

MR. McNEW SPEAKS TO EDUCATION CLASS

Friday, May 17, Mr. E. K. McNew spoke to the Education 3 Class on the teaching of Latin in high schools. Mr. McNew is recognized as one of the State's best teachers of Latin, and was head of the Language Department at Richard J. Reynolds High School for several years. Mr. McNew is now principal of Old Town School.

Mr. McNew reviewed in a very comprehensive manner, the origin and growth of the English language. He said that everything we do is from force of habit and that slipshod methods in language are very bad habits. Language, he stated, is not an end in itself—it is a means to an end. The way to teach Latin is to make the students love it and then they will learn it. The equipment necessary to teach any subject is a knowledge of the subject, rich personal experience, and association with other teachers and their techniques. Language, Mr. McNew ended by saying, is a glorious thing, and the more you know of a language the more you will radiate and make others want to know.

INSTALLATION SERVICE HELD BY SALEM ACADEMY

A lovely installation service was held at Salem Academy, Sunday night, May 19. Lady Kate Allen presided and the girls sang for their opening song, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Jean Gray Scott read the scripture and was followed by Ruth Green who led in prayer. The beautiful hymn, "Living For Jesus," was sung by Margaret Vardell and Rebecca Nifong. Mrs. Rondthaler was introduced by Miss Allen as the representative of Salem ideals and with her candle she lit all the candles held by the new officers who are: Dot Everett, President; Ora Holt Long, Vice-President, Jacqueline Ray, Sarah McCanless, Betty McNaire, Jane Norvell, and Rose Willingham. Everyone present lit her candle from the lights of the officers. Dot Everett then gave a short talk urging the girls to hold Salem ideals high. After the song, "Follow the Gleam," Mrs. Rondthaler closed the meeting with a consecration prayer.

"THEY DON'T GET YOUR WIND" ATHLETES SAY

LOU GEHRIG has played in more than 1500 consecutive big league games. Such an athletic achievement takes "wind"—healthy nerves—"condition." Lou says: "For steady smoking I pick Camels. They're so mild they never get my 'wind' or my nerves."

So mild, athletes smoke as many as they please—and that's real mildness!

Of course you want mildness in a cigarette. And the athletes—to whom "wind," healthy nerves, "condition" are vitally important—insist on mildness.

Lou Gehrig, baseball's "Iron Man," says: "Camels are so mild they never get my 'wind.'" George Barker, intercollegiate cross-country champion, says: "Camels are so mild, they don't cut my 'wind' in any way." Bobby Walthour, Jr., star of the six-day bike grinds, says: "I've got to have 'wind' in bike racing. For my cigarette I long ago chose Camels."

Tommy Armour, speaking for the golf stars, Bruce Barnes for tennis, and Betty Bailey for the aquatic sports—all agree: "Camels don't get your 'wind.'"

What this mildness means to you!... It means you can smoke as many Camels as you please. Athletes say Camel's costlier tobaccos never disturb your nerves—never tire your taste—never get your "wind."
