A. A. U. W. Recognizes Salem

Salem To Receive Money For New Scholarship Fund

According to a recent Chattanooga newspaper article, Salem College will receive half of the residuary estate of Mrs. Elizabeth W. Scholze to be used as a scholarship fund. Salem College will divide the remainder of the estate, after specific bequeathals have been settled, with the University of Chattanooga.

At this time it is impossible to determine the amount each school will receive, because Mrs. Scholze's estate is comprised of personal property, various parcels of real estate and considerable stock.

Salem's share will be called the Elizabeth Windsor Scholze Scholarship Fund. The details of eligibility for this aid have not yet been specified.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Scholze, who graduated from Salem in 1902, was a well-known patron of the arts and music. Elaine Williams, a member of the present freshman class, is the grand-niece of Mrs. Scholze.

Dr. Elizabeth Welch won the Betty Smith Award, the highest and only award in play production of an original play and the highest award in playwriting, at a four-day drama festival at the University of North Carolina for her play, "Today Is Tomorrow." The award for first place was $75.00.

The judges, who represented three different departments of the University, English, Modern Language and Dramatic Arts, were highly enthusiastic about Dr. Welch's play. One said, "It could easily be compared with 'Our Town'."

Another judge commented that it was a play "excitingly presented and excitingly written." He added that he sat breathless during the performance.

Samuel Selden, Director of the Carolina Playmakers, said in his criticism, "It is not often that one can rightly use the term symphonic in connection with a drama, but this is certainly one to which the term can be applied."
