

Fire Causes Excitement In Clewell

Two fire trucks answered the alarm at noon Wednesday for a fire on first floor Clewell. The fire was discovered by Caroline Huntley when she noticed smoke coming from a storage closet containing a vacuum cleaner, mops and brooms. Sarah Sue Tisdale and Ann Merritt ran to get Mr. Gorsuch who extinguished the blaze before the firemen arrived. The vacuum cleaner was completely ruined, and the walls of the closet were scorched.

Dr. Gramley and Mrs. Heidbreder talked with the fire chief about the possible cause for the blaze; it was thought to be spontaneous combustion.

Diane Knott and Sue Jones, whose room is next to the storage room, were the calmest of the group of freshmen and sophomores who gathered to discuss the excitement.

Some of the girls had been in the middle of a class when the trucks arrived. Emily Gunn and Mary Lou Bridgers had struggled through a French test during all the confusion. They ran in just as the firemen were taking out the last shovel full of ashes. The fire drill the previous night had been profitable.

Revised Gettysburg Address Circulated In Lit. Class

A Contemporary Version
Eight and seven-tenth decades ago the pioneer workers in this continental area implemented a new group based on an ideology of free boundaries and initial conditions of equality.

We are now actively engaged in an over-all evaluation of conflicting factors in order to determine whether or not the life expectancy of this group or of any group operating under the stated conditions is significant. We are met in an area of maximum activity among the conflicting factors. The purpose of the meeting is to assign permanent positions to the units which have been annihilated in the process of creating a steady state. This procedure represents standard practice at the administrative level.

From a more comprehensive viewpoint we cannot assign—we cannot integrate—we cannot implement this area. The courageous units in being annihilated, who were active in this area have integrated it to a point where the application of simple arithmetical operations to include our efforts would produce only negligible effects. The reaction of the general public to this colloquium will be nonessential and transitory but the reaction to the impingement of the combat group is invariant. It is for this group in being rather to be integrated with the incomplete activities for which the combat groups who were active in this area have so comprehensively effected the initial implementation. It is preferable for this group to be integrated with the incompleting implementation—that from the standards set by these respected deceased units we make accelerated intensive effort—that we here resolve at a high ethical level that the deceased shall not have been annihilated without furthering the project—that this group under divine leadership shall implement a new source of unhampered activity—and that political supervision composed of the integrated units, for the integrated and by the integrated units shall not become extinct on the superficial area of this planet.
