

Seniors Dominate Salem's '59 May Court

Wednesday night, at nine o'clock in Old Chapel, the 1959 May Court was elected by the student body.

Before the election, nominees arrived in the Day Student Center in rain coats, scarves, over rolled hair, and loafers under fluffy, cloud-like dresses. As the time drew near, loafers were replaced with dainty evening slippers, bobby pins were put away, and beautiful tresses were displayed, and each girl took her last glance in the mirror to see that her lip-stick was just right and no crinolines were showing.

Salem's charm was at its peak as 50 lovelies graced the stage and curtsied. Spectators found it hard to narrow down to 12 finalists. As each girl appeared, a new chorus of "oh's" rose from the audience.

Three freshmen, Ann Jewell, Dot Grayson, and Joyce Tyndall, were sitting on top of the world when the results were finally announced, and they found they were to be the first May Day representatives from their class.

Ann Jewell is from Concord, N. C. and plans to major in art. The best looking in her senior class, she was a typical southern belle in her evening dress with puffed sleeves.

Dot Grayson is an English major and has also had some experience in beauty contests. She reigned as Miss Myers Park High School in Charlotte last year.

Joyce Tyndall, our Kinston lass, is undecided about her major, but is having no trouble in adding more titles to a very long list of honors which she received in high school—May Queen, Homecoming Queen, Miss Christmas Parade, and naturally the best looking as a superlative.

It will be a repeat performance in the May Dell for the three sophomores.

First we have Carolyn McCloud who is from Elon College. She plans to major in English.

Jette Seear is next from Copenhagen, Denmark. Jette is an art major and during her spare time models for Chatham blankets.

Gertie Barnes from Lumberton is another title holder—Miss Merry Christmas and Miss Shamrock. She is majoring in French, but plans to teach an elementary grade.

Junior class representatives, Lou Scales and Noel Hollingsworth, have established places on the May Court as they take honors for their third year.

Lou was May Day Queen at Salem Academy in 1956. A sociology-economics major, she hails from Rockingham, N. C.

Noel is our home economics major who modeled in Atlanta, Ga. last summer. Her home town is High Point.

The senior class leads the line this year placing four members on Salem's beauty court.

Susan McIntyre will appear for the fourth time while Ann Brinson, Dena Fasul, and Marian Neamand will be making their debuts this year.

Susan, who was May Queen in high school in 1955, has become an expert at her curtsy. She is an art major from Lumberton.

Marian Neamand is the tiny little senior from Asheville with the big blue eyes. She is a religion major and education minor.

Fayetteville claims Dena Fasul with all her natural beauty which was realized at the University of North Carolina last summer. She is a history major.

From way down in Coconut Grove, Fla. comes Ann Brinson. Beauty and brains are combined in this math major.

And thus with Ruth Bennett, Queen, and Noel Vossler, Maid of Honor, the Salem College 1959 May Court is complete and 14 happy and excited girls anxiously await that special week-end in May.

Christmas Tea Prepared By Home Ec. Club

The Home Economics Club is having a tea in the Home Management House on Saturday, December 5 from 3:00-5:00. Camille Suttle is the general chairman for this committee. Those invited are the Trustees of Salem College and Academy, the home economics majors and their parents, the faculty, and the Forsyth County Home Economics Association. In charge of the invitations is Hilary Lynes. Noel Hollingsworth is in charge of the decorations. The color scheme for the tea will be green and white. The food will be provided by the home economics department's food class. Martha Parrott, Hilary Lynes, Mary Hunter, Lynn Ligon, and Sara Lou Richardson are on this committee.

Johansen Attends Conference

Mr. Johansen and Mr. Woosley, of the department of Religion and Philosophy, will attend a meeting of the North Carolina Teachers of Religion to be held at Pfeiffer College, Misenheimer, on Saturday, Dec. 6th. The Conference, which begins at 9:45, will have as its theme, "College and Seminary Cooperation." Among those taking part in the program will be Dr. J. Allen Easley of Wake Forest College, Dr. E. A. McDowell of South-eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Dr. McMurray Richey of The Divinity School of Duke University, and Miss Clarice Bowman of High Point College.

Around The Square

The Messiah will be presented December 7th at 3:00 at Center Methodist Church. The performance will last for approximately one hour and all those music enthusiasts should attend—in your opinion the presentation has been extremely impressive and moving.

Wednesday night Salem lovelies made their graceful bows on Old Chapel stage. Underclassmen heed my words—take care of yourselves, stay well groomed, do not over-eat and maybe you'll be nominated to appear as a May Court candidate. If you're lax in appearances or naturally not endowed with physical attributes—you'll assume the role I've played for years—curtain puller for May Court nominees and player of all minor bit roles in college plays. Oh, the right—I was a girl in the Seniors' Follies—the ugly sister!

Looking For a Job?

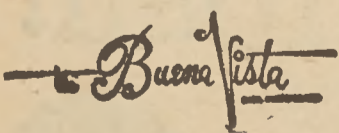

Coming soon! A series of articles on job possibilities—how to apply, where to apply, and the areas in which jobs are available. If you want to see information about job openings, you may come to the News Bureau office (across the hall from Dr. White's office) every Wednesday afternoon. At this time there will be a girl there to help you find information in the job file. If you come at any other time, please check with Dr. Hixson first.

Room Contest Sponsored By Junior Class

Next Tuesday night, December 9th, the freshman room contest will be sponsored by the junior class with the financial assistance of I. R. S. Open house will be held from 7:00-8:00 p.m. At 8:00 refreshments will be served and prizes will be awarded in the terrace room of Babcock. The judges will be the president and the vice president of I. R. S., Ruth Bennett and Mary Lois James; Dean of Students, Mrs. Heidbreder; and three male faculty members. Suzie Cabaniss, chairman of the committee cordially invites the student body to attend.
