Room Drawing Will Highlight Next Week

Floor plans, with reserved rooms in each dormitory marked, will be placed in the reception room of Clewell by April 18, in preparation for room drawing which begins April 23. A registration fee of ten dollars must be paid to Miss Perryman prior to room drawing. This year the sum of numbers drawn by suite-mates or room-mates will determine the order in which the rooms will be assigned. Numbers will be drawn in the Dean of Students office. Rising seniors will draw on Monday, April 23, from nine to one and from two to four. Rising juniors and sophomores will draw on Tuesday, April 24 at the same times.

Faculty Tell Philosophies

Dr. Gramley, in a faculty meeting last October, posed this question: What is Salem's philosophy of education? It was decided that a series of reports expressing individual's opinions, would be addressed to the faculty by the head of each department.

Among philosophies already presented are those of Miss Ivy Hixon, Academic Dean; Dr. William Todd, representing the English department; Mr. Roy Campbell and Mr. Carson French from the science department; Dr. Gregg Singer, head of the history department; Dr. Charles Vardell for the music department and Mr. Arlee Curlee, head of the math department.

As the reports have not been completed, they will continue into next year, ending with discussion and evaluation by a committee with Miss Eva Belle Covington as chairman.

The final integration of all philosophies will be the basis of Salem's aims and objectives for the subsequent years.

Dr. Vardell Will Speak

A musical program will be sponsored by the Winston-Salem Executive Club tonight at 8:00 p.m. in Memorial Hall after the club's dinner meeting in the main dining room of Corrin Refectory.

Dr. Charles Vardell will speak to the club on "Good Music Is Not As Bad As It Sounds," and Mr. Eugene Jacobowsky will play two violin selections by Fritz Kreisler, "Liebesleid" and "Tambourine Chinois".

The Forsyth Singers and the Maids of Melody will also take part in the program to which both faculty and students are invited.

Seniors Win Stunt Night

The Senior class, for the third straight year, won the five-dollar prize awarded at Stunt Night last Wednesday night.

Their skit presented the trials tribulations of Activitus, a character first created for the Salemite column by Winkie Harris and Sybil Haskins.

Lee Rosenbloom was the narrator, and Ann Mosely took the part of Acti. Fay Stickney portrayed Gertrude, Acti's roommate, and Ralph Lawrence, Theodore, her boyfriend. Others in the cast were Ann Pleasants, Polly Hartle, Dan Hodges, Jane Hart, Squeaky Carson, Clara Belle LeGrand, Martha Scott, Ann Jenkins, Mary Lib Weaver, Sis Hines, Lucy Harper, Betty Gwen Beck, Betty Kincaid and Ann Spencer.

The faculty presented a series of tableaux imitating famous paintings.

The Junior class presented a musical comedy with a chorus line introducing the several soloists.

A duck wedding was the theme for the Sophomore class skit. A highlight was "Because" sung in quack language.

The Freshmen enacted "Frankie and Johnny", adding a chorus of "I Didn't Know the Gun Was Loaded".

Proceeds totaled $52.28, which was added to the W. S. S. F. fund.

Young And Old To Be Models

"Generations at Salem on Parade" will be the theme of the fashion show to be presented by the Salem College Alumnae Club of Winston-Salem Tuesday, April 24, 1951 at 4:00 p.m. beside the swimming pool in the Strong Dormitory courtyard.

Grandmothers, mothers and children will model spring and summer fashions for all occasions from a local store. Admission will be either a white elephant article or 50 cents.

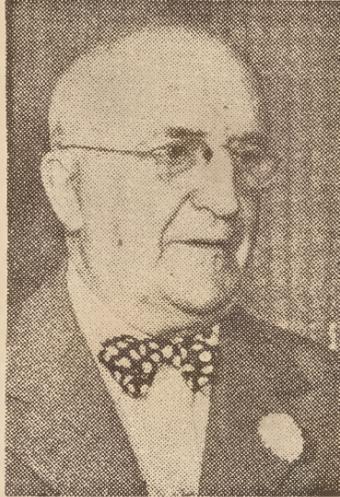

A White Elephant auction will follow the show to dispose of the admission packages. The proceeds will be used by the Alumnae Club to provide a gift for Salem.

Student and faculty members are invited to attend.

Salem Ranks Twelfth In Recent Report

According to a recent report of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Salem ranks 12th among 164 institutions in 11 southeastern states in per capita expenditures for library facilities.

In the number ratio of students to faculty Salem ranks 43rd, and in per capita expenditures for instructional purposes, 50th.

Caldwell Tells Of Mistakes In Korea

"The Story of America, if properly told, is still strong enough to defeat Communism," said John Caldwell, expert on Korean affairs, in a lecture, "Lessons Learned in Korea," in Memorial Hall last Monday night.

Emphasizing the importance of an effective propaganda program against the Communists in the Far East, Mr. Caldwell blasted the inefficiency of the "Voice of America" program and of the State Department. The "Voice of America," he said, could be important, but it "failed dismally in Korea."

Most of the staff of this organization followed what he called the "Cook" philosophy, that is, they looked down on the Koreans as being much below their level of culture and intelligence, and they took no pains to try to understand the customs and situation of the people.

English Insufficient

"It isn't necessarily true that if you teach all the world to speak English they will automatically become Anti-Communists," the speaker commented after explaining that the greater number of the "Voice of America" staff were occupied teaching English. The organization set up beautiful libraries, but the literature was far above the average Korean and was all written in English. Although the movies, radio programs and exhibits were technically good, they showed things that the Koreans cannot hope to attain for 50 or possibly 100 years.

The State Department had a larger diplomatic force in Korea than anywhere outside the U. S. and yet it was taken completely by surprise at the Communist invasion. It, too, has failed in its job of selling America to the Koreans.

MacArthur Is Right

Mr. Caldwell was of the opinion that MacArthur's suggestions to use Anti-Communist Chinese forces should have been followed. The Russians have made many enemies in China, and we should use these people to start a second front there. MacArthur's dismissal means that many of the Chinese have lost hope completely.

At the informal coffee held in Strong before the lecture, Mr. Caldwell explained some of the methods used in getting information across the 38th Parallel. He used packs of cigarettes which were opened and emptied of half their contents and then filled with propaganda and resealed. When this method was discovered, information was packed with very scarce sulfa pills and sent into North Korea. Later, several radio sets were smuggled into the north, to enable certain sympathetic north

Reports Made By Gramley

Dr. Gramley stated in his report to the Board of Trustees at their meeting yesterday that approximately $1500 to be used as scholarship aid was received from collections at the city Moravian Churches on the several Salem College Days this year.

Also included in the administration report were plans to engage a full-time professor of religion who will also serve as college chaplain.

Dr. Gramley reported that $7,500 had been received in gifts toward improvements in the heating system. The total cost of repairs was $22,000. Conditions involving similar items of property, including progress on the construction of the science building, were also pre-
