Britt Enjoys Fishing, Records, Photography, And Salemites

By Louise Barron

Dressed in a drak gray flannel coat and light gray flannel pants with a matching sweater, Mr. Donald E. Britt was sitting at his desk looking as if he had always been on his job at Salem.

Mr. Britt is Dr. Gramley's assistant and has been on the campus since Nov. 16. If you've never met him, you've probably wondered who the young man with a crew cut seen at all the latest college functions could be.

He and his family plan to move into their newly acquired house tomorrow. His wife, the former Suzanne Bagnol, and four children: two boys, aged three and five, and twins, a boy and girl, age seven, have just recently joined him in Winston-Salem. Their new house is at 903 Jersey Avenue and has five bedrooms which Mr. Britt assured me would just hold his family.

Since his arrival, Mr. Britt has spent a lot of his time becoming orientated to the Salem campus. He has attended the faculty recitals, the Pierrette production of "Dark of the Moon," Clewell's open house and many other such functions. At each appearance, students have always commented on his pleasing speaking voice and his good-looking clothes.

Mr. Britt classifies his position as being somewhere between Mr. Yarborough's and Dr. Gramley's and says his duties consist of everything from buying lamps to presiding at chapel.

"When I came," he said, "Dr. Gramley gave me the idea there would be infinite variety. I have found my job varied and very pleasant with never a dull moment.

No two days have been alike."

Mr. Britt has several hobbies and many interests. In the years between his graduation from Carolina and his arrival at Salem, he has worked for radio stations, newspapers, Pineland College and was among the organizers of the Civic Music program and Little Theater in Clinton.

He is interested in photography, enjoys reading all types of literature and has a record collection consisting of all kinds of music. He is particularly a Stan Kenton fan.

During his interview, Mr. Britt told me a little about the acquisition of his record collection. It seems his wife had a part of this collection when they married. He laughingly said, "I married her for her records."

Mr. Britt also enjoys good food. He and his wife have a lot of fun seeking out new and unusual restaurants while visiting new cities.

Another pastime he enjoys is fishing—especially surf-casting. He and his family spend some time both in winter and summer at Mrs. Britt's parents' beach house at Garden City, S. C.

Mr. Britt's big smile, long stride and gray flannels are already becoming familiar on the Salem campus. He is a welcomed addition to our Salem family and is fast becoming indispensable.

ganization. But for now . . . no pact in the near future.

Tragedy at Fort Bragg when a transport airplane, tagged by the Air Force "Flying Boxcar", left formation on maneuvers with engine trouble and plummeted to the ground killing fifteen of the crew and paratroopers already in air.

In payment for a tragedy . . . the cold-blooded, heartless, first degree murder of little Bobby Greenlease . . . Bonnie Heady and Carl Hall will die in the gas chamber at Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 18.

Still in the tragedy realm . . . the new and numerous atrocity findings of the Korean War committed by the Communist forces turned over to the U. N.

With the "Reds" and "Whites" we need some "Blue" and I imagine Notre Dame was that when her faked injury to stop the clock in the last minutes of the Iowa-Notre Dame game was discovered!

How the stars got started

LIZABETH SCOTT says: "I got my theatrical training in the school of hard knocks. Summer stock first. Once I sat for 7 months as an understudy. I stuck it out—studied, posed for fashion pictures. Then, signed for a tiny film part, I was switched to leading lady. My career had begun!"
