Ann Hobbs Weds Dentist; Plans To Commute Daily

Ann Hobbs was married July 11, 1952 to Dr. William Johnson Helsabeck. The wedding vows were spoken at 5:30 p.m. at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Charlotte.

Faye Lee and Joanne Bell, classmates of Ann's, were the Salem girls who served as bridesmaids.

Ann and Bill spent about three weeks honeymooning in Pennsylvania and New York and then returned to their home in King. Ann plans to commute each morning and complete her senior year.

After graduating from Central High School in Charlotte, Ann entered Salem. While at Salem, Ann has been house president of Strong, member of the student council, freshman feature girl, and a member of the Order of the Scorpion.

Bill took his pre-medical training at Wake Forest College and served with the Navy during World War II. He received his DDS degree from the Medical College of Virginia. Bill is now a practicing dentist in King.

New Signs, Faces On Campus Show Blend of Old And New

By Emma Sue Larkins

On campus we have noticed that there is a generous blend of the new and old. There are the new signs indicating Salem out on front campus. And, of course, the new faces everywhere.

The Salem Bookstore, an old institution on campus, has a new face. They have a new show case and florescent lights. And Sisters Dormitory, an even older institution, has new furniture, paint and curtains in the living room. South Dormitory has been completely done over and is in use again.

Clewell is in use again—after a deluge from the swimming pool. The basement lived up to its name of Davy Jones Locker!

The George Washington Tavern (which lives up to its name since George actually slept there) was the scene of a tea which alumnae gave for the freshmen. And the famous old Wachovia Museum has been open for parents and new students to visit.

The famous new science building has been visited also. And the Club Dining Room was visited by the Rotarians. We hope the Freshmen aren't spoiled seeing all those men on campus.

While the Freshmen have predominated the campus scene this week, the old students are back now, and the blend of old and new on campus is complete!
