

Bet Epps Follows Through From A Pin To A Diamond

Mrs. M. M. Epps of Gastonia, North Carolina, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Betty Ann, to Plato Pearson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Pearson, also of Gastonia.

A Home Ec. major, Betty Ann has been active in school activities since she came to Salem four years ago. She has been on the May Court for two years, was a marshal her junior year, is president of the I. R. S. this year and is a member of the Scorpions and the Home Ec. Club.

"Tete" and "Bet" plan to be married this January in Gastonia. "Tete" is a member of the '48 graduating class of Davidson and is now working for the Merchants' Oil Co. in Gastonia. While at Davidson he was a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

Society Editor Predicts General Holiday Plans

by Dot Arrington

The forthcoming weekend and the approaching Thanksgiving holiday are causing quite a bit of excitement among the young ladies on Salem campus. This weekend the long awaited Carolina-Duke game will be held in Chapel Hill with Charles Spivak furnishing music for the dances, and the annual pledge dances are being held at State College (Cow College in more vulgar terms).

Quite a number of the Salemites are planning to visit Chapel Hill, and from all reports, a majority of them will be found at the Zeta Psi house. Misses Betty Griffin, Sarah Walston, Dot Arrington, Betsy Evans, Laura Harvey, Dot Massey, Frances Isbell, and Anne Jankins will be among the Salemites there. Dot Massey will be dating Henry Tull again, and naturally Sarah will be with Pete and Betty with Gordon.

No Carolina weekend would be complete without Sylvia Green and Bob Newell playing together. Sybbie will act as chauffeur this weekend (as usual) and is driving a crowd of regular commuters down—Martha Harrison and Jane Thomas among others.

Sarah Burts is planning to go down on Friday and Mary Patience McFall is going to meet Fuller there. Betty Ann Epps and Tete are going down for the game after the Christmas Parade here Saturday morning.

Thanksgiving is going to be a gala time as well as the coming weekend. Most Salemites are going home, but a few are passing up home for more exciting trips.

Beth Kitrell and Martha Scott are traveling north for the Army-Navy game (and other things). Dot Massey is going North too. She plans to visit Claire Phelps, ex-Salemite, in New York.

Laurel Green, of Durham, is going to Macon, Georgia to spend the holiday with her sister, Mrs. Hall Edward Corr and family.

Myrta Wiley will visit Mary Faith Carson in Tennessee, and Polly Harrop is having Mary Barrett as guest over the holiday.
