

Paine Teaches In Rain; Cold Freezes Spring Fever

By Sue Randak

Spring fever died out with the streak of cold weather that hit our empty campus this past weekend. A good percentage of Salemites attended various functions at colleges all over the state. The events included Germans, Easters, Old South, and The White Rose Ball.

A note to Lidie and her skinned nogan—too many athletes spoil the

Heidbreder Gives Ideas

Mrs. Heidbreder also offered four ways that Salem dances could be improved. These were suggestions made to her by some freshmen.

1. There could be some way to exchange dances so that the whole evening would not be spent dancing with the same boy. This would enable a girl to meet many boys at the dance. A program dance would be one way to exchange dances.
2. There are many girls who do not attend the dances because they do not know anyone to date. An attempt to get dates for these girls would improve the dances a great deal.
3. The dances could also be improved by inviting stags. The IRS hostesses for the dances would be responsible to invite these stags.
4. Perhaps a Grand March could be substituted for the traditional figure. The figure has become meaningless and, perhaps a change would increase interest.

The main criticism which Dean Heidbreder had to make of Salem dances is that there is a lack of imagination in planning the procedure of the dance. This is one time when Salem should not rely entirely on tradition, but new ideas should be considered to improve our dances.

broth. The rising senior class requests that the academic councils initiate a new course of study entitled, "Three Easy Steps to Marriage and an Early Graduation."

Miss Battle seems to be having lousy luck with cars lately. She was in a fix again this week when the gears stuck in neutral while driving Miss Byers' Chevy. Both Mr. Michie and Miss Byers answered our B. B.'s S.O.S. promptly.

With new presidents selecting their councils, committee chairmen, and staff members it has become apparent that the point system already needs some revisions. Specifically seasonal jobs. There just don't seem to be enough interested people to go around.

Were you there when Mr. Paine conducted his sophomore lit. class around the lily pond in the pouring rain? Many thanks to Harriet Thomlinson for holding the umbrella over our dear teacher's head.

"The Miser" presented by our own Pierrettes Wednesday and Thursday nights was excellent. The many hours of hard work spent on this production showed wonderful results. The only bad thing to come out of the entire production was Miss Battle's hairdo.

Here's tears to all the disappointed sun bathers who have been deprived of some warm weather for their favorite pastime. Things are looking better every day though. Let's go gals!

Home Ec. Group Visits Workshop

The Salem College Home Economics Department was represented last week during a two-day workshop at Queen's College in Charlotte. The department also was hostess in Winston-Salem to an FTA group from Southwest High School.

Mrs. Robert Snow, head of the Home Economics department, Anna Yelverton, Marji Jammer and Elaine Falls attended the Queen's College sessions. The main speaker for the Charlotte group was Mrs. Betty Fizzor who talked on Home Economics and Television.

Mrs. Fizzor is a graduate of the University of Tenn. At the present time, she directs a Home Economics related program in Charlotte on T. V. channel 13, WBT.

After returning from the workshop, Mrs. Snow was the speaker for an FTA group of 19 girls during a program held in the Salem Home Economics department.

The group, sponsored by Miss Snow, English teacher at Southwest listened to a discussion of Careers in Home Economics with emphasis on teaching. They examined the Salem Home Economics department and were served light refreshments.

Jane Rostan, Salem senior, has recently completed her practice teaching with the Home Economics department at Southwest.

Dr. Gramley Will Attend The Davidson Inauguration And Others Go To Meetings

This week Mrs. Heidbreder, Mrs. Chatham, Miss Roberts, Mrs. Lovett, and Dr. Hixon attended a meeting of the North Carolina Association of Women Deans and Counselors. Two of the main items on the agenda were a report from the National Association, and a report by Dean Shirley on a recent trip to Russia.

Mr. Don Britt will represent Salem at a meeting of the Greensboro Alumni at the Greensboro Country Club, Saturday, April 18. Several Salem students are planning to accompany him.

Wednesday, April 22, Dr. Gramley will attend the inauguration of David Grier Martin as the thirteenth president of Davidson College. An interesting fact is that Dr.

Gramley is the thirteenth president of Salem.

He plans to represent Salem at the 125th anniversary observances at Wake Forest College on the twenty-third of April.

Dr. Gramley will also attend a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Moravian Music Foundation, in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, April 16-19.
