

EVERY MANNEQUIN KNOWS THAT

ELABORATE FABRICS USED IN SIMPLE DAYTIME CLOTHES

One might think in looking at this year's fabrics that old Kind Midas had had a finger in the manufacture of nearly all materials. Not only do velvets, silks, satins and chiffons have a glint of gold (and silver) that makes them "extra-special," but even wools glisten with unexpected spots and lines that change their character entirely.

Perhaps in some cases the thing is overdone, but on the whole, metal threads and metal cloths have been used with taste and discretion. One finds the simplest of spectator sports clothes, carefully tailored and of good design, made more interesting because of a tiny check or fleck of gold which is just discernable yet quite effective. Even in knitted frocks, in some instances, giving them more versatility and greater usefulness.

SUITS CLIMB SLOWLY INTO THE FASHION PICTURE

It's amazing that it has taken suits about five years to really arrive. A whole new generation has grown up since the days of the tailored suit, since they were an essential part of every wardrobe. And now suits are just getting back to that place, in spite of the fact that they've been "coming in" for the at least five years.

It looks like this will really be a suit season. Not that women will often buy a suit in addition this year. You'll find them wearing suits just about as much as dresses with coats, especially for street, general town use, and for the country and spectator sports.

Peter II, the eleven-year-old son of the dead King, will rule Yugoslavia under a regency of three people until he comes of age. His great uncle, Prince Paul Karageorgevitch, will head the regency, and his grandmother, the Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania is a member of the regency.

HAUPTMANN TRIAL UNDER WAY

Bruno Hauptmann, the murderer of the first-born Lindbergh baby, began his fight to escape the electric chair last Monday. Extradition proceedings are being instituted against him by the New Jersey authorities who want him for trial in Hunterdon County. If he wins, he will have to stand trial in Bronx County, New York, on charges of extorting $50,000 ransom money from Lindbergh. Faw-

Getting yourself up, and food down all at the same time is a feat which even the versatile Salemites have trouble in performing. But one either has to attempt this gulpingly extraordinary stunt, or else leave that last choice bit of cake, and with a watering mouth and almost watering eyes, rush out of the dining room behind your table. Sometimes a supernatural—or rather abnormal—person dares to suggest that we leave before the dessert is served and then adds some bright remark about the ice cream's relationship to frozen milk and sugar. All of which, to say the least, is most annoying and ill-bred.

Still nothing is more vexing than having to sit and watch the girl across from you linger with enjoyment over her ice cream when you are resisting in interest of your figure and complexion, or to hear someone rave between bites about last week-end when you are dying to get back to your room, or to see someone eat with the deliberation of a snail when you are squirming to go to that 1:30 meeting, or to see someone calmly butter her sixth roll when you are suffering from the effects of a fulfilling mission to Welfare's.

But no matter how impatient one is, out of ordinary politeness one ought to let one's friends finish in peace, and consider those girls who aren't interested in reducing and meetings, and those who do not have the financial resources with which to get a sandwich and hope before dinner, or to go to the "Y" store at night in an attempt to appease the Salem appetite.

So although college life isn't conducive to thoughtfulness of others, we can do our part in trying to make meal time a time of pleasure and relaxation for other girls by merely avoiding hurrying yourself and others through meals.

Ask some of the girls what kind of answers they get to questions like "What is a noun?" From what we can gather the answers range from "A noun is that part of a sentence that always waits till the end to show up." and "It's noun of your business." Look for the list of boners brought home by the enthusiastic practice teachers.

In conclusion, Dr. Rondthaler told some incidents concerning Salem and the Civil War; how Salem was saved by the President's recognizing a boyhood friend in a Union officer, and how Salem's two black horses were saved by being hidden in a room under Main Hall.

NEWS FROM FIELD AND STREAM

Stream Nearly Frozen Over

Would you like to visit an ice-cream factory (with a handsome — for guide)? Would you like to balance yourself on a brick wall, or pick flowers along a woody lane or walk arm in arm with your best friend while you watch the changing colors of the setting sun?

If you do want to have some real fun, if you want to trim off your figure for a certain week-end, or if you want to raise your athletic points—join Libby Torrence and her hikers. In the past two weeks they've gone on three hikes and according to Eleanor Watkins' pedometer the girls averaged three miles a hike. The destinations aren't premeditated, but judging from the last hikes, they seem not only worth while (synonym:—refreshments) but also interesting and instructional. The hikers have already seen Washington Park with all its pretty autumn colors, and they have explored Granville School and its surroundings. Last Friday they went through the Southern Dairies ice cream plant where their hiking days would have ended if they had been shut up one minute longer in the refrigerating room. After their tour through the plant they were treated with delicious "Paddle Pops."

If you want to "get in" on all this fun, listen and watch carefully for Libby's announcements.

Father Sage Says:

There are two successes that are not achieved by beginning at the bottom: Digging a well and learning to swim.

Salem girls have enjoyed their swimming season under the supervision of Cokey Preston, Grace Carpenter and Frances Hill Norris. The girls passing life tests are Agnes Brown, Louise Frazier, Jane Norvel, Elizabeth Piper and Eleanor Watkins.

Swimmers are requested to come to the pool equipped with ice picks. Special lessons in under-ice swimming will be given at request.

Girls!—No more carrying on. Aren't you glad? Does it seem possible that the time has really come? Remember from the beginning never to turn on the ball or make sticks. And start right now to keep in training—we have a lot to do in a very little time. Freshmen, come down to the Hockey field any or every afternoon from four to five and learn to play the most exciting, and the most refreshing game that there is.
