

FASHION SHOW

VOL. XIV.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1934.

Number 20.

CONCERT

Winston's Ice Storm Plays Have Destruction In Wake of Storm

Destruction Lies In Wake of Storm

King Winter just missed attending the sophomore Ball Saturday night by a few minutes. He brought his snow-men as an extra treat, but one which turned out disastrously. Sunday morning found the ground covered with ice and snow and trees bending by a few minutes. The sleet and rain continued to fall all day, so that by night many trees began to crack under the strain. Electric wires sagged. The ice turned the campus into a crystal fairyland but the destruction began. Trees on lower campus and especially on the square lost tops and big limbs. Electric wires were pulled down and the current went off for a while, causing a great many shakings from mannequins girls left suddenly in the dark and deprived of Eddie Cantor's humor. Later a thunder storm, with a great deal of lightning caused many windows to be broken and trees to be uprooted. The power plant over on the hill sent up brilliant flashes, at times a vivid glow. Street cars at Louisa Biting had several green sparks to fly from the joy wires.

Members of the faculty and student body, as well as visitors to the campus, had a hard time getting in and out. Certain entries at Louisa Biting had much trouble getting their cars turned around back of Society, so they could come to the driveway under the arch, since the main street in front of the other drive was blocked by fallen trees and wires. It is true that some Davidson boys who were visiting Clewett got stranded.

Monday the sun came out and melted the ice rapidly. But that did not help matters much in the way of repairing damaged lines. All telephones, telegraph and electric wires were out of commission. Small wonder when Miss Lewis the story of two girls who undertook to get back from Charlotte. The trip consumed seven hours with frequent stops to cut wires and chop away poles that obstructed the road. Monday night the college had dinner out because of the electric current was off. Miss Lawrence supplied the picture-show which was able to run on its own power. The others had parties by candle-light and fire light. Gentlemen were entertained in Biting and in Clewett in the living-room by candle-light.

Tuesday Winston was able to come on with Reynolds. Priests and nuns, so lights were on in the dormitories, to the sorrow of lady people who did not want to wear black. The telegraph wires were still not working. Winston was cut off entirely from the outside world. The amateur Radio Club of Winston held 24 hour service Sunday night and Monday. Charlotte, however, has kept open the only outside connection. This service was able only to take care of death messages and other important business transactions. The college is grateful to this group of young men for the helpful service which they rendered.

DINING ROOM RULES MUST BE ENFORCED

The following rules in the Salem College handbook have been broken by a number of the students:

1. Neither food, dishes, silver nor glasses may be carried from the dining room.
2. No girl can come late to meals. The following is the correct schedule:
 - Cafeteria Breakfast 7:30-8:15
 - Cafeteria Lunch 12:30-1:45
 - Dinner 5:00-6:00
3. No student is permitted in the kitchen without my permission.
4. No student is permitted to eat and cannot come to a meal, a friend may get the meal for her by asking either Miss Lawrence, Miss Liggins or me for permission. This must be done by the time when food is taken from the dining room.

Moravians Celebrate Washington's Birthday

Pictures Taken at Salem on Washington's Bicentennial Are Shown

On February 22, the Home Moravian Church had a social get-together for its members. Bishop and Mrs. Pfohl and others of the church greeted the guests as they arrived.

During the first part of the evening, a patriotic picture, "The Snows" was shown. This depicted the life of the time of the Revolutionary War. Aside from the love story of the heroine were scenes in which Washington and his soldiers appeared. The Father of the Country was shown talking to Betty Ross about the making of the first flag. On her asking how he conceived the pattern he replied that the idea came to him as he looked through a window at the sky. The sunburst streaming through the bars resembled the stripes. Then he thought of the stars that lay in the deep blue sky of the night.

After this reel was shown, pictures taken at Salem at the Washington Bicentennial were shown. The shops along the main street were seen, the arrival of First President George Washington at Salem, the shops along the main street were seen, the arrival of First President George Washington at Salem, the shops along the main street were seen, the arrival of First President George Washington at Salem.

Music Hour Features Junior Department

Children Play Interesting Recital

At the Thursday afternoon Music Hour, the children of the Junior Department of the School of Music performed. Some of the children are pupils of the students of the normal training class. The children performed in the recital, violin and piano numbers, follows:

Lament.....Moravian Folk Song
The Little Bugler.....MacLachlan
The Rosewood.....Thompson
In the Rocking Chair.....Crosby Adams
Ruth Stone

Chorale.....Eichberg
William Pudgett
Swaying Bougys.....Chitenden
Gladys Chamberlain
Betty Tucker
Monk Glow.....Gaynor Blake
Turkey in the Straw.....Folk Song
Climbing.....Nancy Nunn
Piano Pickaninny.....MacLachlan
In the Rain.....Tim Cahill
Dance Lightly.....Jessie Gaynor
The Grasshopper.....Swift
June Reid
Eskimo Lullaby.....Gaynor Blake
Cello.....1934

Pickaninny March.....Annie Cobb
John Lewis Fishel
Minuet.....Ben Cahill
Brother Woodpecker.....Bael
Peasant Dance.....Gaynor Blake
Edith Foster
Romance (Tannhauser).....Wagner
Julian Pate
Barcarole.....Gaynor Blake
Scherzino.....Doris Shore
Jane Tucker Doenhoff
Circus Pony.....Lively
Joe Conrad
Tarentelle.....Krentalin
Marjorie Porter Haydn
Allegro in G.....Haydn
Rosemary Nunn
Elfin Dance.....Greig
Prelude in F Major
Prelude in F Major Forest.....Bach
Muriel Dicks
Somersault.....Gaynor Blake
Mary Ann Paschel

Queen Vest and King Campbell Crowned at Sophomore Ball

Dance and Floor Show Proclaimed Huge Success

King Probie and Queen Mirth of Happy Land, alias King Roy Campbell and Queen Sally Vest, respectively, of Salem College, reigned supreme at the Sophomore Ball held Saturday the 24th at 7:30 P. M. The most illustrious and renowned attendants of Her Highness and His Dittio were Miss Rachel Bray, Maid of Honor, and Dean Charles Varde, Gentleman of Honor. Other members of the court were Mrs. "Bud" Dumas, Misses Cokey Preston and Anne Shuford, escorted in the royal retinue by Dr. Donahay, and Messrs. Downs and Curlee. Master Bully Downs acted as Mirror Bearer and Misses Frances Hill Norris and Alice Guertan, as pages.

The King and Queen, garbed in royal raiment, held court over in the palatial ball-room, familiarly known as the Hut. At one end of the dancing, mirror-like floor set off the benign and smiling majesty. Gay streamers of yellow, blue, white and floral over the heads of the loyal subjects who, previous to the coronation, danced to the music furnished by a big orchestra. At the other end of the ball room was a stage, with hand-kerchiefs and a newly constructed for the auspicious occasion, upon which a delightful floor show was presented by the presence of His and Her Highnesses. The first number on the program, charmingly introduced by Misses the Honorable, Master (I) of Ceremonies, was a highly amusing skit presented by the members of the Glee Ring, beautifully rendered by Miss Lucy James, followed by "In Other Words We're Not in Love" by the previously mentioned Miss Bondholder in the process of being spurred by Miss "Niece" Henderson. The last number was sung by Miss Mary Mills, in mannish attire, "On the Wrong Side of the Moon," and ably assisted in pantomime by Misses Dot Courtney and Margaret Wall, on the part of an unknown right side of the fence.

MISSES LAWRENCE AND RIGGAN ENTERTAIN AT TEA FOR STUDENTS

On Thursday, February 22, from four to five the Potpourri Fancie Practice House was visited with the old Colonial spirit of George Washington's time when Misses Lawrence and Riggan were home to the boarding students.

Miss Lawrence and Miss McAnnamell, who have moved into the living room where they were introduced to the Katherine Hanes and then rejoyiced by Miss Fuller, Waverly and Blair. After being allowed to enjoy (Continued on Page Three)

IN MEMORIAM

Virginia Malette Welch, member of the class of 1928 and a devoted and loyal alumna of Salem College, passed away on February 22, 1934.

While at Salem she was a popular and prominent member of the student body. She took an active interest in athletics and participated in all sports on campus and varsity teams. For three years she was the College Cheerleader. In her junior year she was elected by the W. C. A. as chairman of the I. R. S. council and the advertising staff of Slights and Installs.

Since her graduation she has been a successful teacher of history in Greensville High School and also served as athletic director. This year her health failed.

Her husband, Mr. Babble Way, is now a junior at Salem College.

The new athletic field is for her and for her mother in whose memory she presented funds for the initial work on the field.

Her husband, Mr. Babble Way, is now a junior at Salem College. The new athletic field is for her and for her mother in whose memory she presented funds for the initial work on the field.

I. R. S. Council Entertains Academy Seniors at Dinner

Joseph Levine Given Enthusiastic Reception

Phi Mu Alpha Presents Pianist at Chapel Hill

Alpha Rho Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia presented Josef Lhevinne, pianist, in recital on Wednesday night, February 21, at 8:30. The concert was given in Memorial Hall at the University of North Carolina, before a great crowd of music lovers. Mr. Lhevinne is the third great artist to be brought to the University of North Carolina, whose purpose it is to establish ultimately, from the benefits of these distinguished scholars, the University who called enthusiastically for encore after encore, with which the artist graciously complied.

Mr. Lhevinne, a real artist in the true sense of the word, gave a warm and appreciative interpretation of each selection on his program. His beautiful tone and expression won for him the complete approval and enthusiastic applause of the listeners who called enthusiastically for encore after encore, with which the artist graciously complied.

Mr. Lhevinne's final encore was his lovely "Blue Danube Waltz," which he played with perfect mastery. (Continued on Page Three)

Mrs. Yvonne Johnson Discusses German Art

Exhibit Here Delightfully Described in Chapel

Mrs. Yvonne Johnson, who is traveling with the Carl Schurz art exhibit, gave an interesting lecture Wednesday Feb. 28, at 1 P. M. Mrs. Johnson stated that the Carl Schurz Foundation was begun in 1929 and that in 1929 several American citizens gave money so that the work begun might be carried on.

By the exhibit the last fifty years of modern German art are represented. Modern art is deeply rooted in classicism. In the early part of the nineteenth century, Turner, who had studied art in the conservatory, school broke away from the realm of reality and began what was known as impressionistic art. This was experimented with, but was broken up and not blended. Several other artists took up Turner's work and formed the group called Le Salon de Refuses. Their work was not regarded as art. To fully appreciate its beauty it is necessary to view it at a distance and exhibit the last fifty years of German impressionistic art was classical at first as well. In 1847 Max Liebermann began the German school. He too experimented with color. In the exhibit etchings before the school in 1867 by Kollwitz who has a style of her own. Her works are typical of her interest in the human race and its work.

In the twentieth century an entirely new phase of art developed, which was concerned to several groups. At first came the futurists who painted, or tried to paint, pictures of the future. One of the big features of these is a picture entitled "Cabaret Scene" which is a jumble of furniture, people and conflicts.

Next came cubism. It was begun by a Spaniard whose works were composed entirely of cubes, triangles and such geometric figures.

The expressionist school follows. This is probably the greatest type of modern art. The painter got away from the actual portrayal of nature and tries to paint an idea, a thought or an emotion. One of the pictures of this type is named "City." Instead of actually painting a city the artist tries to give a man's reaction to the noise and confusion thus presenting a picture of a distorted city in which sorrow is clearly depicted.

The abstract form of art is next. This is the type that represents years of searching which finally forms itself into a composition which may be considered to music. It is a prophetic, visionary type.

The newest movement in Germany is the Bauhaus-arture art. This need not be explained. It is a new way that the wheel of art seems to be coming to a complete turn and is now back at its beginning.

Grand Fashion Show Is Final Feature

Salem Girls Model New Spring Showings of Stores

Station I. R. S. located at Salem College—Ladies and gentlemen, we have a special treat for you tonight. Our broadcast will come first from the main dining-room and later from Memorial Hall.

As I look about this beautifully decorated room where the I. R. S. Council is entertaining the Academy seniors at a formal dinner, I see many attractive faces and beautiful gowns. The hostesses and guests are seated at a long table in the center of the room. Miss Katharine Laster, president of the I. R. S. is now giving a welcome toast to the guests. That clicking, ladies and gentlemen, comes from the flying feet of Miss Beverly and Miss, who are executing an intricate tap-dance. In one moment that golden soprano, Miss Lucy James, will step up to the microphone to greet you with song.

We are now to meet the distinguished guests, present in introduction made by the hostesses.

We regret that this delightful phase of the program, which we have to go on to Memorial Hall. Music has been furnished by Miss Susan Kirk and Miss, this is an occasion you should not miss for only ten cents. The big style showings of the year. Fifty models, including sportswear, street dress, afternoon frocks and dinner gowns! The leading stores of our city have brought down their finest clothes.

Representing the Anchor Store are two of our renowned beauties: the lovely blond Marguerite Goodman and the Titian-haired Mary Lou Berry.

Craven's fashions are shown by that gorgeous and well-known beautiful Miss Helen Penn. With her is another fair Titian-haired beauty, Miss Katharine Laster.

David's presents handsome Miss Isabel Pollock (also a Titian hair) and that petite copy of Miriam Hopkins, Miss Mildred Hawkins.

The Ideal is ably represented by the famous altitud, famous also for her beautiful eyes, Miss Virginia Fraley and Miss Julia Clark.

This is Station I. R. S. signing off, thank you!

HONOR ROLL

The following students have made an average of A—(90) or above:

Senior Class
Eleanor Carter, Miss C. C. Sarah Orth, Miss C. C. Alice Patterson, Russellville, Tenn. George Stormont, Winston-Salem, N. C. Jean Stough, Davidson, N. C.

Junior Class
Sarah Cahill, Winston-Salem, N. C. Elizabeth Gray, Winston-Salem, N. C. Edna Higgins, Winston-Salem, N. C. Margaret McLean, Mount Airy, N. C. Mary Ann Ahoskie, N. C.

Freshman Class
Virginia Gann, Winston-Salem, N. C. Mabel Hendrix, Winston-Salem, N. C. Lucy James, Greenville, N. C. Ruth Kuykendall, Winston-Salem, N. C. Jean Robinson, Lowell, N. C. Anne Withler, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Frank C. Campbell, Winston-Salem, N. C. Shannon Davis, Vancouver, B. C. Josephine Whitehead, Rocky Mount, N. C.

The following students made an average of B plus.

Senior Class
(Continued on Page Three)