on other things. The band, she hopes, will wear turbans. Jack Carter, who played at the Christmas Dance, will return by popular demand. Barbara White will sing three songs—and more, we hope.

The girls who check the tickets will be dressed in Arabian costumes. The chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Jacobowsky, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, and Mr. and Mrs. Britt. Mr. Britt, of course, will be master of ceremonies.

Ann wanted me to remind everyone about the privileges that are on trial this year. We can go on front and back campus during the dance, but not off campus. We'll also be allowed to spend the night out in town. If you plan to do this, be sure to check the handbook.

The dance starts at nine and ends at twelve, but all those who are staying here have late permission until 1:00. However, we must be at the dance by 10:30 to receive this permission.

Oh, yes, don't forget the Sophomore Midnight Snack after the dance. Those kids are really hepped up on the subject, so its bound to be nice. If they "approach" you, buy a ticket.

The whole I. R. S. sends out a plea for volunteers to help decorate, to help come, and to help enjoy.

The whole thing sounds wonderful. See you there.
