

Kuss Sees

(Continued from page five)
 them all over the place and frightens little mice like me to death! We could cut off these hands on observing this and if the next time he waved the digitless stumps we could do away with them also.

There is also the type who reads his speech from beginning to end without ever lifting his face from the papyrus. He would do very well without his organs of sight and so a slight operation might cure him.

There is the type who continually refers to the fact that "When he was a boy—thus and so—". Why not eliminate this trite expression by simply eliminating his childhood?

Then there is the species who apologizes for three quarters of an hour for being a "stand-in." He never does get to his lecture. Amputation of his legs would make it impossible for this type to ever "stand-in" again.

4 Year Plan

(Continued from page three)
 morning, she never can get the drawer open.

When I left Jane and Anne, they had not budged from their beds, but their books had fallen to the floor and they were almost asleep.

Dr. Gramley's "Words Of Wisdom" Reprinted For The Benefit Of Forgetful Salemites

The new sweetheart of Salem College, Dr. Gramley, not only fills the prerequisites of a sweetheart, but also he has other abilities.

Salem girls hear his "words of wisdom" and try not to forget them. For those of us with somewhat forgetful minds there are reprinted below parts of his most outstanding talks:

Have high standards of personal conduct and live up to them. Others may sometimes "kid" you a bit, but they will secretly and sincerely admire you.

Write to your parents regularly, remembering that they too await eagerly each day's mail.

Thou Shalt Strive

Thou shalt strive for but not covet academic honors, nor the prettiest clothes, nor the handsomest boyfried, nor to be acquainted merely with a long list of titles of unread books in the library.

Blessed is the student who realizes that she is a part of student government, even though she holds no office.

We urge also designation of the campus as a bird sanctuary and we extend our protection to the squirrels. But we deplore the visitation or the harboring of dogs and cats for many reasons, most of these being obvious.

We advocate maintenance of an adequate and safe highway system and promise to do everything in our power to keep the roads free of toll stations between Salem and such places as Chapel Hill, Durham, Davidson, Raleigh and Wake Forest.

We Favor

We favor the right (of any student) to quit or transfer elsewhere if the pace is too demanding and your abilities and interests too restricted.

You can be a thermometer and slide up and down the scale, following the pattern of envy and strife the newspapers mirror . . . Or you can be a thermostat distinguishing between cold and hot, right and wrong.

Townpeople say they can identify Salem girls; schoolmen tell me they compete for Salem-trained teachers; and young men of varying size and appearance vie for their hearts and hands.

College Girl Defined

A college girl is Truth with polish on its fingernails, Beauty adulterated only by blue jeans, Wisdom with a scarf around its head, and Hope-for-the-future once a fraternity pin appears.

Salem believes that the clock on Home Church and the passageway between that edifice and Main Hall symbolize its belief in education founded on faith in God.

Salem is . . . a place, an atmosphere and a tradition.

Test Your Conduct

Ask yourself, when you do something you know is wrong, what kind of campus—or community yours would be if everyone there, including the faculty and staff, did the same thing.

A liberal education should not be regarded as an embroidery upon life but as a revelation of life itself.

We urge that students and faculty exercise sufficient good judgment over week-ends and vacation periods that they do not return to the campus over-tired, over-nervous or overcome.

Jobs Are Available

Announcements concerning summer employment for students are posted on the bulletin board in Main Hall. Dr. Hixon has a list of addresses of camps and other places of business employing summer workers in her office.

Students interested in securing summer jobs should consult the academic office for further information.

Larkins Tells

(Continued from page three)
 the I. R. S., you will also have to make your bed every morning. What could be worse?

Or your roommate could be on the Stee Gee and you couldn't have your night cap and late dates.

Or she could be president of the A. A., and the room always full of blazers, balls and bats. This could go on and on. Never room with the head of any organization on campus.

And of course, never room with someone who likes to cook shrimp in the room; or someone who likes your boy friend; or someone who is smarter than you are (or you'll feel inferior); or someone who is dumber than you are (and can't tutor you!).

Who do you room with? Look in the mirror—you'll find a perfect roommate.

Turner

(Continued from page four)
 people drink Tom Collins, lemonade, and cokes; blinds are pulled against the intense heat; vacationist leave for Myrtle, Wrightsville or Morehead; the younger set returns to Oxford before leaving for more promising places; young mothers have their mid-morning coke at Hall's Drug Store, and the noon hour is marked by the blast of the faithful fire horn.

Then the falling leaves mark the opening of another fall season . . .

NOW...10 Months Scientific Evidence For Chesterfield

A MEDICAL SPECIALIST is making regular bi-monthly examinations of a group of people from various walks of life. 45 percent of this group have smoked Chesterfield for an average of over ten years.

After ten months, the medical specialist reports that he observed . . .

no adverse effects on the nose, throat and sinuses of the group from smoking Chesterfield.

MUCH Milder
CHESTERFIELD
IS BEST FOR YOU