1963-64 Salemite Staff Assumes New Positions

The staff of next year's Salemite has been selected and is already at work. Business manager Alice Reid is an English major from Hartsville, South Carolina. Connie Rucker as managing editor hopes to divide the work more evenly so the paper will run more efficiently. Connie is a history major from Richmond, Virginia. Bonnie Hauch as assistant editor has similar goals in mind. A double major in English and history from Fort Lauderdale, Florida, she looks forward to a more cooperative working organization with shared responsibilities. Marty Richmond, a history and elementary education student from Charlottesville, Virginia, is the new feature editor. A larger feature staff is her goal, and she emphasizes the fact that everyone is needed, not only English majors. Features will encompass controversial subjects as well as student interests on and off campus.

Other staff members are Brenda Bethel, an English major from Palatine, Illinois, news editor; copy editor Trudi Schmidt, an English major from Pottstown, Pennsylvania; Robbin Causey, assistant copy editor and history major from Greensboro; and photo editor Mary Alice Teague from Reidsville, who majors in history. The staff also includes headline editor Elizabeth Sykes, a French major from Mount Airy; Jerry Johnson, a home economics major from Varina, who is layout editor; art editor Liz Irwin from Spartanburg; Susan Humphreys, circulation editor from Aruba, Neth. Ant.; assistant business manager, Mary Jane Harrell, a home economics major from Jacksonville, Florida; and Lucy McCallum from Raleigh, a French major serving as advertising manager.

SNEA Chooses Nancy Knott As President

Nancy Knott and Fallie Lohr have recently been elected as the new president and vice-president respectively of the SNEA. Dean Major Clifford and Sue Smith turned over the offices to them on April 4.

Nancy, a senior day student, is a history major and is in elementary education. Fallie, a sociology major, is also in elementary education. This past year she was business manager of The Sights and Insights and will be the assistant editor next year.

The new secretary and treasurer to be elected from the rising junior class at the next meeting of the SNEA, will replace Susie Johnson and Marty Richmond.

Kent, Davis, King Serve As New Class Presidents

Mason Kent, Dottie Davis, and Jean King have been elected to serve as presidents for the three rising classes now on campus.

Dr. Keppel

Dr. Goodson

Goodson, Keppel Will Serve As Commencement Speakers June 2

By Anne Gore

It has been announced this week that the speaker for the 1963 Baccalaureate Service, which will be held Sunday, June 2, at 11:00 a.m. as a part of the regular service of Home Moravian Church, will be

Dr. W. Kenneth Goodson. Speaker for the Commencement exercises, which will be held in front of the science building at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, June 2, will be Dr. A. R. Keppel. Topics have not yet been announced.

Dr. Goodson is at present the pastor of Centenary Methodist Church of Winston-Salem. A graduate of Duke Divinity School, Dr. Goodson has served pastorates in Charlotte, Wadesboro, and High Point. He was at one time district superintendent of Methodist Churches in the Western Conference of North Carolina. Active in community civic affairs, he recently represented his church on a special mission abroad, of which he spoke to the Salem student body in assembly.

Dr. Keppel, a native of Buffalo, New York, has been president of Catawba College in Salisbury, North Carolina for 21 years. He received his A.B. from Ohio Wesleyan University, was a graduate student at Ohio State University, and received his Ph. D. from Franklin and Marshall College and his L.L.D. from Elmhurst College. Dr. Keppel held several varied educational positions before going to Catawba College in 1942. He is a past president of the North Carolina College Conference and also active in religious affairs, as well as author and publisher of Keppel's Six Year High School Cumulative System. At present, Dr. Keppel is Executive Director of the recently founded Piedmont University Center of North Carolina.

Lee Presents Senior Recital

April 29, Mattie Gay Lee will present her senior piano recital. Highlights of the program are "Prelude and Fugue in E Flat Minor" (Bach); "Waltzes op. 39" (Brahms); "Three Preludes for Piano" (Kent Kinnan); and "Piano Concerts in A Flat Major, K 488, Allegro" (Mozart).

From Dillon, South Carolina, Mattie Gay studied piano for nine years before coming to Salem. Since that time, she has spent four years under Dean Clement Sandresky of the music department. After graduation, she plans to give private piano lessons.

The recital will begin at 8:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall and is open to the public.

Mason Kent, who was a member of the 1962 May Court and served as Chief Marshal this year, will be assisted as president of the senior class by Vice President Frances Holton; Secretary Annetta Jennette; and Treasurer Alice Reid. Hailing from Danville, Virginia, Mason is majoring in sociology-economics.

Serving as president of the rising junior class will be Dottie Davis. Dottie, from Belmont, North Carolina, has served as secretary of the Salem Choral Ensemble and hall president of second floor Clewell this year. The other officers of the junior class are Babs Bodine, vice-president; Doris Cooper, secretary; and Nan Berry, treasurer.

The rising sophomores have chosen Jean King from Lincolnton as president of the class. Jean has been active in several committees on campus this year including Parents' Day. Jan Dulin is the new vice-president; Zelle Holderness, secretary, and Linda Tunstall, treasurer.

Alumnae Association Offers Annual Ronthaler Awards

The Alumnae Association has announced that the Katherine B. Ronthaler Awards competition for 1963 is open to all Salem students. Entries will be accepted in the fields of creative writing, music, and art. Deadline for entries is May 1.

The Katherine B. Ronthaler Awards, sponsored by the Alumnae Association of Salem College since 1951, are to be awarded for outstanding creative achievement by any Salem student. Any work in the three fields which has not previously been entered in this competition may be submitted. Entry is not limited to work done in the current semester or in current classes. Entries are judged by a panel of judges in each section.

The awards, engraved silver trays, will be made to the students whose work is judged to be the most meritorious among the entries. Awards are made at Awards Assembly. Winning entries in the writing competition will be published in the Alumnae Bulletin.

Faculty members in the English department, the art department, and the School of Music, will have complete information regarding the categories under which entries may be made, and the form in which the entries should be submitted. All entries are judged, with no name visible to the judges, by an impartial panel of judges for each field of interest.

Shewmake On Campus, Talks Of Arts Center

Professor Edwin F. Shewmake, who is on sabbatical leave from Salem's art department this year, was on campus today to discuss with the administration, the architects, and other members of the art department the layout of space for the new art department in the new Fine Arts Building.

Mr. Shewmake is presently working at an artist colony in Woodstock, New York.

Davis, Tolochko Will Speak In Assemblies

Assembly speaker Tuesday, April 16 will be Paxton Davis. He is sponsored by the Archway.

Thursday, April 18, a Jewish rabbi, Dr. Jerome G. Tolochko will be the guest speaker. He is sponsored by the Jewish Chautauqua Society, an organization which creates better understanding of Jews and Judaism through education.

Dr. Tolochko received his university and rabbinic training in Germany. He is now spiritual leader of Temple Israel in Kinston, North Carolina.

Louisa Freeman prepares for graduate study in French after receiving news of her fellowship to Emory University.

Emory Honors Freeman

Louisa Freeman of Columbia, South Carolina, has been awarded a University Fellowship of $2700 from Emory University. The fellowship is for the three quarters from September to June.

Louisa will be working toward her Masters Degree in French and will be concentrating on twentieth century French drama. She is presently doing honors work this year on the subject of the "Myth in Twentieth Century Drama." She hopes to follow through with this work at Emory.

Although her work at Emory does not involve any teaching, she does hope to teach after getting her Masters Degree.

Louisa was also successful in her competition in the Woodrow Wilson Foundation fellowship competition, in which she won an honorable mention. The purpose of the Foundation is to encourage graduate school work with a teaching career as a goal.
