

Student's Art To Be Exhibited

The exhibitions of student art work will climax Salem's art program for the year. The exhibitions, including work from college art classes as well as the children's Saturday morning class, will be held from May 14-June 1, 1951.

The college student work will be displayed in the gallery of the library. Contributions from the design class will include problems in the techniques of art—line, form, color and emotion. The studio class will exhibit paintings in oil and water color as well as plaster constructions. Of particular interest will be a torn paper color composition by Mrs. Justice Randolph and a weird sculptured tree by Sally Senter.

The children's exhibits will be held in the studio art lab and, says

Mr. Shewmake, "will really be a lulu!". Every Saturday morning children from six to 17 have modeled, sculptured, sketched and painted; and some of each type of work will be on display. The interior of the studio itself served as inspiration for two especially fine, in the opinion of Mr. Shewmake, pieces of work; a moody oil painting by Bill Gramley and a second painting by Westly Atkins from Kernersville.

There will be no formal opening of either exhibit.

to type term papers and cut stencils for the students in addition to her work as Miss Hixon's secretary, and other duties, such as mimeographing exams and comprehensives and being general errand girl for the faculty. She said that it had been suggested that she type the students' papers on the side and charge for it, but "I hate to do that, so I just breeze through my work and squeeze them in."

"The class of '48 seems to be pretty loyal", Patsy said. It seemed as though she had not even graduated when she came back because Frances Sowers was over in the Music building, Margaret Reynal was working in Public Relations and this year Peggy Gray returned to Salem.

"I'll miss Salem," Patsy said. And I'm sure that Salem will "miss Patsy's" ready smile and willingness to help.

Caroline Gray Sydnor To Marry Charles Haynes In Mount Airy

Mr. and Mrs. Grey Banner Sydnor of Mount Airy announce the engagement of their daughter, Caroline Gray, to Charles David Haynes, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Booker Haynes of Mount Airy and Nashville, Tennessee.

The wedding will be Saturday, August 4, 1951 at 8:00 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Mount Airy. Dr. W. E. Robinson, who married the bride's mother and father, will come from Roanoke, Virginia, to perform the ceremony.

Gray has chosen Anne Merritt as her maid of honor. Anne Moyer will be a bridesmaid. Gray graduated from Mount Airy High School last year. She served as a freshman representative on the Student Council this year.

Charlie graduated from Memphis High School. He served in the Navy for three years and is now associated with Haynes Coal and Oil Company in Mount Airy.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Number 21... THE PELICAN

OUR easy-going, big-billed friend has learned to say "No" to these hurry-up, one-puff, one-sniff cigarette tests! "Why", says he,

"they don't even give you time to finish the cigarette before you're supposed to decide which is mildest!" Millions of smokers have come to the same conclusion—there's just one real way to test the flavor and mildness of a cigarette!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as a steady smoke—on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments needed! After you've enjoyed Camels—and only Camels—for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), we believe you'll know why . . .

More People Smoke Camels than any other cigarette!
