Enthusiastic Dr. Patterson Helps Salemites With Decisions In Christian Living

By Emily Warden

Violeta and Beatriz were coming out of the door of the Alumnae House. They immediately said that they, along with Randy and Lisa, had been chatting with the "foreign student" who was born of missionary parents in China and came to America to be educated. They were speaking of Dr. C. H. Patterson, Religious Emphasis Week speaker.

That informal talk was only one of the activities of Dr. Patterson during this week. Each evening he held discussions on topics ranging from "Putting Jesus First" to "The Christian Home". Also he spoke at both chapel services and at "Y" Watch last Wednesday evening. Many students went to him with their personal problems, and others chatted with him over their meals in the dining hall.

Compares Religions

The first evening Dr. Patterson, as a means of introduction to the week's program, compared Christianity to Confucianism, Buddhism and Taoism, all of which he experienced while serving as a missionary to China before the war. He said that Christianity has so much more to offer than these other religions that no one should reject it.

In his first evening talk last Tuesday he emphasized the importance of making decisions, "because we must either accept or reject Christ—there is no happy medium." He further stated that Christ must not only be accepted, but must be put first in a person's life.

Christians Cast Shadow

Using Peter as an example, Dr. Patterson later told how a Christian's shadow can be extended to eternity. He said that each thing done for Christ will spread, and that one will never know how far his shadow will be cast. He advised students to begin working for Christ right here on campus and in Winston-Salem, and then the influence that is created here will multiply elsewhere, he said.

Dr. Patterson ended his messages for Religious Emphasis Week with a discussion of "The Christian Home". At that meeting he presented Christ as the head of the family.

During the week Dr. Patterson saw much of Salem's campus, met many of Salem's students and heard many of Salem's problems.

He concluded that "Salem is a grand school, and I don't mean maybe. It has been an inspiration to me to visit here."

Going on to cite some of his outstanding impressions of Salem, Dr. Patterson named first the history and environment of the college.

"The centuries look down upon the student here. You are surrounded by hallowed memories which carry you back to Huss and Zinzendorf. No student can come to this spot and live among its sacred memories without catching a vision of service and life."

Dr. Patterson next mentioned "the splendid student body" and especially noted the value of having students from foreign countries staying here.

Dr. Patterson lastly gave credit to a "fine Y. W. C. A." for their work both on campus and in the community.

He has noticed that "thinking students are hungry for a more vital religious experience and are determined to find the secret of a living faith."

May Day Group Reports Loss

A recent report shows that empty Coke bottles amounting to 17 cases have not been returned.

The loss of two cents on each bottle is sustained by the May Day Committee which has undertaken the maintenance of coke machines in each dorm to help pay for May Day.

Betty Parks, chairman of the May Day Committee urges all student to see that all empty coke bottles are returned.

Just A Minute

She used to be "long and lanky," but since she inherited a fortune she is "tall and stately."

We're always wishing for what we haven't got—but what else is there to wish for?

As we understand it, the rising generation retires about the time the retiring generation arises.

Once in a while you see a man who doesn't want any more money. He's holding a lily.

He who laughs last is probably the one who intended to tell the story himself a little later.

There is only one thing a wife will admit she doesn't know and that's why she married her husband.

If we can prevent most people from finding out how dumb we are—we're not so dumb.
