PERSONALS

Martha McNair spent last week-end at her home in Laurinburg.

Mary Nelson Anderson spent the week-end at her home in Mocksville. Did you meet any cute salesmen, Mary Nelson?

Lib Rankin and Annette McNeely spent the week-end at their homes in Mooresville.

We hope Corinne Pate had a life guard for Bessie Reid Shipp who spent the week-end with Corinne at her home in Rowland.

McArn Best, Agnes Brown, Eleanor Watkins and Louise Prazier, Willena Couch, Miss Atkinson, attended an Athletic Conference at William and Mary College last week-end.

Virginia Foy and Edith Binder spent the week-end at their homes in Mount Airy and Bessie Lou Bray spent Sunday there.

Alice Horsfield spent the week-end in Burlington.

Covington Cole, Virginia Neely and Marianna Redding went to Charlotte for the day, Sunday.

Frances Kale spent the week-end at her home in Troutman.

Wonder if Wilda Mae missed not going to the "Clubhouse" last week-end, 'cause she went home to Salisbury.

Anne Johnson spent the week-end in Mayodan, her home.

Eloise Sample and Evelyn McCarty spent Sunday in Lincolnton.

Grace Whitsett spent the week-end at her home in Reidsville and breezed in carrying a bee-ootiful box of candy—what a sweet man!

Janet Stimpson spent the week-end at her home in Pfafftown.

Ellen Watlington and Hattie King Wray spent the week-end with Frances Watlington.

Edith McLean had Frances Rains as her guest for the week-end.

Mavis Bullock and Dorothy Craig spent the week-end with Mary Daniel.

Virginia Crumpler, Arnice Topp and Eleanor Watkins, day students, spent the week-end on the campus.

Katherine Snead spent the week-end at her home in Greensboro.

These lucky girls went to Davidson last week-end: Sarah Thompson, Louise Preas, Jean Robinson, Mildred Troxler, Etta Burt Warren, Peggy Brawley, Marianna Hooks, Josephine Whitehead. Garnelle Raney was one of the sponsors for the dance.

I SAW, BUT NOT THRU A KEYHOLE

What little girl snaked on one of her friends last week for a trip to Davidson with J. O. Maybe it's because Marjorie's in the practice house.

I hear Agnes didn't get a bite to eat at William and Mary because she was busy flirting with the waiter.

Our little Jean has turned chauffeur. Why, Jean?

Nancy doesn't like to sit on dogs. Is it I. R. S. or just the wrong man on the other side?

Why was Garnelle hanging around the living room at 9:15 p. m., dressed to go out? Maybe his mother made him stay home and study.

V. T.'s heart throb called the other night and she was too excited to go to the phone. Maybe she was listening to the radio.

DAY STUDENT PERSONALS

It's State again! This week-end Marian Mitchell is going to Raleigh to attend the Pledge Dances. More power to you, Marian!—and A. H.

Have you heard (or seen) of the new Spinsters Club. Apparently it is a social club and somewhat secret, but we will find out. Some of the members are: Martha Coons, Catherine Smith, Louise Blum, Jeannette Sawyer, Dorothy Lashmit, Katherine Sissell, Melrose Hendrix, and Jane Nading. Watch out for them!

Kate Pratt and Ellen Moore went to Davidson to the game last Saturday.

I don't suppose I have to tell you that Oak Ridge was in town Monday and that they were given a ball by the American Legion at the Robert E. Lee Hotel. Salem girls seen there were: Jane Nading, Louise Blum, Rebecca Bodenheimer and Katherine Bellamy.

MAC RICHEY OF DUKE SPEAKS AT Y. P. M.

I'd gotten used to the life, and knew that Ruth would remember, and wait for me? I really thought it was splendid — that this was the war to end war, a crusade for peace and brotherhood. It seemed funny to fight for peace, and to kill for brotherhood; but those that ought to know about such things — presidents and congressmen and ministers — they told me so, and I believed, and I was glad. And when that grenade exploded in the trenches, and I saw my hands were gone, and life was going, I said to myself, 'It's all right, boy. You've done your bit. This war's the last war. They'll never do this sort of thing again. You're dead, or as good as dead; but other men, through all the centuries to come, will live.' And I remembered something I'd learned in Sunday School — 'and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. But they shall sit every man under his own vine and fig-tree, and none shall make them afraid.' "

"That's what I died for, or thought I died for," said the Soldier. 'But look at things now! The same world, the same armies and navies, the same insecurity and fear, the same hatreds and suspicions and preparations for war — and the same superstition in the hearts of men that it's noble to fight and heroic to kill for one's country. Kill, mind you, not die! We soldiers were drafted by the nation not to die but to kill. The dying was accidental; the killing intentional. That's the whole business of war — to kill! But whether dying or killing, either way, it's a lie. I know it's a lie, for I've seen God. But you don't believe it — you people who haven't died, and who haven't seen God. You won't believe it. And for all the ten millions of us who were shot, and bayoneted, and gassed, and blown to bits, you go right on in the same old way, hallowing war and making a brave and splendid show. And you even have the indendency to use me and my grave to fool your children, as we were fooled before them, as our fathers were fooled before us, as all men have been fooled from the beginning.' "

"How long, O Lord, how long, before mankind shall see that war is the blackest lie in hell!" "

How many soldiers died like that? How many thought they were making the world a safe place to live in, a place for brotherhood and peaceful living?

Peace is something that has law and order behind it, and to make peace successful it must be planned and organized. The seeds of war are sown in times of peace, and are nurtured and cultivated. Why not plant, nurture and cultivate Peace? The work of individuals will be needed; of those who are well-informed, intelligent, and devoted to the cause of peace. It will be the work of a small minority, but if this minority works intelligently, it will leaven the whole lot. Mentally and psychologically it will be a fight — against tradition, against established ways of thinking and living. It is a big challenge to individuals, and time, thought and energy will have to be devoted to the cause; and although the results seem exceedingly small now, and the task almost hopeless, the future generations will realize the fruits of the seeds of Peace that are sown today.

I. R. S. TO SPONSOR SCAVENGER HUNT

Saturday night if you're naively asked whether you possess a hair from a white horse's tail, control yourself. Or if you're accosted with a demand for your sweetest love letter, seek protection in a dark corner, because the supposedly idiots are merely participants in the I. R. S. Scavenger Hunt. But if you're the owner of such unusual articles as red underwear, false teeth, feather from a cross-eyed chicken, or an educated worm keep them under lock and key.

The hounds will start baying at 8:30 o'clock and the hunt will begin shortly after. Come armed with a flash light and a piercing eye.

PEACE EXHIBIT IN LIBRARY

No doubt you have noticed the table in the library headed, "War, no profit, no glory, no need." This exhibit ties in with the peace talks which we have been hearing in chapel during the past week, and the books and pamphlets illustrate not only the disastrous effects of war on nearly every phase of our everyday life, but also the determined movements in the United States against it, many of them led by our college students. There is one little booklet of especial force which is entitled "Arguments for War," and contains nothing but blank pages. Spend some of your spare time in examining the books and articles which Miss Jerome has so interestingly arranged, and the bibliography which she has compiled on World Peace. We are sure that your time will not be wasted, and we hope that you will be inspired to an even greater personal effort to prevent war.

Bright light from the columnist in University of Illinois paper: "Sing Sing ought to get a game with Army to prove that the pen is mightier than the sword."

ANNIVERSARY LOVE FEAST AT HOME MORAVIAN CHURCH

At three o'clock on Sunday afternoon, November 10, a love feast celebrating the 164th anniversary of the Moravian Church was held at the Home Church. The guest speaker was Mr. F. W. Grabs, member of the Provincial Board of the Moravian Church, from Bethania. During the serving of the traditional buns and coffee the choir sang three beautiful anthems: "Glorious Forever," by Rachmaninoff, "Lord of Hosts," and "Ring of Love," which was composed by Dean Vardell. The benediction was pronounced by the Reverend Conrad Shimes, a visiting missionary from Nicaragua.

Sixty-two students at Medical College of Virginia are now working on FERA jobs.
