

Salem Sororities Are Abandoned

New Plans For Social Life Are To Be Formulated

On Saturday morning in Chapel Miss Mary Sample, President of the Pan-Hellenic Association, made the following announcement:

"The Pan-Hellenic Association, which is composed of all members of each sorority at Salem, wishes to make the following statement:

At a meeting on May 17, 1933, the motion to abolish sororities at the end of this school year was made and carried. In discussing and passing the motion the following points were considered.

(1) That Salem is much too small a school for local sororities.

(2) That sororities cause an unnecessary feeling between sorority girls and non-sorority girls.

(3) That the expense is at present unnecessary.

(4) That sororities impair a school spirit which could be more significant.

Suggestions for plans for social life on the campus have been made by the Pan-Hellenic Association and are to be submitted to I. R. S. and the President's Forum. These suggestions will be carefully considered and will be presented to the Student Body at a later date.

Williams almost any time; "Drink to me Only with Thine Eyes" is often attempted by both A.B. and B.S. students; Schubert's "Ave Maria" is a favorite; "Ole Man River" was sung by Law of all; and "Shortenin' Bread" and renee Tibbett when he was in Greensboro.

The recital was delightful. It will be remembered that Mr. Angel was the winner of the Atwater-Kent National Audition for 1932.

Plans For Summer Is Vesper Subject

Miss Mary Louise Mickey Speaks to Y. W. C. A.

Last Sunday night at Vespers Miss Mary Louise Mickey spoke on "Looking Forward to Summer." First of all, she said, the days just preceding vacation are the most exciting. We are making all our plans for the coming summer then. We plan to rest and have good time, but we sometimes forget that in summer we have others to consider besides ourselves. All winter we have lived more or less by schedule with only our small amount of spare time to take care of. When we go home we must think of our families. We will have to readjust our habits and learn how to get back "into the swing of things." Summer is the time to show our families that we have made the best of the opportunities they have made possible for us. Our personalities will be changed, our characters improved, and we will have a chance to show them our progress.

Summer brings also a reunion with our friends. No matter how long we will be gone. We will make new acquaintances, and have new interests. Our understanding will be deeper, and we can show our friends how Salem has helped us. They will have had new experiences and they will have new interests. We must become readjusted to our friends.

Miss Mickey said that it would take us some time to catch up on all the town news. Nine months is a long time to be practically isolated in another community and we lose out in our connections with the church, our clubs, and other organizations. We can make our town up to date. There are always things that can be done for the community. Why can't a college girl help fix up the town tennis court, plan camping trips, or take the neighborhood children in swimming?

The seniors face a rather different problem. They are entering into a situation they have never faced. The seniors of this year must prepare to face disappointment. Jobs are not plentiful, but there is nothing to prevent a college girl from offering her services on a non-pay job. Many positions offers opportunities of travel to some girls. The World's Fair, the beach, the mountains all beckon to summer vacationers. Here we are given a chance to shine. A college girl is somehow always recognized. Her attitude is noticed. Let's put on our best personalities for Salem.

Noted Scientist Speaks At Carolina Theatre

Dr. George W. Carver Explains Peanut Products

Last Sunday afternoon at the Carolina Theatre, Dr. George W. Carver, noted Negro scientist from Tuskegee, Alabama, spoke to a full house. The speaker was brought here by the Y. M. C. A. Dr. Carver started his talk with a discussion of the creative mind stating that the creative mind is not understood because people do not try to understand it and that criticism kills this type of mind.

Dr. Carver, in making an imaginary journey with his Creator quoted several passages from the Bible, one quotation especially appropriate to his subject being "There is much food in the tillage of the poor but much is wasted through lack of judgment." (CONTINUED ON PAGE THREE)

Juniors to Receive Caps and Gowns In Chapel

Seniors Will Give Up Coveted Place on Stage

In keeping with the new and successful idea instituted in 1932, transfers of caps and gowns will take place in Chapel on Thursday, June 1st. Alternating pairs of Seniors and Juniors will be preceded by the marshalls. They will sing as the procession, "The Son of God." As Dr. Rondthaler has called for the last announcements of the year, he turns the chapel service over to the Senior class president who is seated on one side of him. (The incoming Senior President sits at his other side.)

The Senior president speaks and then turns and transfers her cap and gown to the new Senior President. At this signal the entire transfer takes place.

After the seniors have retired to the front rows of the auditorium, the stage is left for the juniors and their President speaks.

Dr. Rondthaler then reads the poem, "School Days." Then follows the "Alma Mater" and the recessional, led by the Juniors.

Juniors, it is whispered, will exercise the tradition of an escorted ride through town after luncheon at the long senior table in the dining room.

The stage flowers will be yellow and white complying with the college colors.

Three Clothing Classes Present Exhibition

New Type Chapel Program Is Instituted

During expanded chapel Wednesday morning the clothing classes under the direction of Mrs. E. O. Meinung, sponsored a fashion show of Home Economics Department, of clothes made by the members of those classes. These girls have had either one, two, or three semesters of sewing. Besides revealing the capability of the girls in their domestic ability, the modeling revealed the popularity of cotton summer clothes, and the reasonable cost of the materials.

The first group of clothes which was displayed was blouses. Susan Rawlings created wearing a brown and yellow print blouse, very attractive with round neck and ruff sleeves. Mary Nelson Anderson also modeled a print blouse together with a blue linen skirt which she had made.

The next group was cotton and wool dresses for school and street wear. Helen Draper began this display in a green, pipe, two-piece suit, fitted in at the waist, and having very becoming lines. Next came Martha Schlegel, also attired in green, in the form of a print school dress with comparatively large puff sleeves. Then followed Josephine Rouse, again wearing green. This time it was a white patterned dress. Mary Sample broke the run of cotton dresses by appearing in a blue enameled coat and wool. Betty Stough came next in a blue cotton print dress made in much the same (CONTINUED ON PAGE TWO)

Mr. Nat Crews Explains System of Government

North Carolina Legislator Speaks to Young Democrats

On Thursday night at the dinner meeting of the Young Democrats, Mr. Nat S. Crews, a Forsyth County member of the North Carolina House of Representatives, discussed and explained the system of government in our state and then resumed his interesting lecture.

The North Carolina Government is divided into three departments, the Executive Department, The Judicial Department, and the Legislative Department. The latter Department is composed of the Senate, composed of 50 Senators, and the House of Representatives, composed of 120 men representing the 100 counties. This General Assembly meets, by Constitutional law, for two months every two years. The last Assembly, however, was in session 4 1/2 months. The Assembly meets every day during the session.

The Speaker who recognizes legislators wishing to present bills and refers bills to committees. Committees are very important. Each member of the Assembly is on one or more. Men from every part of the state, and representing every occupation imaginable are present, so there is, of necessity, quite a diversity of bills. Each bill takes at least forty days to pass. It has to be passed three times, sent to the Senate where it is referred to a Committee, sent back for reaction, and then ratified and enrolled. At this past session there were 1700 bills introduced, every member introducing at least one, and one member as many as 38. The most important bills were the Revenue Bill and the Education Bill. It is the duty of the House Representatives to raise the revenue for the State. This year 83 millions were appropriated for education, payment of bonds, (CONTINUED ON PAGE FOUR)
