

Five Help In Teaching Four Classes

Frances Tucker, Delores McCarter, Clara Justice, Winkie Harris, and Norman Jarrard have been appointed as student assistants to faculty members, it was announced this week by Miss Ivy Hixon, academic dean.

Frances Tucker will assist in the science department. She will help in freshman chemical labs two afternoons a week. Frances is a junior med. tech. major.

Delores McCarter and Clara Justice have been appointed assistants to Miss Eloise Baynes, and Winkie Harris will assist Miss Lucile Vest. They will aid in the checking of papers and will be in charge of the classes while modern language records are being played. Dean Hixon stated that there is a possibility that these students may be assigned to teach some classes next spring. The three girls are juniors and are planning on teaching after graduation. Delores and Clara are Spanish majors, while Winkie is majoring in French. Clara said that they were glad to be able to be assistants and thought that this would give them "wonderful experience" in the teaching field.

Norman Jarrard, a senior math major, will assist Mr. A. T. Curlee in the math department. He will help in the checking of papers and will give individual assistance to math students. Norman hopes to go to graduate school upon graduation from Salem, where he has done all four years of his college work.

Dormitories Have P O Boxes

Individual postboxes have been installed in each of the dormitories for the convenience of the students. This is a project sponsored by the Student Government Association for inter-campus mail. All organizations are urged to cooperate with this new system by putting notices of meeting in the boxes. It is hoped that this will greatly reduce the number of oral announcements which have previously been made in the dining room.

Hockey, Tennis, Basketball Mrs. Moran Teaches All

by Kathryn Pitts

If you like to chase up and down the Hockey Field, charge over the basketball court, stand on your head to the count of 1 & 2 & 3, swat tennis balls over or under a net, shoot arrows in the air, then you too will be enthusiastic about Mrs. Moran, our new Physical Education teacher. For those are only a part of the things she plans to offer the ambitious Salemite this year.

In addition to her physical education work in various sports Mrs. Moran will act as sponsor of the Athletic Association and teach several classes. She will instruct courses in Personal and Community Hygiene and will teach "Practices and Procedures in Health and Physical Education for Elementary Teachers."

Mrs. Moran holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in health and Physical Education from the University of North Carolina. She attended Mars Hill Junior College before going to the University.

Mrs. Moran was director of Phy-

Gramley Holds Salemite Forum

The Salemite is having its face lifted! Dr. Gramley, who was Editor of the Bethlehem Globe-Times, feels that journalism like any other subject needs instruction. He has offered to help us learn the essentials of a good college newspaper.

Dr. Gramley is meeting with the staff on Monday afternoons in the Salemite office and passing on tips on journalism. To date there have been two such informal discussions bringing up the degrees of importance of the Who? What? Where? When? How? and Why? in a straight news story as well as enumerating the things which most interest the reader.

No more dead heads. No more irrelevant leads. The Salemite staff is trying to benefit from Dr. Gramley's advice and produce a better newspaper. It hopes that the Student Body will become more Salemite conscious. The Editorial Staff invites all new students interested in working on the Salemite to attend these Monday meetings with Dr. Gramley.

New Students Installed By Y

New Salem College students were officially welcomed as members of the Y. W. C. A. at a Recognition Service in Old Chapel on Sunday, Oct. 2, at 6:45 p. m.

The candlelight service began with a prelude by Bennie Jo Michael, violinist, and Polly Harrop, pianist. The "Y" members, led by President Betty McBrayer, entered to the processional, "Father of Lights", while the audience stood.

A responsive reading, led by Ann Spencer, followed. The response used was a traditional one, based on the Beatitudes.

Lila Fretwell, soprano, sang a solo selection, "Give of Your Best to the Master".

Next on the vesper program was the lighting of the new students' candles by members of the "Y" Cabinet—intended as a symbol of the spread of the 'Light' of Christianity.

Following this, the new students went in line to the front of the chapel and signed Y. W. C. A. (Continued on page five)

Carlson Taken For Student; Assistant Dean Likes Salem

By now it is clear to most Salemites that our new assistant dean of students is not a student herself. Although she is a few years older than most of the seniors, Miss Evelyn Carlson has her problems in being mistaken for a freshman.

Before coming to Salem, Miss Carlson did her undergraduate work at Cornell where she majored in Sociology. Then she received her M. S. from the same university—this time in Educational Psychology. She has done work in aptitude testing for the Chance-Vought aircraft plant in Conn. and was a student resident at Cornell last year.

The only thing that she could name that she intensely dislikes is a self-centered person. Her line of things she did like was long and varied including sailing, reading, knitting argyles, talking to people, and learning how to play golf which is her latest project.

When asked about Salem she said that she loved the way everyone made her feel right at home quicker than any other place she ever had been. Then, too she said that the architecture of Salem reminded her of the old New England towns which she loves.

As for the freshmen who are her particular charges in Clewell she thinks they are a fine group of girls and enjoys their stories about Salem-Division Day and their dread of Rat Week. Another part of her job will be to act as advisor to the day students and she is looking forward to that with the idea of closer coordination between them and the boarders.

Miss Carlson holds open house most every night in her living room by the first floor telephone and invites each of you to stop for a chat on your way to and from the library or drug store.

Bowman Gray Visits Salem

The Bowman Gray students of the freshman class will be guests at an open house tomorrow night in the Day Students Center on Salem Campus.

The Open House will last from 8 p. m. until 11:30 p. m. It is sponsored by the Salem College Administration, the alumnae of Salem and the I. R. S. council.

Around fifty-four Bowman Gray freshmen are expected to attend the party. The fifteen married men have been asked to bring their wives.

Members of the I. R. S. council and approximately fifty upperclassmen of the Salem Student Body will serve as hostesses.

After an hour and a half of informal dancing, a program will be given by Salem talent. Lila Fretwell, Bobby Lee, and Roslyn Fogel will sing. Sis Honeycutt and Florence Cole, a transfer, will play the piano.

Card tables will be provided for bridge throughout the evening.

Parts Given For Pierrette Play

Final tryouts for Liliom, play by Frederick Molnar were last Monday night in the Old Chapel. The play is the one from which "Carousel", the Broadway play was adapted.

The action takes place in Hungary during the present time. Liliom, a barber for the carousel and his young wife Julie are the main characters. The part of Liliom will be played by Bryan Balfour, and that of Julie will be played by Florence Cole. Both of the main characters are from the freshman class, which speaks well for the dramatic talent therein. Three of the parts are held by three Grande Dames of last years theatre group: Winkie Harris as Mother Hollunder, whose sharp tongue hides a soft heart, Rosalyn Fogel as Mrs. Muscat, the owner of the carousel, and Lee Rosenbloom as Louise, Liliom's young daughter. The other men in the play are Bud Muoeller as Fiscar, Jack White, as Wolf, Sidney Tallent, as Linzman, and Larry Patrick as the (heavenly) Magistrate. The part of Marie, a country girl, will be played by Harriet Hall, also of the freshman class. Those cast as Village Girls are Ann Rhyne, Anne Simpson, Wright. Additional male roles and Emma Sue Larkins, and Julia villagers for the prologue will be cast later, as will the part of the Heavenly Policeman (female). The play will be performed sometime in November.

Dr. Smith Heads Annual Drive

Dr. Minnie J. Smith was appointed Chairman of solicitation from Salem College for the annual Community Chest Drive on September 16th.

The drive begins on October 24th and continues through the 3rd of November. The Community Chest goal for this year is $278,876.50.

* Richard E. Lauterbach, well-known to Time and Life readers, will be the first lecturer in the Salem College Lecture Series for 1949-50.

Miss Jess Byrd, chairman of the Lecture Committee, has announced that renewals of membership in the series will be available until October 15. After that time tickets will be available to those on the waiting list.

All Salem College students automatically are members of the Lecture Series when they pay their Student Government fee at the beginning of the year. From 5:00 to 6:00 p. m. on Wednesday and Thursday, October 12 and 13, students may obtain their tickets to the series from the committee members in the reception room of Clewell.

Following Mr. Lauterbach's appearance on November 8, Miss Mady Christians will be lecturer on January 12. She has appeared frequently on the stage, screen and radio. In such pictures as "The Watch on the Rhine" and "I Remember Mama" she has had starring roles. William Kung, noted Chinese scholar, will appear on February 2. He is a present doing research work at Harvard University. James P. Warburg, lecturer with varied interests and background, will be speaker on February 27. His subject will be "American Foreign Policy—Last Call for Common Sense." The last lecture in the series takes place on April 17, when John Mason Brown will be the speaker. He returns at the request of Winston-Salem audiences, this time to talk on "Seeing Things"—which is the name of his column in the Saturday Review of Literature.

Richard Lauterbach, the first lecturer, graduated from Dartmouth College summa cum laude and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He was a Time-Life Correspondent in the Middle East and Russia from 1941-45. He, in 1946, was the first American journalist to complete a round-the-world trip through Siberia since before the war. In 1947-48 he was Editor-in-Chief of the Magazine of the Year and later in 1948 became Senior Editor of the New York Star. He is currently lecturing and writing. His latest book is Danger from the East.

Faculty members of the Lecture Committee for this year are: Miss Byrd, chairman; Miss Lelia Graham Marsh; Miss Edith Kirkland; Mrs. (Continued on page three)
