

Eager Reporter Scoops Imminent Sports Story

Thirteen more days before the event of all events takes place. Men, women, and children are devoting many hours of hard work in preparation for the great day. Training camps are being set up and rules of diet and behavior are being strictly followed by the participants of the affair. Great secrecy is being maintained by both sides of the opposing factions of the active members. Star performers are masked in the public squares and all of their activity is surrounded by a high wall of hush-hush. The two leaders, guarded continuously from any little Red Man sabotage, are going over and over their blueprints to prevent any possible slip-up. The air has a new quality of tenseness and even fear in it. Everyone is watching everyone else; this taut atmosphere cannot last long. Watch for the crack-up. Watch for the outbreak of an entirely new revolution-tremendous in scope, terrifying in effect!

FLASH! From Little Red Man sources comes definite information about the secret rebellion on Salem Campus. Faculty v.s. Students in a bang-em-up tear-em-down basketball game to be held February 27. Remember! This has not been officially announced from the teams yet.

FLASH! Straight from the coach of the two teams, Miss Helen Stout, comes an affirmation of our earlier statement. When asked to address the press, she wept and said, "It will be bitter."

Dutch Student To Visit Campus

Henrietta Roosenburg, a Dutch student with a powerful story to tell, will be a guest on the campus for dinner Wednesday night February 16, and she will speak informally at 6:45 in the Day Student Center for all those interested in hearing her. She is being sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. and W. S. S. F. committee. Wednesday morning she will speak at the Academy.

NCAF Council Reports Plans

The Executive Council of the North Carolina Athletic Federation of College Women met in the Women's gymnasium at the University of North Carolina Friday night, February 7.

Seventeen delegates were present from Meredith, Salem, Duke, Women's college, and UNC. These delegates discussed and amended the newly formed constitution.

The next NC Athletic Federation meeting will be held at Women's college March 1, at which time the constitution will be ratified. Salem voted to publish the NCAF Bulletin. The big spring Play-day will be played at Carolina.

Virtie Stroup represented Salem at the meeting.

Thebom

tion in Swedish with a meek little woman who offered her program, a pencil, and a mumbled greeting in Swedish. One little girl with a long face, glasses too big for her nose, and a terrified look came over to smell the large bouquet of roses that the Civic Music Association had presented Miss Thebom. Looking up she sniffed, smiled, and muttered, "Gosh!" The singer explained that she would not be able to take the flowers with her on her trip tomorrow and gave them to the little girl who hugged them to her and wandered off in a daze.

Miss Thebom has filled one Hollywood assignment, singing in the movie "Irish Eyes Are Smiling", and she says that she hopes that she will be asked to do another. She thinks the movies would be an excellent medium for presenting opera to the general public.

To the question "Married?" Miss Thebom answered emphatically "No!" "Plans?" Well, nothing immediate," she laughed; "I hope it'll be one of those sweep-me-off-my-feet affairs."

WCUNC Wins Student-Faculty Game State Play Day Opens Basketball Season

The Woman's College won the highest number of points placing them as winners in the Basketball Play-day held at UNC Saturday, Feb. 7. Meredith and Carolina tied for second place; Duke was third and Salem came in last.

Those students composing Salem's team were: Gloria Paul, Anne Mills, Carolyn Taylor, Ann Roberson, Marjorie Crickmer, Clairbone Smith, and Virtie Stroup. Smith made 3 points, Mills 5, Paul 10, and Stroup 8 in the total of the four games played. Taylor, Roberson, and Crickmer showed fine coordination in guarding the women's teams.

The basketball season begins February 27, with the faculty-student game. The intramural games have been scheduled as follows:

March 20 - Juniors vs. Seniors
March 13 - Freshmen vs. Seniors
March 18 - Sophomores vs. Juniors

March 26 - Freshmen vs. Sophomores

March 28 - Juniors vs. Freshmen Seniors vs. Sophomores

The managers of the class teams are as follows: Seniors, Eva Martin Bullock; Juniors, Ann Mills; Sophomores, Marjorie Crickmer; and Freshmen, Beverly Johnson.
