

Tesch Chosen Vice President Of Student Body; Ligon And Jenkins Fill Other Positions

A rising senior and two rising juniors were elected this week to fill major campus offices in Student Government. Sarah Tesch was elected Vice-President of the Student Government; Lynn Ligon, Secretary of the Judicial Board; and Churchill Jenkins, Treasurer of the Student Government.

Sarah Tesch, a religion major from Winston-Salem, has had an active career at Salem. For three years she has been a member of the Choral Ensemble and the Moravian Student Fellowship. Last year she was a member of the Y Cabinet. Presently she is treasurer of the SNEA, a re-write editor of the Salemite, and a member of the IRS. She recently became a member of the Honor Society.

Churchill Jenkins is a sophomore from Conway, S. C., and is getting her major in religion and a minor in primary education. During her freshman year, Churchill was a member of the IRS, and participated in the May Day Pageant. This year she is president of Babcock Dormitory and class representative to IRS. Upon learning that she had been elected as Treasurer of the Student Government for next year, Churchill's comment was, "I feel weak!"

Lynn Ligon, a sophomore from Wrightsville Beach, N. C., is a home economics major. For two years she has served on the IRS Council. This year she is vice-president of the International Relations Club, and is a member of the YWCA Council. Lynn is excited about her new office, but realizes the responsibilities that lie ahead of her.

Indian Attache Teaches Course On Asian Affairs

Next fall Salem, along with Wake Forest and Winston-Salem Teachers College, will initiate a five-year program of Asian studies. Dr. M. S. Sundaram, at present cultural attache at the Indian Embassy in London, will teach a course at each of the three schools.

"Since World War II the feeling has grown that there should be more emphasis on Asia, Africa, and the Middle East in the curriculum of American colleges," says Dr. Philip Africa, head of the Salem College history department. "A number of large universities have set up such programs; however, it is hard for a small college to enlarge the curriculum. We are able to institute this program with the aid of a grant from the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation and the Asia Society of New York."

The course which will be taught next year is tentatively entitled "Asia and the Modern World" and will consider the East as a cultural area. There will be one lecture and one seminar a week.

Dr. Sundaram was educated at Madras University and Oxford University. His major field is English, and he has taught at Madras University, Oxford University, and has been head of the Department of English at Annamalai University and Azera University. He has edited two volumes of English poetry and a volume of contemporary essays in English.

Dr. Sundaram has also had wide administrative experience as an education officer and cultural attache for the Indian Government. He represented India at the Preparatory Commission of the World Universities Conference at Utrecht, Holland, in 1948, at the International Conference on Public Education in Geneva in 1949, and at the seventh and eighth UNESCO General Conferences in 1954 and 1956.

Since he has lived abroad, largely in the United States and for a period of three years in the United Kingdom. During this time he has participated in several academic programs and lectured under the auspices of many universities and cultural organizations. He has visited over 250 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada and participated in academic seminars.

IRS Plans Annual Party

The I. R. S. Council is entertaining the faculty and student body with a birthday dinner on Thursday, March 19. The party will be held in Corrin Refectory at 6:00 p.m.

Each table will be decorated according to the months of the year. The guests are to be seated at the tables assigned for the month of their birthday. I. R. S. members will be hostesses at each table and dressed with costumes depicting the various months of the year.

This dinner is another one of Salem's traditions, and as always promises an extra-special menu.

"Y" To Hide Easter Eggs

The "Y" is sponsoring an Easter Egg Hunt Friday afternoon, March 20th, here on Salem's campus for the orphans at Memorial Industrial School.

Two buses will be sent for the ninety orphans and will bring them to the Athletic Field at 5 o'clock. Around the archery field there will be an Easter Egg Hunt for the children up to eleven years old. The others will play in the gym or maybe softball. If the weather is too bad to have the hunt outside, it will be held in the gym.

After the hunt supper of hot dogs, etc. will be served out-of-doors for everyone. If the weather is bad, supper will be served in both the Dining Hall and the Club Dining Room.

So everybody come on down to the Athletic Field at 5 o'clock Friday and join in the fun!

Rosemary Laney Assumes Chairmanship Of The Newly Organized Judicial Board

Rosemary Laney, a junior from Coral Gables, Florida, was elected president of the newly established Judicial Board in an election on March 9. She was running against Caroline Easley, Ann Joyner, and Evelyn Vincent.

Rosemary has participated in a variety of extra-curricular activities. During her freshman year at Salem she served on the I. R. S. Council and was freshman editor of the Sights and Insights.

For the first semester of her sophomore year Rosemary attended the University of Miami where she was a sister in the Delta Gamma sorority. Then she returned to Salem for the remainder of her college career.

At the present time Rosemary is secretary of the I. R. S.; advertising manager of the Salemite; a representative to the nominating committee; a member of the Music Club, chapel trio, and Canterbury Club; Assistant Director of the Academy Ensemble. She was a member of the cast of the Salem College fall production "Mary Stuart."

Being a public school music major, Rosemary hopes to return to "The Sunshine State" to do her teaching. She enjoys all music except hill-billy and bop.

When questioned about her reaction to her election as Judicial Board President, Rosemary replied that she "couldn't believe it and was really thrilled." She added further that she "will need everyone's cooperation since it's a new system." In her new position Rosemary hopes "to clarify the rules that are now vague, maintain consistency, but also to consider the individual in each case."

Overstreets Appear For Lecture Series Monday

Bonaro and Harry Overstreet will arrive by plane in Winston-Salem Monday afternoon to appear as the lecturers of the concluding program of the 1958-59 Salem College Lecture Series.

The Overstreets, two of America's most distinguished leaders in the fields of Human Relations and Mental Health, will address the interested Salem College Student Body, Faculty and residents of Winston-Salem on "What Emotional Health Looks Like" at 8:30, March 16, in Memorial Hall.

The "Overstreet Colloquy" is a platform conversation in which, with spontaneous back-and-forth, they develop together their central theme. It has often been said their colloquy is the ideal combination of personal charm, integrity, and easy platform manner.

In addition to lecturing, the Overstreets have written jointly Their Mature Mind, The Mind Active, The Mind Goes Forth, and What We Must Know About Communism, their current best seller.

Although the Overstreets have developed a peculiarly effective form of team-lecture, both appear individually platform-speakers.

Bonaro Overstreet, educated at the University of California and Columbia University, taught in California until her marriage to Henry Overstreet in 1932. Since this time she has worked with her husband in the fields of adult education and mental health. It has been said that what makes her speaking unique is the fact that no matter how large the audience may be, each person in it feels invited to think along with her as an individual and that each person grows a little in the process of this thinking.

Henry Overstreet, educated at the University of California and Oxford, was for many years Head of the Department of Philosophy and Psychology of the College of the City of New York. Endowed with the power to make complicated problems clear without "watering them down," he has been called the ideal combination of scholarliness, personal charm and natural, easy platform personality. It has been said of him that "To know Harry Overstreet is to know what a better world would be like."

Before the lecture the Overstreets will have dinner at 6 o'clock in Corrin Refectory. They will be joined at the table by Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Moffie, Dr. and Mrs. John F. Dashiell, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Bray, Mrs. Amy Heidebreder, Miss Jess Byrd, Dr. Elizabeth Welsh, and members of the Advanced Psychology class—Ann Brinson, Ann Pierce, Riley Matthews, Beverly Wollney, and Emily Vaughn.

Following the dinner, the guests and all psychology minors will be served coffee by hostess Ann Brinson.
