

Accent On Athletics! Hockey Season Begins

by Gloria Paul

Please, somebody keep the rain away; hockey season is starting. This year's hockey season is destined to be better than last year's, if you standers-by get down to the hockey field and take part in the fun.

Don't worry about getting back up the hill; the food that will be served—at your expense—will provide you with plenty of energy and pep to make that last mile. Come, cheer for your class, and eat lots of food. For your own convenience, here's your schedule to follow.

- Oct. 13—Freshmen vs. Sophomores
- Oct. 21—Juniors vs. Seniors
- Oct. 28—Freshmen vs. Juniors
- Nov. 4—Sophomore vs. Seniors
- Nov. 10—Freshmen vs. Seniors
- Nov. 18—Sophomores vs. Juniors
- Nov. 24—Varsity vs. Academy

Hockey will be even more exciting, I know, if there are plenty of players and substitutes. If you'd like to play, get down to the practices; if you're depressed, hockey is diverting; and if you want to show some school spirit—though you can't even hold a hockey stick, be willing to be a substitute. See the following class managers and find out when your team is practising: freshmen, Clinky Clinkscales; sophomores, Pat Edmonson; juniors, Betty Wolfe; and seniors, Dottie Smith. If your class manager isn't around, Isabel Leeper and Yours Truly might know the schedules . . . Hockey starts off the sports season this year, so let's start it off right.

Please, requests the Monogram Club, don't wear your high school, boy friend's, or another school's monogram on campus. This way, the Salem letter will show up on campus and due recognition will be received.

Please, no more blasting of radios and lungs; the 1947 baseball season is over. If repetition of the news hurts, that's a shame; if repetition of the news thrills, read on. That is to say, the New York Yankees won the final game of the World Series from the Brooklyn Dodgers by a score of 5-2, to walk away with the baseball honors . . . Please don't walk away; pay your debts.

Trio Sings At Chapel

A trio of three girls from the Salem Music Department provides the music for Morning Chapel every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday morning in the Home Church. They are: Peggy Sue Taylor, first soprano; Emelyn Gillespie, second soprano; and Gerry Allegood, alto. The trio is accompanied at the organ by Margaret Fisher, also of the School of Music.

Gerry Allegood, who sings alto, is a junior voice major from Greenville. She is working toward a B. M. degree. Emelyn Gillespie, who comes from King's Mountain, is majoring in Sociology and Economics and is also a junior. Peggy Sue Taylor, the third member of the trio, is a senior B. M. with a major in voice, and is from Newton. The organist, Margaret Fisher, has a double major in Chemistry and organ and is a senior from Concord.

For special music during the services, the trio sings an anthem, or a specially arranged hymn, and every Wednesday morning one of the four performs a solo.

people who know, as to whether this voluntary rationing will work. The point is that the Communists are growing stronger in the first two countries previously mentioned, and in all probability, we are going to send large amounts of grain and other foodstuffs to Europe this winter. What definite effect this is going to have on the price situation here at home no one is willing to really stick his neck out and say, for sure.

If the Democrats, through the President, and the Republicans, through the Congress, start passing the buck around any faster than they are now, the whole world will probably go broke, including ourselves. Remember that there is a presidential election coming up next year and both parties are determined not to have the blame for higher prices. Politics messed us up once in 1918-19, and World War II, was the result. Let's hope it doesn't happen again.

for dancing while those who did not dance engaged in conversation before the fire. The evening was greatly enjoyed by those present and the guests voted the members of the Girl's Bible Class charming hostesses.

First Big House Meeting Success

. . . She (Miss Stipe) announced that the names of those girls whose rooms are kept in perfect order for two weeks will appear in the Salemite and honorable mention will be given those persons whose rooms are deserving this destination.

Deadline Dashes

DAFFY-NITIONS:

Ruby Moyer: I must go downtown and shop for my torso.

Carter Read: Difference between rat week and other weeks: please and thank-you.

Marion Gaither: A decade is an extra ace.

DINING ROOM DOINGS:

Tuesday is meatless

Wednesday is sweetless

Thursday is wheatless
No wonder we eatless.

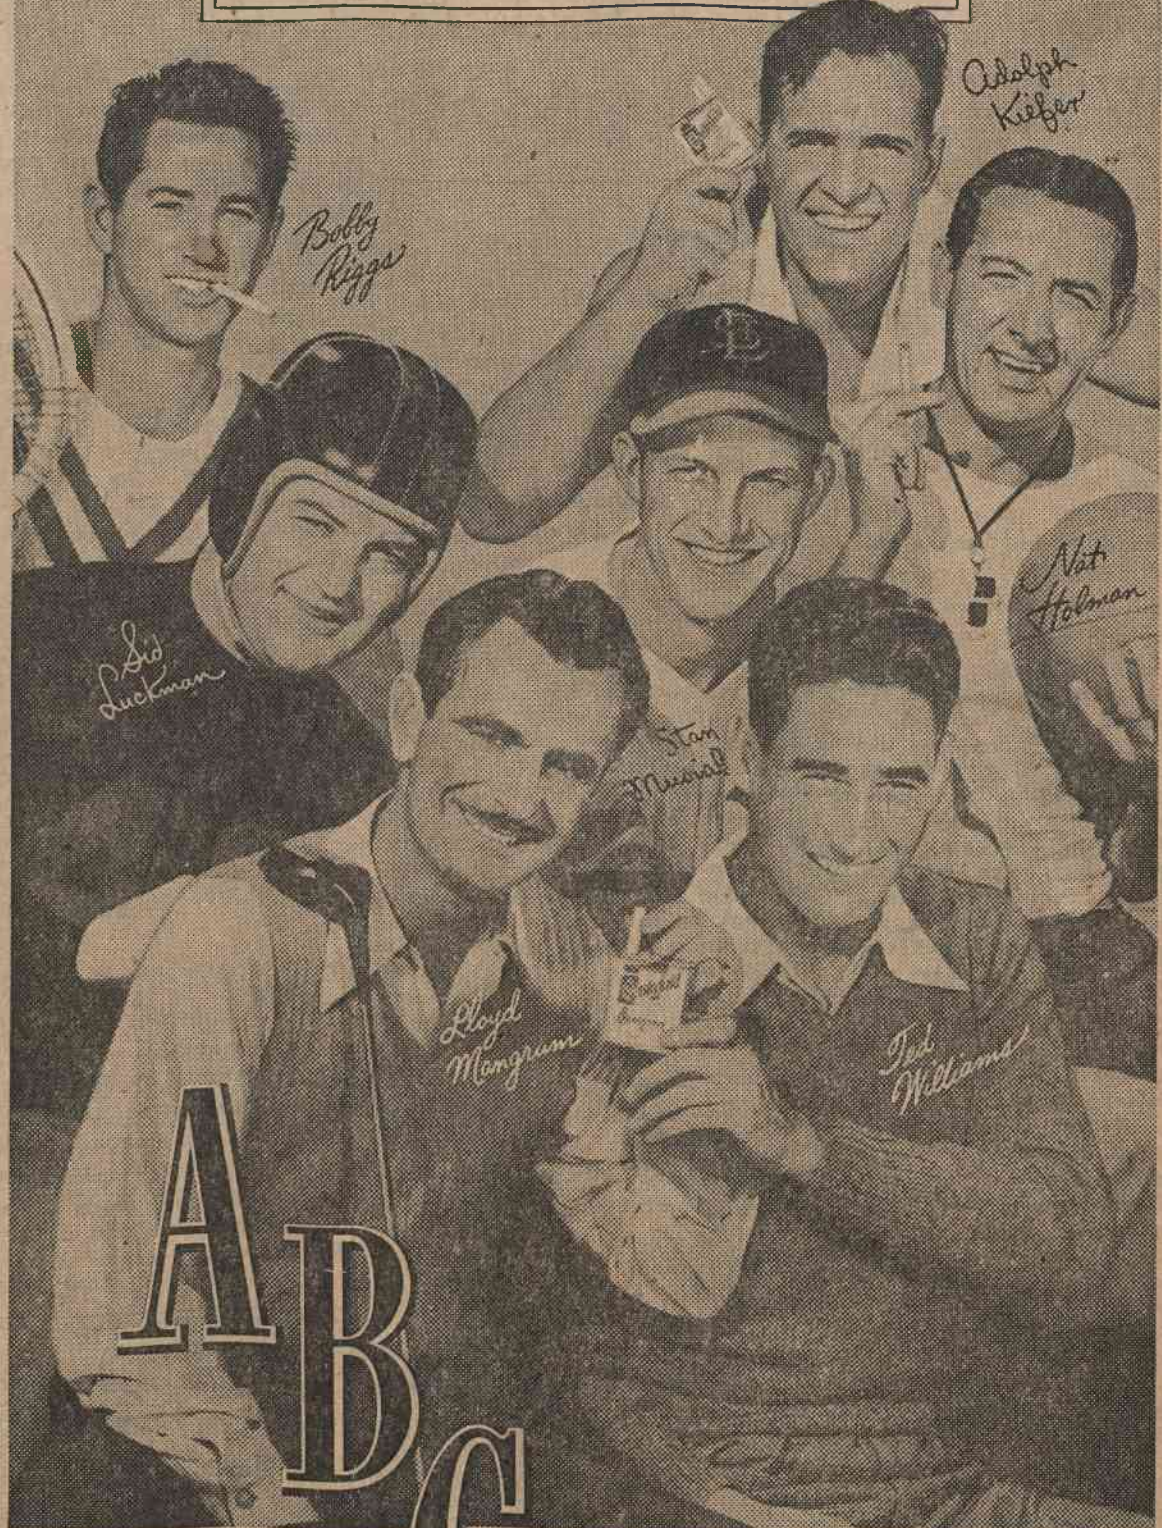

FACULTY FLIGHTS:

We wonder about all so many of the female faculty members going to Chapel Hill each week-end. Could they be conducting sociological experiments.

DEPARTMENT OF ENLIGHTENMENT:

Porter: Please turn on the light.
Frances: Bright idea!
