

Leslie Frost, Allan Mowbray Appear On Lecture Series

The Lecture Series is sponsoring a talk by Lesley Frost on "Modern Poetry Looks at the Modern World" on Thursday, March 8. On Thursday, March 29, the Hollywood actor Allan Mowbray will give "Alan Mowbray's Alumanac of Humor". The lectures will begin at 8:00 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

Elsa Lanchester, scheduled to appear on the Lecture Series on March 13, has cancelled her tour because of ill health.

Miss Frost, daughter of America's poet, Robert Frost, has gained recognition as a woman of distinction, a brilliant and incisive observer of our cultural scene.

She was the first woman to be sent to Latin America by the State Department's Cultural Division for the express purpose of lecturing on American literature and thought. From the spring of 1945 to the fall of 1947 she was Cultural Officer and Director of the U. S. Information Library in Madrid, Spain. For several years she was an associate professor of English at Rockford College, Rockford, Illinois. Before World War II, she conducted important experiments in adult education, first as a director of the King Smith Studio, and then of her own Frost Studio in Washington, D. C.

Miss Frost has published a number of books and articles for leading magazines and newspapers, and was an associate editor of Doubleday Doran and Poetry Editor of the old Dearborn Independent. At present, as wife of Joseph W. Ballantine, who was formerly head of the State Department's Far Eastern Division, she lives in Florida where her husband is Professor of Foreign Relations at the University of Miami.

Her lecture on "Modern Poetry Looks at the Modern World" will include readings, with commentary, on several major poets who have, for the past twenty-five years made philosophic contributions to our way of thinking about the historic scene.

The second lecturer, Alan Mowbray is a man of wide-ranging interests and varied accomplishments. In the 299 films in which he has appeared, he has played such diverse roles as George Washington, historic French heroes, German villains, assorted rogues and rascals. The British-born actor's best remembered screen credits are "Around the World in 80 Days", "My Man Godfrey", "Topper", and "Alexander Hamilton".

The actor was also the star of the "Colonel Humphrey Flack" television series and featured as the polished maitre de' in the "Dante's Inferno" series. In addition to being a versatile actor, Mr. Mowbray is also a playwright, having written several dramas.

In Alan Mowbray's "Alumanic of Humor", Mr. Mowbray uses the works of humorous writers on both sides of the Atlantic such as Saki, master of the understated; Stephen Leacock; Oscar Wilde; Ogden Nash; Samuel Hoffenstein; and W. S. Gilbert.

Students do not need tickets to the lectures because the Lecture Series is financed through the student fees; tickets are no longer sold in town.

IRS Council Plans Week Of Activities At Salem

February 19-23 has been designated by IRS President, Pinky Saunders, as "I Represent Salem Week." During this week the IRS Club has planned many activities for the school.

The IRS is sponsoring a La Marick Beauty Salon Essay Contest on campus in connection with IRS Week.

Each entrant must write an essay of twenty-five words or less on "Why Well Groomed Hair and Charm are Such Great Assets to a Girl." The essay, accompanied by a snapshot of the entrant, should be given to any IRS representative by February 12.

Four winners will be selected from the essays. Each of the four winners will receive eight free appointments for shampoo and style set at the La Marick Beauty Salon in the Parkway Plaza Shopping Center. Bus service is convenient for getting to the Shopping Center from Salem Square.

There will be a Coffee, sponsored by the IRS, in Strong Friendship Room. Students and faculty are invited to this "come-as-you-are" coffee from 3:00-4:30 p.m.

In Assembly, Thursday, February 22, the IRS Council members will model spring fashions from Montaldo's.

To climax IRS Week, the VPI Band will give a concert in Memorial Hall, Friday night, at 7:30. Before the concert, however, the members of the band will be served dinner in the Refectory. Special hostesses will be assigned to the Band. After the concert, there will be a party in order that the Salem students may get to know the Band members.

It has been announced that no one is to wear long pants in the refectory, on front campus, to class, or elsewhere in prohibited places, during bad weather unless there is a notice posted by the President of the IRS.

Libbie Hatley Wins 1962 "Miss Student Teacher"

On January 16, in assembly Libbie Hatley was chosen Miss Student Teacher for 1962 to represent Salem College at the SNEA convention in Raleigh.

The convention will be held on March 16 and 17 and will be attended by representative student teachers from all colleges with SNEA chapters. All other members of SNEA are also encouraged to attend. The convention will consist mainly of meetings and will begin formally Friday night with a presentation ball at which the representative student teachers will be introduced.

Libbie, who has a double major in English and history, plans to do graduate work in English next year and then to teach English on the high school or college level. Her practice teaching consisted of two senior English classes at Northwest High School in Winston-Salem.

In her impromptu question and answer interview in assembly, Libbie was asked three questions. The first asked how she, as a teacher, would account for the fact that she may not have covered every item which she has intended to cover in her lesson plan. Libbie answered that she would realize that the students had wanted to go deeper into certain topics than she had planned, that they had brought up other important subjects which she had not planned, or that she had planned too much.
