

Students Plan Trips, Tricks For Vacation

By Jane Watson

Sleep! Eat! Play! That's what Salem girls are planning for Spring Vacation.

Ruthie Derrick is going to rest down in Georgia—with a little shopping in Atlanta thrown in.

Without hesitation Gray Sydnor said emphatically, "Go home to Mt. Airy and dread having to leave again". She might squeeze in a little trip to the beach.

Joan and Jean Shope like the idea of a houseparty at Lake Cascade. If that doesn't materialize, they'll be happy just not having to study.

Peggy Chears might go to Williamsburg to chaperone her brother, Crockett, and Carmen Johnson who are pinned. Other than this she's hoping to meet a few Durham people and write three term papers.

Beth Coursey plans to come back from a houseparty at Holden's Beach in time to be in Rachel Cline's wedding Easter Monday. For the remaining few days she's going to sit home and think about what a good time she's had.

Connie Murray also plans to be in a wedding—her cousin's. Then, she will fly to Kingsport, Tennessee to visit Mary Susan Leonard and Jo Wampler.

Alice McNeely is going to "cart" her mother to Jacksonville, Florida and "stay off books!"

Peggy Johnson is driving to New Orleans with her aunt and uncle for a medical convention. She doesn't know what she'll do there yet, but she's hoping!

Mary Stevens is going to Wrightsville Beach which she insists is the only place to spend spring vacations.

Bessie Leppert is heading home to Scarsdale, New York. (Westchester County, she adds) to make hay while the sun shines!

Wedding preparations top the lists of Sybel Haskins, Sis Pooser, Dee McCarter and Anne Coleman.

Betty Parks is going to Washington (by way of Roanoke to visit Emily) to spend Easter weekend with Mr. William Gooch, "the boy next door."

Mr. Martin plans to visit an "old flame" in Virginia, while Dr. Singer may tramp in the hills of South Carolina.

Plays, Symphony, Concert To Take Place In City Soon

By Jean Calhoun

Meet a stranger and he'll politely ask you where you are from. Probably you will say, "Salem College", and when the ignorant thing asks where Salem College is, you naturally will reply, "in Winston-Salem." Perhaps you don't willingly claim Winston as your home, but because you do live here about nine months of each year, it is necessary, at least, that you claim it as your second home. Let us look and become aware of the happenings in our 'home-away-from-home'.

Things to come in the near future include "The Heiress," produced by the Barter Players. It will be presented tonight in Reynolds Auditorium and is the Little Theatre's fifth major play. The following day the Duke Male Chorus will sing here in Winston. For the first time these 45 men will be accompanied by two co-eds.

On March 13 the Little Theatre Workshop will present "The Beast" at Wiley School. The next day Thor Johnson conducts the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra in Reynolds Auditorium. This concert is to be sponsored by The Arts Council and Mrs. W. P. Rainey.

The audience that filled Memorial Hall Monday night saw a broad variety of Winston-Salem talent in action. It was the year and a half birthday of the formation of the Arts Council and the audience, composed of the Arts Council and interested visitors, had assembled to hear the secretary of the Chicago Opera Company, William Saltiel. Before and after Mr. Saltiel spoke the entertainment presented was proof enough that this city has a wealth of talent. Organist Margaret Vardell, violinist Eugene Jacobowsky accompanied by Char-
