

Who's Who In American Colleges Recognizes Six Seniors

Nan Williams, Nancy Jane Carroll, Sandi Shaver Prather, Joan Brooks and (seated) Sarah Tesch and Susan Foard. Salem's WHO'S WHO . . .

Committee Selects Brooks, Carroll, Foard, Prathers, Tesch And Williams

Joan Brooks, Nancy Jane Carroll, Susan Foard, Sandra Shaver Prather, Sarah Tesch, and Nan Williams will represent Salem College in the 1959-60 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. These six seniors were selected on the basis of excellence and sincerity in scholarship, leadership and participation in extra-curricular activities, student citizenship and service to the school, and promise of future usefulness to business and society.

The six girls were chosen by a faculty committee composed of Dr. Granley, Dean Sandresky, Dean Hixon, Dean Heidebreder, Dr. Africa, Miss Byrd, Mr. Denton, Mr. Johansen, and Student Body president Nan Williams.

Joan Brooks, from Roxboro, is chairman of this year's May Day Committee. Double-majoring in mathematics and public school music, Joan plans to attend graduate school in math next year. She has been active in Dansalems, Choral Ensemble, the YWCA, Pierrettes and has worked for Sights and Insights. She has just been made a member of the Order of the Scorpion.

Nancy Jane Carroll, a voice major from Farmville, is president of the Music Student Organization. Like Joan, she plans to attend graduate school next year. Nancy Jane has participated in Choral Ensemble, the Humanities Club and the Pierrettes, and has worked on the Salemite. She is a member of the Salem College Honor Society.

Susan Foard, editor of the Salemite, is from Asheville. In previous years Susan has been active on the Salemite staff and in the Humanities Club. She has served as president of the IRC and is a member of the Honor Society and Phi Alpha Theta. Double majoring in history and Latin, Susan plans graduate work in American history.

Sandi Shaver Prather, the only one of the six who boasts a wedding ring, is majoring in history. Married this past August 22, Sandi will graduate in January. She hopes someday to go to graduate school and afterwards to teach on a college level, but "first" she says, "I have to do justice to my role as a wife, since it's lost out a little with school." Sandi has been active in IRC, Pierrettes, Student Government and has worked on the Sights and Insights staff. She is a member of the Order of the Scorpion and of Phi Alpha Theta.

Sarah Tesch, a native of Winston-Salem and vice-president of the Student Body, is majoring in religion and minoring in elementary education. She says, "I hope to teach fourth graders next year, and how many years after that depends on many things. I plan to go to graduate school summer after next. Someday I'm going to travel again!" This last statement is reminiscent of her past summer's trip to Oslo, of course. Sarah has been active in the Choral Ensemble, and has served on the cabinets of the IRS and Y. W. C. A. She is a member of the Order of the Scorpion, Phi Alpha Theta, and the Honor Society.

Student Body president, Nan Williams of Farmville, N. C., has been active in student government throughout her four years at Salem. She has also been active in Pierrettes and IRS and was the Oslo scholar from the sophomore class in the summer of '57. She is a member of the Honor Society and the Order of the Scorpion. Next year, Nan plans graduate study in Chemistry and the year after that—Europe!

IRS Sponsors Room Contest

I. R. S. will sponsor the Freshman Room Contest in the form of an Open House from 7:30 to 9:00 on Thursday night, November 12th. Both Clewell and Babcock will be open at this time. The faculty is to judge the rooms in respect to neatness, suitability and arrangement.

Refreshments are to be served in the Terrace Room of Babcock during this time and prizes of movie tickets will be awarded.

Three Classes Hold Meetings

Class meetings will be held during regular assembly period Monday, Nov. 9. Important business will be discussed by all the classes except the senior class, which does not plan to meet.

Jackie Baker, acting chairman of the freshman class, announced that permanent class officers will be elected to replace the temporary officers selected earlier this fall. New officers to be elected include president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer. The freshmen will meet in Old Chapel.

According to Betty Cox, president of the sophomore class, the sophomores will begin planning for their annual Christmas banquet to be given for the seniors in December.

The junior class will elect a class advisor during their meeting. Class president Barbara Edwards stated that the juniors will also discuss plans for selling food to raise money for the various projects of their class.

Exact location of the meetings will be posted on the bulletin board in the dining hall.

Notice

In case of the violation of a rule the student involved is to go on double restriction IMMEDIATELY. When extenuating circumstances arise the girl should see Rosemary Laney, chairman of Judicial Board, before going on restriction.

Reporter Talks About Beatniks To Humanities

Owen D. Lewis, reporter for the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel, will present a program on "beatniks" at the opening meeting of the Humanities Club, Thursday, Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union. An open discussion with all members attending will follow the program. Coffee will be served to conclude the meeting.

A future program is planned to center around the English novel. Dr. John Broderick, who is in the English department at Wake Forest, will be the speaker.

This club was formed to foster interest in the humanities—religion, philosophy, and the arts. Dr. Lewis and Mr. Hill are the club advisors. Any student on campus may join this club by just attending the meeting and showing interest. Lydia Seaber, chairman, invites all students to the meeting Thursday night.

Carter Talks On Gifted Children

SNEA will present Doug Carter, supervisor of special education in Winston-Salem city schools, discussing education of the gifted child in assembly Nov. 11.

A frequent speaker on special education, Mr. Carter works with teaching gifted children and developing a curriculum that will challenge these students.

This summer he taught a demonstration course on special education at Western Carolina. He has also compiled a book on how to treat high I. Q. children, and methods of teaching them.

Announcement

Students may check with their faculty advisors for any deficiencies (D, E, I or F) on mid-semester day, Wednesday, Nov. 11. Any class in which a student has an E, F or I can not be cut for the rest of the semester.

Freshmen may take their two remaining overnights after mid-semester, and their evening engagements increase to two nights per month.

Lecture Series Features Vincent Price On Tuesday

Vincent Price, well known actor, art collector, and author, will speak concerning "The Enjoyment of Great Art" at 8:30 Tuesday night in Memorial Hall. This lecture will be the second in the Salem College Lecture Series for 1959-1960.

In reviewing his autobiography I Like What I Know, the October eighteenth, issue of the New York Times described Price as "patron of the young unknown artist, a dedicated hard working missionary for art." The review also said that Price is bound by no accepted value judgments and praises his "first-hand, open-eyed encounters with art . . . He disarmingly confesses how his own taste, perception, and capacity for appreciation have constantly changed and expanded."

The star of stage, screen, and television says he prefers comedy roles, but the parts of villains "are the most fun in the world."

Mr. Price graduated from Yale with the idea of using his degree in art to become a professor. He obtained his masters degree in Art from the University of London, and while there he accepted a dare to try out for a part in the play "Chicago." He got the part and from the on all thoughts of becoming a professor vanished. Since then he has appeared in such plays and movies as "Song of Bernadette," "Champagne for Caesar," "The House of Wax," "The Ten Commandments," and "Circus." He gained fame as Prince Albert in the London production of "Victoria Regina," and later played opposite Helen Hayes in the New York performances of the same play. Besides being an actor and art collector, Mr. Price is well-known as an amateur archaeologist and anthropologist.

His other hobbies include gardening, swimming, cooking, and traveling. In 1956 he was awarded an honorary doctorate for the California College of Arts and Crafts.

The Lecture Series Committee and some of the interested townspeople will have dinner with Mr. Price in the club dining room before the lecture and afterwards there will be a coffee for him in Strong Friendship rooms.

CARE Receives Gift From Y

Did you know that you contributed to CARE? The "Y" as your representative to service organizations sent $25 to CARE this week. This $25 will be divided and sent to five different countries. Since each student at Salem is a part of the "Y" each one of you helped send this money.

SNEA Installs New Officers

Installation ceremonies and a lecturer mark the SNEA meeting scheduled for Tuesday night.

Officers-elect include Dottie Thompson, treasurer; Cynthia Hyatt, secretary; Sally Tyson, reporter; and Sybrilla Caudle, historian.

Mrs. Lucia Karnes, new elementary education supervisor in the city area, is guest speaker for the meeting.

Ann Beck, president of SNEA, announced recently that plans to attend the organization's convention in Raleigh, Nov. 14, will be discussed in detail at Tuesday's meeting.
