Seniors Win Prize For Pep Stunt Rally

For the second consecutive year the senior class took the prize at the A. A. pep rally held last Thursday.

Each class presented a stunt. The freshmen led off with their interpretation of the poem "Casey at the Bat". They enacted it as they thought the game had actually been played.

The sophomores were second on the list with a skit called "Athletic Annie". They showed why each girl at Salem should be an enthusiastic A. A. member. The juniors demonstrated how cheerleaders from all parts of the world would yell. The seniors ended the program by showing what four years at Salem did to them. The occasion was the mock-funeral of Beth Coursey. Flossie Cole conducted "last rites."

After the stunts, refreshments were served and the $5.00 prize was awarded to the seniors for their presentation.

Mrs. Heiddreder also suggested that any organization that does not have a constitution should write one and submit it to the office of the Dean of Students.

Party Planned By Day Group

The day students have announced plans for their annual Mothers' Tea, held to give mothers an opportunity to meet each other, students and faculty members.

At a day students' meeting last Tuesday they decided to have the tea Friday, Nov. 16, from 3:00 to 5:30 p.m. in the Day Students Center.

The officers, Bobbie Pfaff, Anna Frances Morgan, Mary Lou Whitehart and Sara Watson, will be the general supervisors. The entire group will work on four committees headed by Faye Fuller, decorations; Sara Williard, invitations; Ruth McIlroy, food and Anne Evans, music.

What God

(Continued from page two) two people are married they should be devoted to one another to such an extent that the other one always comes first above everybody else in life. Definitely your wife must come before your parents, your husband before your father and mother. Whenever there is any dispute between the two, you must always take the side of your mate; or if you want to pay your mate the highest possible compliment, agree with her, or take her side before the world even when she is wrong. Now you may want to disagree with that but I think that is good sense and good religion. You must never let anything come between you or make people know that you can be divided either by your parents or by your children.
