

F. Cunningham Opens Series Of Recitals

Mary Frances Cunningham will open the 1957 series of sophomore and senior recitals February 25 at 7:30 p.m. with an organ program.

As organist at the local Central Terrace Methodist Church, Frankie already is accustomed to public performance. She gave a freshman recital last year under the guidance of her teacher, John Mueller.

A day student may not be expected to take an active part in on-campus activities. But, Frankie manages the vice-presidency of the Canterbury Club and the Day Students, and the secretarial work of the music students and the Choral Ensemble.

Between practice hours in Memorial Hall she somehow finds time to accompany the Little Chapel Trio and the Ensemble. To get away from it all, Frankie runs for the gym at 4:45 for a hot game of basketball with the other sophomores.

Mary Frances may be called a double-threat musician: an interpreter of the classics and a player of so-called popular music. As a talented pianist, she won superior ratings in high school contests while studying with Hans Heide-mann.

When she receives her AB degree with the class of 1959, Frankie plans either to teach public school music or enter religious education as a career. Meanwhile she is apt at improvising a pop tune for the Rotary Club or playing "I Love You" in the Club Dining Room meetings.

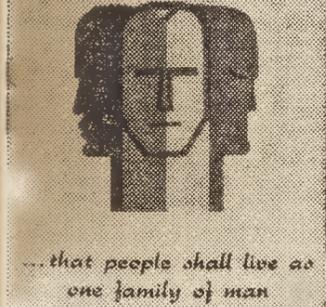

As Mr. Peterson's Girl Friday, Frankie is also called on to direct the Ensemble when Mr. Pete is kept away by sickness (currently, laryngitis is the culprit).

The recital program, which will be presented in Memorial Hall, is listed as follows:

- Chaconne in E Minor
- Buxtehude
- Nun Bitten wir den heiligen
- Gust Buxtehude
- Wie Schon Leuchtet die Mor-
- gen Stern Buxtehude
- Prelude and Fugue in D Major
- Bach
- Concerto No. 2 in Bb. Handel
- Variations Sur un Noel Dupre

Brotherhood

Brotherhood Week
February 17-24

Tomorrow is the last day of National Brotherhood Week, sponsored annually by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. It is "as American as the Fourth of July" and reminds citizens that brotherhood can be made a normal and natural part of everyday living. Bernard M. Baruch says, "The time will come, and soon I hope, when Brotherhood Week will be a reminder, not of the presence of discrimination in our midst, but of its eradication. Until that time, we must, each of us, work to break down its barrier, fight bigotry wherever we find it and cleanse our hearts of blind animosity against our fellows."

Cage Tournament To Start Monday

By Anne Catlette

"... And the South shall rise again!" The Old North State has helped to make this dream come true, especially where basketball is concerned. Today North Carolina can boast two of the top teams in the country—Carolina ranks No. 1 while Wake Forest is tenth.

As a Southern, Tar Heel College, Salem's spirit is undaunted. She has to make her contribution to the sports world too, even if she goes unrecognized by the United Press poll.

No matter the oversight, Salem's enthusiasm reigns high. Under the direction of the Athletic Association the basketball tournament next week should be exciting. Though Salem can boast no six-footers, or gigantic coliseums, the class teams are out for a kill.

Defending champions are the seniors, winners for their past three years at Salem. Varsity members include forwards Jo Smitherman and Anne Miles, and guard Jane Wrike. The biggest contenders for the championship seem to be the sophomores—determined to win! The juniors are holding fast, while the freshmen are going to be a threat. This will be their first basketball tournament of the

The annual basketball tournament starts next Monday night after dinner. Here is the complete schedule of games.

- Monday: 7:00, seniors and freshmen
7:45, juniors and sophomores
- Wednesday: 7:00, seniors and juniors

year, and they may spring a surprise attack.

Each person playing on a class team is required to practice three hours a week. Varsity players must practice a total of five hours per week.

If "Y'all" Miles and "Battlin" MacQueen can get out for the games you can get out to watch. Basketball is Salem's biggest sport and the tournament is sure to be a thriller.

1957 Marks Quincentennial Of Moravians

As a forerunner to the Quincentennial Celebration of the Moravian Church, Dr. Edwin Sawyer, head of the religion department will speak in chapel Thursday and give the Salem girls a chance to become better acquainted with the Moravian influence which surrounds the campus.

Dr. Sawyer will relate some of the interesting events in the history of the Moravian Church—the oldest Protestant Church in continual existence. Having the original Latin name, Unitus Fratrum, the church was founded in 1475 in Kunwald, a small village now in Czechoslovakia. This was 50 years before the reformation of Luther. Leaving the mother country, the Unitus Fratrum settled in Germany and the members were nicknamed Moravians since many of them had come from Moravia.

City Participating

Since the Quincentennial is important also as a marker of 500 years of Protestantism, Winston-Salem will bear marks of the celebration. Scenes from the history of the Moravians will appear in store windows from Sear's through The Anchor Company. Local libraries and schools will also carry displays during the next few weeks. The slogan for the occasion is "Honoring the past—dedicated to the future".

Student On Program

The highlight of the festivities will be a public service in the Memorial Coliseum at 3:00 on March 3 and all Salem students are invited to attend. The program will include a greeting from the Moravians in Germany by Christa Menzel, one of Salem's foreign students. Also expected is a 400-voice choir, a band with 500 players, an address by Governor Luther Hodges and the main speaker will be Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, President of the North Carolina Congress of Churches.

Other events to take place through the year of celebration include a music festival in September under the direction of Dr. Thor Johnson. Local churches will feature special programs, music and pageants in recognition of the anniversary.

Take Exams Get Position

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has recently brought the prospect of government jobs to attention through a booklet entitled "Federal Careers".

The Federal Service operates on the basis of "equal pay for equal work." The salary scale is therefore based on grades made on the required Federal Service Entrance Examination (FSEE). Wages run from $2,690 yearly to $16,000, depending upon the individual's classification in the competitive examination.

A student desiring summer employment may receive a temporary appointment not to exceed either 130 working days yearly or compensation of $1,180. The nice thing about this is that the FSEE is not required, although the character of prospective employees still must be cleared in order to assure an excellent staff. This character investigation is made for all prospective employees.

Those interested in obtaining more information may get a copy of "Federal Careers" from Miss Hixon, Academic Dean of Salem College.
