

Legislator

Declaration of Independence from England. It was revised by the Carpetbaggers in 1868 and still stands as they wrote it.

The main branches of the government are the executive, the judicial, and the legislative. The executive branch, the governor, enforces the laws. The judicial branch, composed of seven judges, interprets these laws. The legislative branch, made up of the House and the Senate, makes the state's laws.

Law making is not the only function of the government. It also directs the construction and upkeep of state roads, educational institutions, prisons, and insane asylums.

Mr. Blackwell works as an attorney in Winston-Salem while not meeting with the legislature in Raleigh. He served as a Lt. Commander in the Navy during the past war.

Colleges To

meeting will adjourn at 12:00 noon.

The North Carolina Association of College Registrars and Directors of Admissions will meet Wednesday a. m. and will be attended by Miss Hixson and Miss Simpson.

The North Carolina Council of Church Related Colleges, of which Dr. L. L. Gobbel is president, is scheduled to meet in the living room of Biting Dormitory here at Salem on Wednesday. This meeting will be followed by luncheon in the club dining room.

German Arms

Swedes credit him with keeping their nation out of World War II even though Germany invaded other Scandinavian countries. The whole country was plunged into mourning at his death. The Swedish flag flew at half-mast, church bells rang throughout the land, and movies and theater performances were cancelled.

H-Bomb Not Yet Made
Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, says that an H-bomb has not yet been made and it is uncertain whether or not it can be produced. He further asserts that there is little danger now will destroy himself by atomic warfare. There is simply not enough uranium to make that many bombs.

Victor H. Hass, head of the government Microbiological Institute, warns that the nation is in much more danger from germs than it is bombs. He urges the U. S. to increase facilities to ward off a microbe attack and to combat it if it occurs.

Skinner

woman anywhere as she said, "You don't think all the Wac's joined up because they were in love with Uncle Sam, do you? They were looking for something just like a lot of people, in love with something they never found."

In the last monologue, "Being Presented", Miss Skinner succeeded not only in characterizing herself as the hearty Nebraskan, but also in outlining her husband as witty and unimpressed.

The true value of Miss Skinner's sketches is that they are not all pure fun, but real satire. She told us that she writes her own scripts, finding her subjects in observing life. Haven't you all met such characters as those she portrayed?

What could we say in conclusion but that Miss Skinner is an actress with the wonderful ability to lend herself, body and soul, to her characterizations, to hold an audience's attention and enthusiasm by herself for a whole night and to establish with perfect ease, a direct contact between herself and her audience.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests Number 7...THE RAVEN

Nobody's pulling the feathers over this bird's eyes!

He's spent too many semesters in Psychology I. He knows — as any smart smoker knows — that you can't make up your mind about cigarette mildness on one fast puff or a quick sniff.

A one-inhale comparison certainly doesn't give you much proof to go on.

That's why we suggest:

THE SENSIBLE TEST . . . The 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a pack after pack, day after day basis. No snap judgments needed.

After you've enjoyed Camels — and only Camels — for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste) we believe you'll know why . . .

More People Smoke Camels than any other cigarette!
