Salem Elects Eisenhower In Chapel Poll

General Dwight D. Eisenhower won the Presidential Preference Poll in Chapel last Tuesday. The election climaxed a panel discussion in which the nominees for the presidency were represented by six Salem College students.

The members of the panel were Emily Mitchell for Harold Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania; Mary Campbell Craig for Senator Robert Taft; Bill Long for Governor Earl Warren of California; Faye Fuller for Senator Estes Kefauver; Hal Shewmaker for Senator Richard Russell and Ann Hobbs for Eisenhower.

Stassen Wants Profit Sharing

Stassen's domestic policy includes profit sharing between corporation and labor, lower taxes, high production level, assurance of jobs for all, establishment of a modern gold standard and no federal control for farmers. His foreign policy is to defeat communism without war, to insist on a strong military position, to strengthen the U. N. and to insist on the unwavering loyalty in the U. S.

Taft, in his political speeches has stated that his domestic policy concerns states rights as delegated in the constitution, a clean sweep of the governmental corruption, civil rights, and cutting national expenses in order to defeat socialism. His foreign policy is to "help those countries help themselves". His idea is to set up defenses in Europe and then let the people work for themselves. He intends to give material aid to Eastern Europe. This aid will come from private capital rather than government funds. He also wants liberty and peace in our country.

Warren's platform includes a continuation of the present social program, social legislation, compulsory health insurance, balanced budget, reexamination of the Taft-Hartly Law, racial equality and further economic and military aid to other countries.

Kefauver does not favor raise in taxes, he does want universal

Todd Receives Fellowship To England

Dr. William B. Todd has been recently notified that he has been awarded a Fulbright fellowship for postdoctoral research in London, England. The entitlement, one of only 22 allowed for this purpose, was granted on the basis of national competition among scholars in all fields of learning.

Dr. Todd will be given a leave of absence from Salem for the academic year of 1952-'53 to accept the appointment as visiting professor of English at the University of London. While in England he will study all available documentary evidence of 18th century English books.

Mr. Stewart Archibald Paints Old Salem And Campus

By Bobbi Kuss

Salemites have been wondering about the box of paints, the easel, the artist's stool, and the artist who does the water colors of Salem. Students have seen him on campus sketching the President's office on the corner, Clewell or one of the many other Salem buildings.

Many have stood and watched him on route to class as he paints his colorful pictures. This man who portrays the spirit of Salem in his paintings is Mr. Stewart Archibald.

Mr. Archibald lives in East Glouster, New York. His wife is the former Miss Richards of Winston-Salem. Their visits with relatives explain his frequent trips to the campus.

Although art is his main interest, he has also done a great deal of traveling. He has been to Bermuda, Hawaii, Florida, New Orleans, Charleston and Nova Scotia.

Larkins Talks On Citizenship

Senator John D. Larkins of Trenton, N. C. spoke Thursday in chapel commemorating the second annual Citizenship Day at Salem. He spoke on citizenship in general, and at the close of his speech the senior class repeated after him a pledge of participating citizenship.

Mr. Larkins is a native of Morristown, Tenn. and is now a practicing attorney in Trenton. In 1929 he received his B. A. degree from Wake Forest College and in 1930 his law degree.

Senator Larkins, who is a Democrat, is the former President Pro-Tem of the State Senate and is now a member of the Advisory Budget Commission. Along with his other offices, Mr. Larkins was elected the Sweetheart of Salem College last year.

He is the father of two daughters, Emma Sue a student at Salem, and Polly, a senior at New Bern High School and a perspective Salem student.

Queen Ends Wicked Spell Of Monsters

Monie Rowland will reign as Queen of the May at the annual May Day celebration Saturday, May 3, 1952. The pageant honoring the queen and her court will begin at 5:00 p.m.

Betty Parks, May Day chairman, has announced that the show will feature a traveler, Rooney Barnes, who is seeking a perfect land. Monsters appear bringing with them enslaved peasants who are set to work destroying beauty. The traveler calls for aid from the Spirit of Beauty. At this point the May Court enters, the monsters are converted and the slaves are freed.

Florance Cole will be the queen's Maid of Honor. The attendants will be Lou Davis, Jane Watson, Peggy Bonner, Connie Barnes, Ann Hobbs, Ann Hughes, Peggy Alderman, Caroline Ross, Cacky Post, Sara Tulloch, Sara Sue Tisdale and Phoebe Barnhardt.

The May Day celebration will begin Saturday morning when the Choral Ensemble will sing beneath Monie's window at 7:00 a.m. An outdoor chapel program, led by Mr. Edwin Sawyer, will be held at 8:30 a.m. behind Main Hall.

Following the pageant a buffet supper will be served in the dining hall for the May Day cast, the court and special guests.

To end the day's activities, the I. R. S. will sponsor a dance beginning at 9:00 p.m. in the gym.

Jacobowsky To Be Soloist

The Winston-Salem Symphony will present its third concert of the season tonight at 8:15 in Reynolds Auditorium. Henry Sopkin, conductor of the Atlanta Symphony, will be the guest conductor.

Mr. Eugene Jacobowsky, of the Salem College music faculty, will be the guest soloist playing "Concerto for Violin" by Wieniawski.

- The program will include:
- Oberon Overture Weber
 - Symphony No. 35 Mozart
 - Swiss Lullaby Rieuberpieree
 - Pizzicato Polka Stix
 - Gayne Suite No. 1 Katchaturian
 - South Pacific Overture Rodgers

Anne Robertson and Joan Elrick from Salem play in the symphony orchestra.

Student tickets will be sold for $1, or membership cards may be used.

Originality Shown

As part of preparation for practice teaching, the members of Dr. Welch's secondary education methods class are decorating her bulletin board. Each girl is responsible for fixing one bulletin board with the theme relating to the subject she plans to teach.

So far there have been several attractive arrangements on display. By no means is the "exhibition" restricted. Dr. Welch urges all interested persons with a curiosity about what the talents of these students may produce, to come see the different boards and offer suggestions, comments or criticisms.

He likes quaint buildings. This, too, explains his frequent trips to Charleston and Winston-Salem.

He has done pictures of the Salem Restoration project and the architectural work here. Besides his scenic water colors, he also paints portraits. Much of his work has been exhibited in New York, Washington and Boston.

Mr. Archibald has returned to his home in Glouster, but whenever Salemites think back to the picturesqueness of the campus, they will remember the man who painted it so realistically.

Freshmen Win Stunt Night

The freshman class won Stunt Night, held April 24.

The freshmen gave a skit on pictures in Esquire and their own magazine the Salemsquire. The sophomore class did a take off on "The Innocents". The junior class did a take off on "A Street Car Named Desire". This was done in three languages. The senior class did a satire on modern psychiatry.

In the first part of the winning skit, they showed the twelve Esquire Girls, and in the second half they portrayed twelve Salem girls, each one representing a certain event of the college girl year.

Honorable mention was given to the senior class.

AA To Give Dinner

The Athletic Association invites the students of Salem College to its annual banquet to be held Thursday night, May 8, at six o'clock in the dining hall.

At the banquet the softball varsity will be announced, and the letters, stars and blazers will be awarded. A blanket will be given to the senior with the most points for her four years.
