

Summer Plans Finished By Students, Faculty Freshmen In Their Utopia

Faculty

Everyone at Salem looks forward to a summer's vacation—everyone but Dr. Gramley, Mr. Britt, Miss Essie, Dr. Hixson and the majority of the faculty. Somehow the summer seems to be the best time to get their work done since there won't be any Salemites around to pester them.

Take, for instance, Mr. Farley who will desert third floor Main Hall and the pigeons and the workmen for Duke and research and work on his dissertation. Of course, only two months of the summer will be spent at Duke.

Mr. Farley will more than likely see a fellow Salem faculty member on the Duke campus this summer, for Mr. Johannsen will be working in the Arts and Science School as well as in the Divinity School.

Mr. Paine is also planning to continue his study toward his doctorate at Duke this summer. In connection with this, he will take a trip through the Middle-West to do some research for his dissertation on Edward Eggleston, 19th century American writer. He has been awarded a grant-in-aid for this summer study by the Southern Fellowships Fund.

Mr. Shewmake will be studying at Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh. He'll take Mitzi and Tinley along while he gets involved in "graphics or something similar" — but just what would be similar to graphics?

Work in a different—at least for her—field of home economics will occupy Mrs. Snow's summer—she'll be cooking and sewing with a husband in mind. She secretly confesses that she'll also be taking voice lessons on the side.

The women in the modern languages department plan a leisurely summer. Mrs. Melvin plans to bask in the Massachusetts sun while Mrs. Scott is going to spend part of the summer freezing vegetables.

Europe will again be the destination of Miss Byrd, but Miss Palmer who had also planned to head in the same direction has had to change her plans. Now she plans to head in the same direction as many Salemites—a short course in summer school and a long vacation in general.

Finally, Mr. Cosby is not going quite as far as Europe—only to Georgia where he hopes to write an outline of one of his courses.

One question that none of them would answer though, was whether they would be as sorry to see September come as all the other Salemites will.

Lean With The Wind

By Frank Kinnedy

Why fight changes? The change may be for the better. It is easier to lean with the wind than try to go against it.

A fresh breeze is blowing in hairstyles. It is toward more feminine and fluffier hair fashions. While still short, fashion leaves a flat, shingled outline—and it smiles on those who wear free blown, curly creations which are dressy and flattering.

For the prettiest hairstyle you have ever worn, visit The Hair-designers Beauty Salon, 416 N. Spruce St. Drop in or phone PA 4-2411 for your appointment.

girls have chosen many interesting and unusual jobs and trips for those three months.

When Miss Byrd sails for Europe this summer, with her will be eight excited Salemites—Peggy Ingram, Nancy Criddlebaugh, Amory Merritt, Anne Miles, Brenda Goerdel, Grace Walker, and Barbara Cornwall.

Judy Anderson has decided to attend Middlebury College in Middlebury, Vermont. She will sign a pact to speak Spanish the entire time.

Joan Hill and Julia Cox are going to tour the West with Julia's parents.

Two freshmen music students plan to put their talent to use this summer. Gerry Melroy will sing in "The Lost Colony" and Nancy Jane Carroll will be a member of the choir in the "Common Glory" in Williamsburg.

New York will be home to two other Salem girls for the three month period. Susan McIntyre is planning to attend art school at Columbia University, and Martha Duvall is going to look for a job.

North Carolina camps are going to have help from some Salem girls. Pat Weeks plans to be a counselor at Greystone near Tuxedo, and Betsy Guerrant will teach riding at Skyland Camp near Asheville.

Wisconsin seems a long way for Salem girls to stray, but Curt Wrike, Shirley Redlack, Mary Jane Galloway and Jeane Humphrey have decided to brave the distance and be counselors at Boyn Afon Camp there. Mary Jane and Curt are going to teach archery; Shirley Redlack will teach swimming; and Jeane will be a water skiing instructor.

Of course there are always the girls who will stay home and work or go to summer school.

Foreign Students

This is Monitor, going places and doing things. We take you now to Salem College in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, where we will pick up tape recordings of an interview with three foreign students, Christa Menzel of Hamburg, Germany; Silvia Osuna of Monterrey, Mexico; and Jytte Liljeberg of Copenhagen, Denmark.

Tape 7: Miss Menzel, what are your plans for this summer?

"I'm going to Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, where I plan to work for two months as a nurses' aid. I shall also attend a Moravian youth camp, and I'm looking forward to a trip to Maine with Mr. Campbell. Then I shall go home."

Thank you. Now I should like a brief statement on what you think of Salem.

"I think it's the best place to go in this country. It's small, friendly, and everybody knows everybody else."

Thank you, Miss Menzel. We now switch you to Miss Silvia Osuna, who tells us the following about her plans.

"I'm hoping to go to a girl scout camp near Roaring Gap. However, it's not at all definite, and I'll have to wait and see."

And what is your opinion of Salem, Miss Osuna?

"It's one place where I have had a lot of fun. Everybody has been so friendly. I never thought it would be like this."

Thank you, and for these last few minutes, Monitor visits Miss Jytte Liljeberg. Concerning her plans for this summer, she says,

"I'll probably loaf around Winston-Salem for a week or two, then go to New York, where I'll stay at the International House for a couple of days. I'll sail home the 26th of June. Miss Jess Byrd and some Salem girls will visit me in Copenhagen for three or four days. After that, I will get some work."

And what do you think of Salem?

"I like Salem. I've had a grand time, in fact that's all I've had. Everybody has been so sweet and nice."

Thank you, and I might add that all three girls are planning a trip to Manteo, North Carolina, with Dr. Welch. This will begin the 28th of May.

Monitor signs off with another of its week-end visits. Now back to Bob and Ray in New York.

It's a puzzlement:

When you're old enough to go to college, you're old enough to go out with girls. When you're old enough to go out with girls, who needs college? Oh well, there's always Coke.
