

MISS COVINGTON GIVES BOOKS TO LIBRARY

Miss Eavable Covington, head of the Sociology and Economics department, has recently given to the library between forty and fifty books to be used by students in these departments. These books add quite an addition to the library and are greatly appreciated.

DEAN VARDELL ELECTED OFFICER IN MUSIC SCHOOLS ASSO- CIATION

Mr. Charles G. Vardell, Jr., dean of Salem College School of Music, was named vice president of the National Association of Music Schools to which Salem College was elected to full membership during the recent annual session held at Lincoln, N.C., and attended by Dean Vardell, according to a report made at the monthly meeting of the faculty of Salem College.

Dean Vardell's election as vice-president of the national association for the Southern states entitles him to membership on the national executive committee. It was also announced that Salem College is the only full member of the national association in North Carolina.

More than 60 colleges from all over the nation were represented at the national meeting at which a definite standard for the A. B. degree in college with the student majoring in music was accepted. No definite standard had been set previously for the schools which are members of the national association.

In addition to the announcement of Salem's most recent honor, Dr. Howard E. Rondthaler, president of both Salem College and Salem Academy, made a report on the recent meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools and Southern Association of Women's Colleges which he attended at Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Rondthaler said the triennial report on the work at Salem College and Academy was not given in oral form, but was requested in written form, thus designating that the work at the school during the past three years had been acceptable to the association.

RONDTHALER BOOKPLATE

For the books which were given the college library from the personal library of Bishop Rondthaler, Dr. Rondthaler has had made a special bookplate. The bookplate has a picture of the Bishop's Home and has the following words, "From the Library of Edward Rondthaler." This distinction adds to the importance of these books in the library.

Doubt whom you will, but never yourself.—Bowie.

Govern the lips as they were palaces, doors, the king within; the tranquil and fair and courteous be all words which from that presence win.—Sir Edwin Arnold.

SALEM GRADUATE BRIDE OF HOLIDAYS

Saturday afternoon, December 29, 1933, at the residence of Dr. Howard E. Rondthaler, Miss Mary Ayres Payne, of Taylorsville, and Mr. Leroy Campbell, of Hickory, were united in marriage. Dr. Rondthaler performed the ceremony, the familiar ring ceremony being used.

Only Dr. and Mrs. Rondthaler were present at the time, and the vows were spoken before the lighted Christmas tree. After the ceremony, light refreshments were served by Mrs. Rondthaler.

Mrs. Campbell is a graduate of Salem College, having received her degree of Bachelor of Science in 1931. Since then, she has held a position as county supervisor in home demonstration in Hidenite, N. C.

SALEM COLLEGE PSYCHOLOGY CLUB TO HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The second meeting of the newly formed Psychology Club will be held on Thursday evening, January 11, at 7:00 o'clock in the Recreation Room of the Louisa Wilson Bitting Building. Dr. J. P. Farrington of Winston-Salem will speak on the topic of "An Introduction to the Problem of Mental Disorders." This meeting will be in the form of an open forum meeting and visitors are welcome.

DO YOU ATTEND THE "W" TEAS?

Every Sunday afternoon the Y. W. C. A. gives tea for the students and faculty of the college. Some of the people who live here on the campus have not been going to these teas. Until they get the habit of teating on Sunday afternoon, they will not know what they have been missing.

Always the Recreation Room of Louisa Wilson Bitting is in its most cheerful mood. On the table is a bowl of flowers; often there is a sparkling fire in the fireplace. A group of young Salem girls are going back and forth, carrying plates of good things to eat. There is music and an atmosphere of friendship. The social event makes a nice break on the afternoon that may be filled with monotonous study. It helps curb the desire to get out and away from school and study. It adds a bit of brightness to a week-end that otherwise might have been dull.

Everyone who wends her way to the tea next Sunday afternoon between four and five o'clock will find a bit of pleasure awaiting her. Come. It will do you good and help you too, not to mention the benefits you will derive.

McDougall showed his general experimental work. Visit to the new Duke University Hospital, 2:30-4:00 o'clock; St. Joseph, Dix Hill (Raleigh). Clinic to be conducted by Dr. Julian Ashby. Types to be presented include the two phases of Manic Depressive Psychosis and several forms of Dementia Praecox.
7:00 o'clock: Winston-Salem.

WHAT ARE YOU READ- ING IN YOUR SPARE TIME?

Freshmen, Juniors and Seniors, what are you reading in your spare time? I needn't ask the Sophomores, for evidences show, both in the Library and in their general conversation, that they are reading books by such authors as Cather, Galsworthy, Hayward, and Canfield for material for those much talked of term papers. But as soon as their run on the fiction in the Library is over, perhaps it would be well to refresh our crowded brains. If you have only a small amount of spare time, why not try some short stories over at the library? There you will find a good collection of periodicals. Last, after all this, you might sample the literary matter in the "Salemite."

Following is a list of selected books:
Bellamy, Edward—Looking Backward, prepared by Atwood H. Townsend, Ph. D. of New York University.

19th Century American Fiction
Cooper, James Fenimore—The Deerslayer,
Cooper, James Fenimore—The Last of the Mohicans.

Cooper, James Fenimore—The Spy.
Crane, Stephen—Maggie and Other Stories. The best short stories of this interesting realistic writer of the 90's.
Eggleston, Edward—The Hoosier Schoolmate. A perennial favorite about the Indiana backwoods in pioneer days.

Harte, Bret—The Luck of Roaring Camp.
Harte, Bret—Tales of the West.
Hawthorne, Nathaniel—The House of Seven Gables. Novel of sinister inherited influences on an old New England family.

Hawthorne, Nathaniel—The Scarlet Letter. An American classic of a Puritan conscience and the penalty of a secret sin.
Hawthorne, Nathaniel—Tales (various volumes).

Irving, Washington—Katkerbocker's History of New York. A burlesque history of early New York that will make you chuckle.

Irving, Washington—The Sketch Book. A series of delightful romantic sketches, including "Rip Van Winkle."

James, Henry—Daisy Miller. An independent American girl in conflict with European tradition.

Melville, Herman—Moby Dick. An epic of whaling and an avenged search for a man-killing whale.
Melville, Herman—Typee. The first and one of the best novels about the seductive South Sea Islands.

Poe, Edgar Allan—Tales. Po stands supreme as a weaver of tales of weird horror and mystery.

Stowe, Harriet Beecher—Uncle Tom's Cabin. A remarkably interesting novel exposing the evils of negro slavery.

Twain, Mark—The Adventures of Tom Sawyer. Hilarious story of boyhood, and vivid record of picturesque old Missouri.

Wallace, Lew—Ben Hur.
Westcott, Edward Noyes—Daniel Harrow. A keen, but warm-hearted horse trader in a lively human story.
