Dawson Chosen To Play Lead In "The Innocents"

Lola Dawson has been chosen for the lead in "The Innocents," dramatized by William Archibald and based on the story, "The Turn of the Screw," by Henry James. The play, the first major production of the year, will be given Nov. 14 and 15 at 8:30 p.m. in Old Chapel, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Riegner.

Others in the cast are Connie Murray as Mrs. Gross, the housekeeper; Laurie Mitchell as the little girl and Sara Tullock as the little boy.

A story of unspeakable terror, "The Innocents," set in the 1880's, begins when a young governess arrives at an English estate to assume charge of two precocious, orphaned youngsters. A motherly housekeeper completes the household. But these four are not alone. They are haunted by fears and phantoms—by the shadows of giants and by ghastly faces in the moonlight.

Lola Dawson, senior from Rocky Mount and president of the Pierrettes, appeared in "Lima Beans" in her sophomore year, last year as Ginny in "Goodbye, My Fancy," in Lorca's "House of Bernarda Alba" and in "Ario Da Capo" by Edna St. Vincent Millay. For her project in theater class she directed the May Day pageant, and this summer she taught dramatics at Camp Yonahlossee near Blowing Rock.

In the role of Mrs. Gross, the housekeeper, Connie Murray makes her second appearance in a Pierrette production. She had a part in last year's production of "Pygmalion." A sophomore, Connie is from Durham where she appeared in several high school plays and was student director of the senior play.

Laurie Mitchell of Charlotte, also a sophomore, is appearing in her first role. Before this she has always done backstage work.

Although a native of Winston-Salem, Sara Tullock is living here on campus. A sophomore transfer from Hollins, Sara attended Salem Academy where she was an active member of the drama club. This is her first big role. She is considering minoring in Dramatics.

Technical Director for "The Innocents" is Jeanne Harrison, and the scenery designer is Bryan Balfour.

Jacobowsky To Present Violin Recital

Eugene Jacobowsky, violinist, will present the first of the faculty recitals, Monday, Oct. 8, in Memorial Hall.

Mr. Jacobowsky joined Salem's faculty last year. Before coming here he taught at Elon College. He received his B. S. degree at Juilliard School of Music, and his M. A. degree at Teachers College of Columbia University. Besides teaching at Salem, Mr. Jacobowsky is concert master for the Winston-Salem Symphony.

James Hart, director of music at First Presbyterian Church, will be the accompanist for the recital.

Sawyer Speaks On Education With Religion

Speaking on "The Place of Religion in Education" for Founder's Day chapel program, the Rev. Edwin A. Sawyer concluded, "It is our prayer that she (Salem) will be known for the kind of religious life that can hold together a whole world that otherwise could well fall apart at the seams."

In order to promote this type of religious life on campus, Reverend Sawyer was recently appointed Salem chaplain and full time instructor in Bible and Christian Education.

He discussed the principles underlying his appointment saying first of all that religion belongs on the American college campus.

One advantage offered by education complete with religion is a combination of freedom and authority of which our Student Government Association is an example. Lastly, a college chaplain serves as a guide to lead students over the stumbling blocks of everyday problems.

The Rev. George Higgins, director of the Board of Christian Education at the Provincial Building, opened the program in commemoration of Salem's 180th birthday by a scripture reading and a prayer.

Dr. Gramley introduced the Alumnae Slate October Meets

The Younger Alumnae Club of Raleigh will hold the first of several alumnae meetings scheduled for the month of October. Miss Edith Kirkland, Mrs. Amy Heibredner and Miss Lelia Graham Marsh will represent Salem at the Raleigh meeting, Oct. 11. A tea will be held for prospective Salem students.

There will be an alumnae meeting for those of Elizabeth City and vicinity on Oct. 13. Miss Peggy Gray, formerly employed in the Public Relations Office, will be the speaker.

Miss Ivy Hixson, Mrs. Heibredner and Miss Marsh will attend a tea Oct. 15 at Lexington for the alumnae of Lexington, High Point and Thomasville.

Dr. Dale Gramley will speak at an alumnae meeting in Atlanta, Ga. Oct. 22. He will remain in Atlanta until the following day to attend the inauguration of Dr. Wallace Alston, the new president of Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Ga.

The Winston-Salem Alumnae will meet in the Day Student Center, Oct. 25.

Seven alumnae trustees will be special guests at a meeting of the Executive Board of the Winston-Salem Alumnae Association Oct. 17. A business meeting in the Friendship Room in Strong dormitory will precede a luncheon in the club dining room.

Pictured above are Jean Babilee and Nathalie Philippart, who will dance with the Ballet Theater when it appears in Winston-Salem Oct. 15.

Annual Plans Fashion Show For Oct. 9

The Sights and Insights will present a fashion show Tuesday, Oct. 9 at 7:00 p.m. in the Day Students Center.

No admission will be charged. In addition there will be a number drawing for a door prize. Each person attending will receive a number as she enters.

The show, sponsored by a local store, will include all types of college apparel. Especially featured will be separates—blouses, skirts, and sweaters—wool dresses and suits.

The models will be Jane Watson, Florence Cole, Lou Davis, Faye Lee, Margie Ferrell, Frances Williams, Jean and Joan Shope, Kay Cunningham, Phoebe Barnhardt, Rooney Barnes and Florence Spagh.

Girl, Parent Students Here

Drane Vaughn and her mother, new students at Salem, are the first mother-daughter combination to attend school here.

Drane, who is majoring in history and primary education, is a transfer student from Hollins. While at Hollins, Drane was feature editor of the college paper, vice-president of the freshman class and a member of the honor court. She is now day student reporter for the Salemite.

Mrs. Vaughn attended the University of Georgia for two years and received her teaching certificate. She then taught for two years before her marriage. At present she is renewing her teacher's certificate with a probable major in history.

The Vaughns have two classes together—child literature and government. They said they enjoy being in class and studying together. When asked how they like Salem, they both replied, "We like it fine!"

41 To Visit Wake Forest

Approximately 41 Salemites will board a bus on Saturday morning, October 6, bound for Wake Forest to participate in the first Wake Forest-Salem Day. They will be official guests of the college for the Wake Forest vs. Richmond football game.

The group will meet at the front of Clewell tomorrow morning at 11:15 to board the chartered bus. The dining room staff will provide each girl with a bag lunch which they will eat on the way in order to eliminate the delay which would be caused by stopping for lunch. They will arrive at Wake Forest in time for the game. The chartered bus will bring them back to Salem after the game and probably will be back in Winston-Salem by 9:00 p.m.

Wake Forest-Salem Day came about when Dr. Harold W. Tribble, president of Wake Forest, was on the Salem campus September 27 to attend the dinner celebrating the tenth anniversary of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. Dr. Tribble talked to several groups of girls who were having their after-

Girl Of Month To Be Selected

A new feature will appear in the Salemite beginning Oct. 12. The Salemite and I. R. S. will sponsor jointly a Girl-of-the-Month who represents her class and Salem.

The qualities for which she will be chosen are grooming, poise, friendliness, versatility, originality, conduct, cooperation, activities and interests. Girls from each of the classes are eligible.

Judges will be four members of the Salemite staff and four from the I. R. S. council. The judges will change monthly.

Each month in the Salemite there will be a picture and interview of the winner.

Ballet Group Will Dance At Reynolds

On its thirteenth annual nationwide tour, following its fall season at New York's Metropolitan Opera House, Ballet Theatre will appear in Winston-Salem Friday, Oct. 12, at 8:15 p. m. in Reynolds Auditorium.

With Lucia Chase and Oliver Smith as administrative directors, Ballet Theatre is presented by Blevins Davis, president of Ballet Theatre Foundation. Ballet by and for Americans is the dance company's byword, and this troupe has advanced far towards its goal of establishing a company American in character but international in scope. Ballet Theatre has just returned from a tour of South America.

A repertory selected from 20 great ballets will be presented. Igor Youskevitch, who has few, if any peers in the art of classical dancing, Alicia Alonso, John Kriza and Mary Ellen Moylan and the French stars, Jean Babilee and Nathalie Philippart will perform.

With its corps de ballet symphony orchestra and technical staff Ballet Theatre's company numbers 100. Alexander Smallens is musical director, Joseph Levine is conductor, Dimitri Romanoff is regisseur and Edward Caton is ballet master. The Winston-Salem appearance will be sponsored by the dance forum and Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Life magazine has hailed Ballet Theatre as "the best ballet company in the United States."

This season Ballet Theatre again has for its first classical dancer, Igor Youskevitch. Alicia Alonso, John Kriza and Mary Ellen Moylan complete the stellar list.

Music Hours To Begin Nov. 1

Weekly music hours will begin Nov. 1, according to a report from the music faculty meeting last Monday night. The musical programs will be presented on Thursdays at 5:00 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

The first of the series, organized by Miss Margaret Vardell, will feature college talent. Miss Laurie Jones is in charge of the program the following week which will also be composed of college students.

Winston-Salem children studying music at Salem will appear on the program Nov. 15 under the direction of Miss Frances Sowers. Mrs. Margaret Merriman, in charge of the Nov. 29 music hour, will plan a program consisting of college students.

High school-age students will appear in the following week's program which is being arranged by Miss Harriet Greider. Mrs. Nell Starr will again feature college talent on her program Dec. 13.

The public is invited to all of these programs.

Parks To Preside

Betty Parks, president of the northwest district of the Future Teachers of America, will preside at a luncheon meeting Tuesday, Oct. 9, at 1:00 p.m. in High Point.

The purpose of this meeting is to construct F. T. A. policies for the coming year and to elect new officers.

The northwest district is composed of five college with teacher training programs. Together with Salem are Greensboro College, W. C. U. N. C., High Point College and Appalachian State Teachers College.
