

Puppy Is Biting's New Addition

Had you spent Monday night in Biting Dormitory, you would probably have been awakened by the squeeling of a little black dog which belongs to Emily Warden.

Emily was doing her all day practice teaching Monday at Gray High School. During physical education class, Emily went out on the playground to watch her eighth grade boys play football.

The dog under discussion ran out on the field, and Emily picked her up to keep her from being hit by the players. After class, the boys wanted Emily to bring the dog back to Salem, which she promptly did.

Russell Warmed Milk

Russell Crews, the chief cook, warmed some milk for the dog, and Mrs. Cummings, the dietician, gave Emily a box which Emily lined with her Salem sweat shirt for the dog's bed. The next step was warming and defleaving the pup. This was accomplished by Emily with much help from the senior class.

Since the dog was found at Gray High School and is a lady, Emily has named her Gray Lady. The seniors are spoiling her, for at every meal you can see food being saved for Gray Lady and brought out under the watchful eye of Emily.

The future for Gray Lady is not certain, but it is certain that she has won a fond place in the hearts of all the seniors.

Guests To View Decorations

Salem College is sending invitations to all old and new friends of the college to attend an open house Tuesday, Dec. 11 from 8:00 to 9:30 p.m. The Christmas decorations in each residence hall social room will be judged between 7:30 and 8:00 p.m. that night, and college guests may visit them during the evening.

Students were asked in chapel last Tuesday to give the names of those they wished invited. The guest list of nearly 300 includes these suggestions.

The I. R. S. is in charge of arrangements.

Roaring Twenties Stages Comeback In Davy Amid Flappers, Flivvers And Raccoon Coats

By Emma Sue Larkins

In Davy Jones Euber Roberts was posing as a flapper while Betty Tyler sketched her likeness on the wall. Every now and then Euber would relax by doing a few steps of the Charleston. "The Roaring Twenties" is staging a comeback as new decorations in Davy Jones progress.

Betty Tyler is chairman of the committee to sketch the drawings on the walls. Bobbie Kuss, Elaine Williams and Florence Swindell are her assistants. So far they have sketched a flapper doing the Charleston, a shiek in a raccoon coat, a flivver and a football player conversing with a flapper cheerleader.

The flappers have the traditional short, straight hair-dos, tight skirts and long waists. The flivver looks as dilapidated and dangerous as in the days of the Big Apple, and the shiek with the raccoon coat would put Valentino to shame.

The curtains will further emphasize the theme of the 20's. Co-chairmen Ann Robertson and Patsy Gattis reveal that the curtains will be of yellow cotton-satin with ruffles of red calico. They also plan to cover the piano stool to match the curtains.

Lou Bridgers has already painted the piano a light cream color. All the Clewell girls are taking turns painting the tables, chairs and benches a bright green under the direction of Betsy Turner, painting chairman.

Further decoration plans are still in the idea stage. Clewell residents hope to raise money to cover the benches to match the curtains and put cushions in the chairs. They are also considering painting song titles on the piano that were famous in Mom and Dad's day.

So far the work has progressed smoothly with only a few mishaps. Joan Shope got paint on her only pink skirt, and Kay Cunningham's toe nails are still green after stepping in the paint can.

While Kay is looking more and more like the Green Knight of the Sir Gawain story, Davy Jones is looking more and more like "The Roaring Twenties"—thanks to the Clewell flappers.

There will probably be a housewarming party when the decorating is completed.

NewsBriefs

The A. A. U. W. and the alumnae club of Winston-Salem will hold the fourth joint-meeting at Salem College. The meeting will be held in the Day Student Center at 8:00 p.m., Dec. 14. The foreign students of the college will speak on Christmas customs in their respective countries.

Dr. William B. Todd read a paper entitled "Bibliography and the Editorial Problem in the Eighteenth Century" at the second meeting of the Faculty Research Group. The meeting was held in the reception rooms of Strong Dormitory on last Monday evening.

Sign-outs for the Christmas holidays will follow the usual procedure, advises Mrs. Amy Heibredner. Sign out between Dec. 11 and 14.

If from here a student is going directly to any place except her home, she must have permission on file in the office, when she fills out her card.

Florence Cole was recently notified that she has been selected campus representative for a nationally advertised cigarette. Her plans include a quiz show and various contests throughout the school year.

The faculty and student body of Salem College are invited to a Christmas program to be presented Sunday at 5:00 p.m. in the Home Moravian Church by the Choral Ensemble and the Home Church Choir. Because of this program, there will be no regular "Y" vesper service this Sunday.

F. O. Carver, Jr., editor of the news room of WSJS, will be the speaker for the International Relations Club meeting on Thursday, Dec. 13, at 6:45 p.m. in the living room of Biting.
