

SHAKESPEARE IN MINIATURE

An event of almost universal interest will be the taming of a wooden wild woman" on the stage of a theatre supposed to be more than 300 years old — this to take place on Thursday, Jan. 14th at 8:00 o'clock p. m. Now that you have had the first out-landish sentence, and ballyhoo can be dropped and made out of apparent foolishness.

The Ardmore School is presenting "Tatterman Marionettes (wooden woman), in the "Taming of the Shrew" on Thursday night, January 14th, on the stage of a tiny production of the original Globe Theatre in Stratford-on-Avon.

The Globe Theatre may be found entering the Reynolds Auditorium, Winston-Salem, on the said date of January 14th (Thursday), at 8:00 o'clock p. m. — with 25 cents in the hand.

The 14th is not too near examination time for Salem girls to disregard the opportunity to see Shakespeare's taming comedy staged in miniature in his own little theatre.

PAGES FROM A HOLIDAY DIARY

Sunday—my first day home and Tom hasn't even phoned yet. Thought I'd see him at the drug this afternoon, but I guess he's out with that dizzy blonde again. Hope he saw me tonight with Bill.

Monday—Blue Monday is right! Still raining, but even nasty weather couldn't dampen my spirits for the dance tonight. Never had so much fun in all my life. Gosh! but it's wonderful seeing all the old crowd. Ed looked perfect in his uniform.

Tuesday—Got very ritzy tonight and went to the swankiest night-club in town with Jerry. He was all decked out in tails and I had on a new pleated chiffon. Hope this good time keeps up, but I'm not as optimistic as I used to be.

Wednesday — Entertained myself by going Christmas shopping. Came home worn out from riding people on my feet all day. Went to a most exciting hen party tonight and shocked all of the girls to death by announcing that I was ready to get married as soon as I found the right man. They think I'm either nuts or in love. Same difference.

Thursday—Got very domestic and made some cookies, fixed the tree, and decorated the house. Left a marvelous party to go to midnight mass. First time I've ever been and I looked awfully queer with a handkerchief on my head, but I'm so glad I went. Can't realize that another Christmas has come.

Friday—This was truly the most wonderful Christmas I've ever had. Mother and Daddy gave me the airplane luggage I've always wanted and Tom, the sweet thing, broke down and presented me with an adorable watch. Went with him to the big dance and had more fun. Played our favorite piece 4 times.

Sunday—Week-End pretty dull, but we had fun at Jane's dinner tonight. That sister of mine nearly ruined the day by playing "dress-up" all afternoon in my new slipper satin, but it's still in one-piece. She also greeted Tom at the door with "What did ya pay for sister's watch? Tain't very big." Needless to say, she's eating from the mantle now.

Wednesday—Have been to a dance every night and each one is better than the other. Met the cutest boy who's visiting Sara's brother. He's really good-looking and has been grand to me at all the dances. Have a date with him for tomorrow night.

Thursday—Never have I had such a divine time as I had tonight with Ross. Started the fun at a big dinner party, then moved to the club and danced there till midnight. Drifted from there to two other dances and finally got in at—; Well, at least I beat the milkman in!

Sunday—Went to the last dance last night with Ross and had the

DEAN VARDELL IS CHAPEL SPEAKER

First Y. P. M. of the New Year

Dean Charles G. Vardell, Jr., was the speaker at the first Y. P. M. of the year, Wednesday morning. He told of his recent trip to Chicago where he attended the meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music. Salem College is a member of the Association and Dean Vardell was elected one of the Vice-Presidents.

The meeting lasted four days, with nearly 1,400 delegates present.

Dr. Studebaker was one of the important speakers. He told of a plan now being considered in Washington to establish a department of music and arts, in connection with the department of education. Delegates attended a "practice rehearsal" by amateur musicians who are being trained to play in large symphony orchestras.

Members of the Association visited the beautiful University of Chicago Chapel. Here they heard a sermon by Dean Gilky, who discussed the part which music and architecture plays in religion. A program including a cappella choir singing, organ music and carillon chimes, was given.

ERIKA MARX TO BE MARRIED

Mrs. Herman B. Marx announced the engagement of her daughter, Erika, to McMurray S. Richey, of San Bentto, Texas, at a party at her home in Nazareth, Pa.

Erika graduated from Salem last year. While here, she was president of the Y. W. C. A., member of the varsity hockey, basket ball, and volley ball teams, and the Monogram Club. She belonged to the Order of The Scorpions, German Club, Home Economics, Home Economics Club, Science Club, and the President's Forum.

best time of all. Seems to me that I say that after every one, but I really mean it this time. He went back to school this morning and I nearly died when he left. He promised he'd write, but I don't think I'll hold my breath 'till he does.

Monday—Back at Salem again with Christmas only a vague wonderful dream in the back of my sleepy head. Everything turned out perfect, and it was all completed when I got Ross' letter this morning. Nothing to do now but sleep, study a little for exams, and begin to plan for Easter. My! how simple life seems in this diary, but how complicated it is when I try to figure it out. Oh well — Goodnight!

WORK BEGINS ON HALL OF HISTORY

Announcement Made In Chapel

Dr. Rondthaler announced in Chapel, Wednesday morning, that work had begun on the new Hall of History Building.

The building will be located on South Main Street, just north of the Wachovia Museum. The building will be of stucco and brick and will be three stories high. The first and second floors will have large halls for the exhibits, with an assembly hall on the third floor.

The building will be of early American design, conforming with the architecture of other Salem buildings. Plans were made by Hall Crews, local architect.

E FIRDS

HOSIERY VALUES

Kayser Gotham Gold Stripe and Senior Class Hosiery. Ringless, Fine Gauge and First Quality.

79c

RESTAURANT

422 N. CHERRY STREET
Open Day and Night

We Choose Your Food As Carefully As You Would Choose it Yourself.

Wonderful Bargains

At

The IDEAL

ALL JUNIOR DRESSES

1/2 PRICE

JUNIOR SHOPPE
2nd Floor

THIRD CIVIC MUSIC CONCERT

January 27

Elizabeth Rethberg, famous prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera, will present a concert on January 27 at the Reynolds Memorial Auditorium. She will appear here in the third Civic Music Concert.

THIS COLLEGIATE WORLD

(by Associated Collegiate Press)

Until recently it seemed that the ideal idea of a half-blind, tottering old man who died in the Ozarks of Arkansas last spring would pass with him.

It is suggested that someone erect a foot-high pyramid, fill it with foreign products and seal it hermetically.

This civilization is going to the dogs," he said, "and when the year rolls around, the people can open the pyramid up and see just what is wrong with the people back in the States."

Now Oglethorpe University has adopted the idea. With the cooperation of Scientific American it plans to build the pyramid and stock it with everything from a sound film to a card of greetings from the President of the United States to the citizens of 8113 to samples of present brands of chewing gum.