oct. 15—N. C. State at Raleigh.
Oct. 22—Duke at Durham.
Oct. 29—Deware at Newark.
Nov. 5—Catholic U. at Washington.
Nov. 24—Davidson at Davidson.

General Secretary Of Inter- national Y. W. C. A. Speaks

Rebuilding Of Dining Room Is Underway

Remodeled Hall Will Be Im- provement Over Former

The disastrous fall of the dining-room ceiling is fast being remedied as workmen busy themselves with building materials. The old plaster of the dining-room is to be replaced by a substance called stone board, which is stronger and more reliable than the former covering. The walls, which were comparatively dark before are to be replaced by a light covering of neutral tints. The walls will be canvassed and papered.

One of the men doing construction work on the building was overheard saying that it was remarkable how well the whole interior had held up under the stress and strain of many angry stamps in the library above, and many years of service.

The middle of this week the men had completed over three-fourths of the ceiling work. Their work has been constant and they have cooperated in every conceivable way. The majority of the work is completed, and we hope to be re-established in our new dining room by the last of this week.

Friendship Is Theme Of Y. W. C. A. Vespers

Students Give Short Talks on Various Phases of Friendship

The Y. W. C. A. Vesper Service on Sunday evening was given over to the subject of friendship. After appropriate scripture readings from Samuel, Proverbs, and John, by George Huntington, Patsy McMillan, and Mary Leonard, and Mary Leary Mickey gave short talks respectively on "Forming Friends," "What You Look for in a Friend," and "What Kind of a Friend Am I?"

Wherever one goes, and especially in school, one meets new people, and facts the pleasure and problem of making friends, of deciding which people would be those who would be willing to share both the happiness and the disappointments. Nowhere in the world can a person be absolutely free from any contact with another; so, to be able to form deep and understanding friendships with another is an ability to be envied. He is certainly to be pitied who cannot lay claim to at least one friend.

Undoubtedly the greatest friend of all ages is Jesus Christ, and from his example we get the true attributes of a friend. A friend is congenial, one who will recognize and feel both one's hardships and one's joys. A friend can be trusted with all one's innermost feelings, doubts, and ideas. He will sympathize with one's eccentricities, will recognize one's faults and love in spite of them. A real friendship both gives and takes; one part is dependent on the other part. Because there are two kinds of friends, it is unfortunate that there are not two separate words describing them. One friend is the kind whose company is enjoyable but who is not at all indispensable. The other is the person without whom one could not get along in this life. One donates; the other sacrifices. Someone once asked Charles Kingsley why he loved the things which he had accumulated. Without any hesitancy or doubt Kingsley answered quite sincerely, "I had a friend."

Mr. Harmon Discusses Youth Of World

Refers to World Citizenship

A man sits down and plays a piece. For the time being the music is enjoyed, but it is soon forgotten. A master sits it down and plays a composition. The music becomes a part of the listener. Mr. Harmon, general secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., has belonged to the latter group. He presented the essence of the future by saying that life goes the way that the youth of today take. In the colleges are the people who will determine the destiny of tomorrow. They have opportunities, but they also have responsibilities.

Colonel Burke, one of Mr. Harmon's co-workers said, "Youth the world over have struck up tents and are on the march." What youth undertakes to accomplish will be accomplished. The speaker said that there are three hundred and twenty million youths from twelve to eighteen years of age. Each of these should have the opportunity to make the most of his life, no matter what area of the world is his home.

None can confine himself to one state, to one nation. We are all world citizens. It is the duty of Christianity to make the people of the world over friends. The ships which travel from one part of the globe to another are tying the nations closer together than ever. As there was no boundary for the influenza epidemic, there is no boundary for the influence of one nation of the world. There is no isolation. The person who thinks that the United States is separated from the rest of the world is living in a fool's paradise.

At one time yellow fever was very common. Now there is just one man in Africa where it can be found. The International Health Board and the (Continued on Page Four)

Recreation In Clewell Offers Diversions

New Equipment Attracts Students in Leisure Time

With the greatest pleasure students like to have a good time welcome the new recreation room equipment in the basement of Alice Clewell Hall. Two attractive tables for ping-pong have been made and placed in the recreation room, and two ping-pong sets are in Miss Lawrence's Office, waiting to be used during spare hours. Anyone who wishes to play may secure balls and balls from the office of the dean.

Louisa Wilson Biting Building can no longer look down with scorn upon Alice Clewell, even though the former may be more modern and much younger. Now Clewell boasts of a recreation room, destined to be come just as popular and up-to-date as that in the Senior Building. From time to time new equipment will be added. Miss Lawrence would contribute her favorite game of anagrams, and anything from hop-scotch to tidlely-winks may be indulged in if a recreation-seeking student desires. In spite of the fact that the tables are large, there still remains sufficient space for dancing.

After the fashion show to-night, why not end the evening in the new recreation room, become acquainted with ping-pong, and incidentally, buy refreshments from I. R. S. or the "Y." store?