DR. THAELE TELS OF HOSPITAL LIFE IN NICARAGUA

Moravian Easter Broadcast Heard In Central America

At Bilwas, Nicaragua, where the Moravian hospital is located, they not only "work around the clock," but add a few extra hours.

Dr. A. David Thaeler, head of the institution, says the day begins in the morning at 5:30 o'clock, continues with a full schedule at the hospital, and concludes in the evening with meetings with converts or in special study projects.

A typical day at the hospital was described by Dr. Thaeler in his talk made Wednesday morning in expanded chapel. He came to this to conduct a ten-day mission for the Moravian churches in the province. He will return to his hospital Monday.

Five years ago Dr. Thaeler volunteered his services as a medical missionary in Nicaragua. But he found that establishing a hospital at Bilwas meant exploring virtually unexplored territory and starting from the ground up. Since that time treatment at his hospital has been provided for 25,000 patients.

The first part of the hospital-center to be built was the clinic building. No medicine was administered until it was finished. But immediately after completion the patients

SENIORS ENTERTAINED AT THEATRE PARTY BY MRS. DOWNS

First In a Series of Entertainments Given For Seniors

Among the first in a series of entertainments for the seniors was the theatre party last Monday night, given by Mrs. John Downs, senior class adviser. The seniors left in buses at 8:45 p. m. for the Carolina Theatre, where they lost their dignity over the antics of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The seniors were reminded of one Mr. McEwen as they watched Bashful slowly blush.

On their return the guests were greeted in Louisa Wilson Bitting Building by Mr. and Mrs. Downs, and refreshments were served.

N. C. C. P. A. SPRING CONVENTION HELD IN CHARLOTTE

Salem Represented by Editor and Business Manager Of Salemite

Salem College was represented at the annual North Carolina College Press Convention by Helen McArthur, Editor-In-Chief of the "Salemite," and Edith McLean, Business Manager. The convention this spring was held in Charlotte, N. C., Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 5, 6, and 7.

Delegates from eighteen or twenty colleges registered Thursday afternoon and Thursday night. On Friday morning after the business session, the entire delegation was taken through the Charlotte News building and shown how a newspaper is made and put together. Following this, Queens-Chicora College entertained the delegates at luncheon.

Friday afternoon more business meetings were held, including a number of extremely interesting discussion groups. Later some of the delegates went through the Charlotte Engraving Company, while others attended May Day at Queens-Chicora College.

Friday evening there was a banquet at which the awards for the best publications of the year were made. Billy Knauf and his orchestra furnished the music for the Friday night dance in the Hotel Charlotte.

Saturday morning, the final business meetings were held, and the new officers for the press association were elected.

The Press Convention was led by C. R. Dunnagan of N. C. State, who has been president of the N. C. C. P. A. this year.

The other officers were Warren Stack of Duke, first vice-president; Bill Staton of Wake Forest, second vice-president; Georgia Underwood, of Queens-Chicora, secretary; and Dick Vowles of Davidson, treasurer.

Several prominent writers and publishers attended the convention. D. Hiden Ramsey, editor of the Asheville Citizen-Times was the chief speaker at the Friday night banquet. Other Speakers were: Jake Wade, sports editor of the Charlotte Observer; Cameron Shipp, of the Charlotte News; Raymond Thompson, of the Lassiter Press; and Harris Keck, of the Observer Printing House.

During the Press Convention, the Carolina Book Fair was also in session in Charlotte. Many of the country's leading writers, among them Thomas Wolfe and Paul Green, were present.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS BEING MADE IN SCIENCE DEPT.

Seven Girls in Bio-Chemistry Class Are Making Individual Tests

The students in the A. B. departments of Salem really know very little about what is going on in the Science department; they have their own interests, and they think that the work in Park Hall is a nightmare from which they want to steer clear as far as possible; they have contact twice with Salem's science — the required courses of a freshman science and hygiene. And it is true that people who have not had scientific training and ability do not usually get much out of the strange terms and processes in the experiments

THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS TO BE PRESENTED TONIGHT

Freshman Dramatic Group Unusually Active This Year

The Freshman Dramatic Club presentation of three one-act plays will take place tonight, Friday, May 13. Memorial Hall will be opened at 8:30 and the curtain will rise at 8:45. Tickets will be on sale at the door. The plays to be given are "The New Moon," a royal nursery rime in which Marion Johnson, Gladys Blackwood, Mary Louise Phillips, Marvel Campbell, Katherine King, Stella Rosenblatt, Nancy Suiter, Eunice Patten, Emily McCoy, Ruth Schnedl, Naomi Rosenbaum and Jackie Ray will play.

"A Minuet" will also be given, a play in verse set to music staged during the French Reign of Terror; Katherine King, Lee Rice and Eunice Patten are the characters.

The last play is "Consolation," the play that won the cup in the city-wide dramatic contest last month. Those taking part in the play are Jackie Ray, Mary Louise Phillips, Nancy Suiter, Stella Rosenblatt and Gladys Blackwood.

FASHION SHOW TO BE HELD OUTDOORS

Clothing Classes Will Model Dresses May 20

Woman's age-old question — what is the correct thing to wear — is about to be solved. You can find out for yourself the answer to this problem at the fashion show given by the Home Economics Department, Friday afternoon, May 20. The fashion show, which is held at the close of every year, will be on the lawn in front of the Home Management House, and will begin at 4 o'clock. All of the dresses made in the clothing classes this year will be modeled by the girls that made them.

The clothes will be modeled in the order that they would be worn throughout a day, beginning with smocks, skirt and blouses, sport dresses, coat suits, informal evening dress, and formal evening dress.

The girls that will be in the fashion show are:

WELCOME HOME, JANE

JANE RONDHALER TELLS OF LANDLADIES AND OTHER INTERESTING EPISODES OF NEW YORK LIFE

Former Student Lunches With Daughter of Stokowski

All Salem campus has been rejoicing this week in the presence of Jane Rondthaler, who is spending her vacation at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Howard E. Rondthaler. Jane has been in New York since October, studying dramatics and singing. She has completed her courses and has come home for a breathing spell, as she says, before dashing into the big, wide theatrical
