STUDENT GOVERNMENT HEAD CHOSEN

Yesterday, Sara Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Henry of Lumberton, North Carolina, was elected president of the student self-government association for 1942-43. She has been outstanding in school activities during all her three years at Salem. As a freshman Sara was secretary of her class and was president of her class the following two years. She is a member of the I. R. S. council, the student council, the Salemite staff, and has shown marked interest in athletics.

Opposing Sara was Doris Nobel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nobel, of Jacksonville, Florida.

The next major election will be for Y. W. C. A. president. The nominating committee responsible for choosing their candidates on the campus is composed of the heads of the eight major organizations, the off-campus vice-president of student government, class presidents, three under classmen student representatives, Dr. Rondthaler, and Miss Covington.

SALEM ACQUIRES NEW ART BOOKS

The many students seen standing around the desk at the library are not all checking out books, but are looking at those lovely "U. S. Camera" books given by the Mount Airy Chapter of Salem Alumnae Association in honor of Mrs. J. A. Hadley (Swannoth Brover, class of 1890). According to Miss Stewers, the Mount Airy Chapter sent a check and two volumes of "U. S. Camera" books were purchased as well as six other art books, namely: "Art In Painting" by Barnes, "New Horizons In American Art" by Cahill, "Graphic Arts, Enjoyment of Architecture," by Hamlin, "Carl Milles" by Rogers, and Die Kunst Des "Fruhen Mittelalters" by Hattmann.

Mrs. Hattie Ollinger Barmore (1895) and Mrs. Carrie Ollinger Crenshaw (1892) have given to the library Berenson's "Drawings of the Florentine Painters" in three volumes, as a memorial to their mother Sarah Batchelder Allinger and two sisters Kate Felton Ollinger, (1887), and Alice Perley Ollinger (1887).

Still another gift of an art book comes from the Oxford, Henderson, Warrenton chapter Salem Alumnae Association, who presented Johnston's "Early Architecture of North Carolina."

Carpenter, Joyce Flanagan, Dottie Baylor and Mary Lu Moore.

Miss Turlington, Miss Brown, and Mrs. Bruce Williams accompanied the girls.

SOUTH AMERICAN GOOD WILL DELEGATES VISIT SALEM

On Tuesday February 24, 1942 Salem College was host to six South American Summer School students from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

These students go to school during our summer months and during the winter they attend summer school here in the United States.

The Spanish Club acted as hosts for the day and also at luncheon. Mr. Brant Snavelly introduced our neighbors to us. During the luncheon one of the guests expressed his happiness at being able to visit us.

Last year over one hundred students visited Salem College, but due to the war only a few attended summer school this year.

The chapel program for the day was supposed to include a lecture by one of the South Americans, but since they do not like to get up early they found it impossible to make our chapel hour.

VESPERS

The Vespers program, Sunday, will be a continuation of the readings from "The Hand of God," a book written in a modern cadenced idiom and presenting a vital and illuminating interpretation of the meaning of the life of Jesus for us living in the twentieth century. Margie Ray will read the selection this Sunday in the Old Chapel at 6:30.

This week's issue of the paper was edited by Lu Moore and Frances Neal.

LATIN CLUB INITIATES NEW MEMBERS

A festive time marked last Friday night in the Club Room of the Refectory, for then it was that modern citizens of the ancient Roman world congregated for the purpose of initiating fifteen new members into the Alpha Iota Pi.

Invitations of a patriotic motif brought forth the group to a very palatable feast. Each place was marked by a golden eagle bearing the inscription "E pluribus unum" and "Senatus populusque romanus"
