

Oslo Scholars Announced

The amount of the scholarship is $800 which covers transportation, summer school expenses, and an adequate amount of spending money.

All members of the Sophomore and Junior Classes who have a C plus average are eligible to apply for the award. Each candidate must submit a five hundred word essay on a topic selected by a faculty committee. This year's topic was "If a Foreign Student Should Ask You What America Is Like, What Would You Say?" The candidates must also present three written references in support of their application. The final selection is made by a faculty committee.

The two scholars will sail for Norway on June 18 aboard the Norwegian-American Liner, S. S. Stavangerfjord. They will be joined on board by approximately 190 other American students from all parts of the country who will also be studying at the summer school. During the voyage there will be opportunities to become acquainted with the other students and to become slightly oriented to summer school life and to life in Norway. When they reach Oslo, the student body will be increased by approximately thirty students from countries all over the world.

During the six weeks session, the girls will choose three courses of study from the fields of Norwegian culture, history and politics, and language. All the courses are taught in English by professors of the University of Oslo. They will also take a survey which will feature the important facets of Norwegian life and background. The speakers in the survey are all outstanding in their particular field.

Salem Group Seeks Change At N. C. Meet

On March 21 and 22, Ellie Mitchell, Mary Ann Boone, Jane Rostan, Margie Boren, Martha Jarvis, and Dr. Welch attended the annual convention of the North Carolina Education Association in Asheville. The Salem delegation participated in activities planned for the North Carolina Division of Future Teachers.

At the general assembly meeting on Friday night Martha Jarvis, Salem's "Miss Student Teacher", was introduced, along with representative student teachers from other North Carolina institutions.

In the Saturday session, the Salem delegation proposed that the method of electing officers be studied so that the small liberal arts colleges with smaller delegations would be given as much opportunity to win a state office as the candidates from the larger state schools. The proposal was referred to the Executive Committee for study and their conclusions will be presented to the convention next year.

However, an Oslo scholar's time is not consumed by hard studies after class. The summer school provides opportunities to see Norway and to meet and talk with the people. Two weekend excursions to a different part of the country are a regular part of the summer school curriculum. The summer school itself, various organizations, and businesses entertain for the summer school students by having dances, dinners, receptions, and parties. There are also numerous chances to mix informally with the Norwegians.

After the session, the Salem girls have an opportunity to travel on the continent at their own expense.

The American Summer School of the University of Oslo was founded as a means of repaying Marshall Fund aid. The summer school does not operate for a profit.

Any college student may apply for admittance to the summer school by writing University of Oslo Summer School Office, St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota. Other scholarships besides the Strong Scholarship are also available and information may be obtained by writing to the office at St. Olaf.

Past Strong scholars on campus are Ruth Bennett, Lynne Hamrick, and Martha Jarvis.

"The Place Where Salemites Meet"

"Mysteries" Of Trustee Organization Revealed

In the Fall and the Spring there is always a certain hustle about the campus in preparation for a big meeting. Then we see a group of nicely dressed adults file in and out of the office building and everyone wonders who they are and exactly what they do on the Salem campus. These people are a part of that body known as the Board of Trustees. For some reason, we hear about the Trustees and see their picture in the year-book but we never really know who they are or what they do. Therefore, Dr. Gramley's help was enlisted in getting some information on these important, but almost unknown people.

The Board of Trustees is composed of thirty-three members. The five members of the Pro-Elders, which is the board of the Moravian Church, are automatic members. The synod of the Church are elected in three groups of five each, and are on a rotating plan. They serve for three and many remain for a period of nine years.

By an old provision, the minister of the Home Moravian Church and the president of the college are automatic members.

Six non-Moravians are elected to the board and are also eligible for a period of nine years. The Alumnae Association elects three, and the Academy Board elects two members. At the present time, there are ten women on the Trustee Board, which is about one-third of the Board members.

This Council meets twice a year, usually in late October and in April. The spring meeting will be held on April 11. The annual reports will be given by the Academic Dean, the Dean of Students, the Dean of Music, the Director of Public Relations, the Alumnae Secretary, and the Principle of the Academy. The reports are given by these heads directly to the Board, not through the college president. The tentative budget for next year will be revised at this meeting, and next October will be finally adopted.

There are three principal committees which constitute the Board of Trustees. The executive Committee has seven members who meet on call. Dr. Gramley summons them about once a month. The Building and Grounds Committee contains five members. They keep up the condition of the college and approve any plans for new structures. The Finance Committee, which consists of three members, plans the budget before it is studied by the whole board and approved.

which reveal responsibility to a certain degree.

Following the discussion, Student Council requested that a committee of students and faculty be formed to investigate further our system as well as that employed by other schools, and consider possible changes. The names of the three students who will serve on the committee will be announced within the next few days. All students are urged to discuss the matter and offer any suggestions to the committee, which will begin work immediately after Spring vacation.

the budget for operation, but they also have final authority and responsibility for the operation of the institution. They plan to take care of the future needs of the campus, the school policy, and they must vote approval for the granting of degrees. They also decide on the employment of the faculty and administration. These thirty-three members control most of the affairs concerning the management and the operation of the school.

Dear Diary...

As I take my pen in hand, I take my bottle of Coke in the other hand! Yes, dear diary, where would I be without Coca-Cola? Just a social outcast. Why, everybody drinks Coke! John and Bill and Barry and Charley. Horace too. Confidentially, I think I'll have another bottle of Coke.
