But it is not uncommon to hear students boating of having passed a ocurse, frequently by the smallest possible margin, with little or no study. Or to hear students speaking of "erip courses" and how many they carry. In short, their investments and the funds of someone else mean nathing to the

nothing to then.

Possibly no other outlay pays the dividends of the college one. A great appreciation of the values of life, but of the value of a trained intellect and the knowledge of association with the past are all for the taking for college students. The students who refuse these gifts and boast of it, at the expense of parents or guardians are the worst kind of parasites. No university should not be a support of them.

Barrymore spoke to the members of the Philadelphia Lecture Assembly? Here is a portion of her speech to "done here of the property of the prop
