

General Romulo To Talk On 'America's Stake In Asia'

At a dinner on Monday, Feb. 7, preceding the second of the Salem College Lecture Series, General Carlos P. Romulo will be entertained by the Lecture Committee in the Club Dining Room.

General Romulo, renowned authority on international relations, will speak in Memorial Hall at 8:30 on "America's Stake in Asia." Afterwards, the International Relations Club will entertain the lecturer at a coffee in the Friendship Rooms of Strong.

According to Miss Jess Byrd, chairman of the Lecture Committee, several special guests have been invited to the dinner for General Romulo. In addition to members of the Lecture Committee, the guest list includes the following:

Carlos P. Romulo

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll A. Peabody (Mr. Carroll is a former teacher of General Romulo); Major-General Joe N. Dalton; Miss Leo Pallatak, doctor in the research department of Bowman Gray; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Carroll; Mr. and Mrs. Reed Sarratt; Mr. and Mrs. Meade Willis; and Salem foreign students, Erlinda Aubueg, Mariaberg, Innes Astorga, and Gull-Marie Lundberg.

Tickets for General Romulo's lecture, achieving greater significance because of the current crisis in the Far East, are being sought by persons in the Winston-Salem area. And General Romulo is in demand for television and radio appearances on local stations.

Members of the Lecture Committee

Operatic Star To Entertain At Reynolds

The Civic Music Association of Winston-Salem will present Claramae Turner, American contralto star of opera and concert, in a concert at Reynolds Auditorium on February 8.

Miss Turner has one of the country's top operatic voices and a mastery of some 75 difficult operatic roles. The daughter of an engineer, Miss Turner became interested in the folk music of various regions when, as a child, she accompanied her father in his travels throughout the country. These simple tunes, sung to her own guitar accompaniment, led her irresistibly into a musical career.

During her high school years, she studied music with Maude Homan Riley in her home town of Eureka, California. After she was graduated, she went to San Francisco to join the chorus of the opera. At the same time, she began to study music with Giacomo Spadoni, Kurt Adler, and Nino Comel. From them, and from her first teacher, she got the training that led to her successful debut with the San Francisco Opera, and ultimately to the Metropolitan and stardom.

For several years she sang on the West Coast, building up a reputation as a top-rank artist. Besides doing leading contralto roles with the San Francisco Opera, she appeared as guest soloist with that

(Continued on Page Three)

Administration Adds Teachers

The President's office has announced three additions to the Salem College faculty. Miss Ann Shealy was named instructor in English; Miss Geraldine I. Grady was added to the religion department; and to the home economics department is added Mrs. Pollyanna Gordon Stewart.

Miss Shealy, whose home is in Lexington, S. C., will teach some of the courses taught last semester by Dr. Todd. She received a B. A. degree from Winthrop College, her M. A. from the University of South Carolina, and she has done more than a year's graduate study at the University of Tennessee toward a Ph. D. in English.

Also named to the faculty is Miss Geraldine I. Grady, director of religious education at the First Presbyterian Church in Winston-Salem, who will teach one course in religion—Religious Development of Children. Miss Grady holds her B. A. from Flora MacDonald and her M. R. E. degree from the Assembly Training School, Richmond, Virginia.

She taught for a year at Coats, North Carolina, before entering the field of religious education. She served in 1952 as President of the North Carolina Association of D. R. E.'s in the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Pollyanna Gordon Stewart will teach an advanced clothing course in home economics. Mrs. Stewart was on the faculty during the second semester last year.

She holds her B. S. from Appalachian State Teacher's College. She has done graduate work at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina and the University of Tennessee. She was formally a member of the faculty at Appalachian.

Honors Day Is Observed In Assembly

The awarding of the B. A. degree to Elissa Hutson highlighted the Honor's Day chapel yesterday. Elissa is the fourth student to receive her degree in mid-year at Salem.

Dean Hixson presented the candidate for graduation, and Dr. Dale Gramley awarded the degree.

Nine juniors received recognition of their very high academic standing when Dean Hixson announced that they had been inducted into the Honor Society of Salem College.

These girls have attended Salem at least five semesters, and have maintained an excellent academic record through all semesters. Those students inducted were:

Louise Barron, Rock Hill, S. C., Donald Caldwell, Dillon, S. C., Ella Ann Lee, Smithfield, N. C., Agnes Rennie, Richmond, Va., Mary McNeely Rogers, Mooresville, N. C., Mary Benton Royster, Durham, N. C., Anne Tesch, Winston-Salem, N. C., Martha Thornburg, Hickory, N. C. and Sandra Whitlock, Washington, D. C.

After announcing the new members of the Honor Society, Dr. Hixson read the names of those students whose grades averaged B plus or more for the first semester.

Students already in the Honor Society are: Norma Jean Ansell, High Point, N. C., Carolyn Kneeburg, Salisbury, N. C., Barbara Kuss, Allentown, Pa., Betsy Brandon Liles, Wadesboro, N. C., Aud-

(Continued on Page Four)

Smitherman and Morrison To Attend AFCW Meet

Betty Morrison and Jo Smitherman have been elected by the Athletic Association to attend the national convention of the Athletic Federation of College Women.

The two delegates, selected by secret ballot, will be the official North Carolina representatives, according to a decision by the December State convention at Meredith.

$2,200,000 Fund To Be Solicited

Salem College and Academy will launch a campaign this spring to raise $2,200,000 for new buildings and endowment, President Dale H. Gramley has announced.

The committee on Public Solicitation has approved the undertaking, and the month of May was set aside for the campaign. $1,200,000 is sought for buildings and $1,000,000 for endowment. The endowment is intended primarily to raise the faculty pay schedule and correct an inadequate situation in which student fees now provide 92 per cent of the salaries.

The buildings needed most and listed by the Board of Trustees in the order they are likely to be built are: a combination steam plant, laundry and shop to serve both Academy and College; an addition to the Academy to provide a variety of facilities; and a new college dormitory for 97 students. All of the buildings will be of the Salem-type architecture that has been retained throughout the years at the Academy and College.

"The primary and compelling reasons for the forthcoming campaign centers in Salem's desire to improve the quality of its program and the scope of its service," Dr. Gramley said. "More students at Salem would mean additions to the faculty to the end that students will 'rub' minds and personalities with additional trained minds and personalities."

The present enrollment at the college of 255 students—plus 75 commuting students—is too small for maximum efficiency, according to Dr. Gramley. Salem's Board of Trustees has put 400 as the ceiling for boarding students in discussing a long-range development program. That figure was set as being desired to provide a "maximum of efficiency in an operating unit."

"We have no intention of becoming a big college—but rather to increase only to a size that will enable us to become better and better," said Dr. Gramley.

Several improvements and expansions will be possible through transfer of various facilities when the new buildings are completed.

Shops will be transferred from Old Chapel and that space used for a Student Activity Center. The second floor of South Hall will be used for classrooms when dormitory facilities there are discontinued.

The college dormitory will have a large recreation area, men's lounge, powder room, coat, game and study rooms and storage space for trunks in the basement. On each of the three dormitory floors there will be rooms for students, five single and the other rooms double.

Each will be equipped with built-in shelves, lavatory and large walk-in closets. Also on each floor will be a lounge, large alcoves, luggage storage rooms, and on the first floor, offices and a counselor's suite.

Betty, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. Morrison of Asheville, is a junior majoring in art. Her minor is primary education.

Jo, an English major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smitherman of Elkin. Her minor is a combination of history and Latin.

Athletic activities have dominated Betty's extracurricular activities during her two years at Salem. She has held the campus tennis championship since the victory her freshman year.

Jo's major campus position is news editor of the Salemite. She has served as a news writer and copy editor. A member of the editorial staff of Sights and Insights, Jo is also sophomore representative to the Y Council.

As members of the current A. A. Council, Betty is tennis manager and Jo shares the newly-adopted office of publications manager with Sissie Allen.

These two girls edited before Christmas the first state-wide NC-AFCW bulletin, "Shirts 'n Shorts." At the Meredith convention, Salem was re-elected to continue publication of the newsletter until fall of 1955.

Noted particularly for her tennis ability, Betty has participated in the state amateur tennis tournament and is currently holder of several club championships in Asheville. Jo was runner-up in the women's division of the Elkin tourney last summer.

Having served as emcee of her class's freshman presentation of "Showboat," Betty was chosen to be mistress of ceremonies at the recent musical success, the "Junior Follies." She was also prop head of the Pierrettes' fall production, "The Would-Be Gentleman."

Around five hundred delegates representing all of the forty-eight states are expected to attend the convention from March 31 until April 4 at Smith College in Northampton, Mass. The Salem delegates will be responsible for written reports of all meetings to the 1955 convention of the state AFCW next fall.

Lablings Hear Dr. Anscombe

Dr. Francis Charles Anscombe spoke to the Lablings last night at their regular February meeting held in the science building.

"The Life and Death of the Stars" was the subject of Dr. Anscombe's speech. He used photographs and charts to illustrate his talk.

Dr. Anscombe, having taught history and philosophy at Salem for twenty-three years, is now Professor Emeritus of Salem College's department of history. He was head of the history department before he retired in 1947.

A resident of Winston-Salem, Dr. Anscombe has a column in the Twin City Sentinel on current events.

Dr. Anscombe received his B.A. from Earlham College. He got his M.A. and Ph. D. at the University of North Carolina and his L. L. B. at Hamilton College of Law. He completed his Professional Studies at Kingsmead College, England. Dr. Anscombe has also studied at John Hopkins University and Wake Forest Law School.