Volume XLIV

Salem College, Winston-Salem, N. C., Friday, October 25, 1963

Number 5

Committee Makes Survey; Reports To State Board

By Ann Wilson

The friendly atmosphere, the charm of the campus, and the good food are three aspects of Salem College which the State Visitation Committee on Teacher Education has enjoyed most, according to Dr. Cameron West, chairman of the committee and Academic Dean, Pfeiffer College. In fact, the committee has enjoyed almost every aspect of Salem, and its work has been made pleasurable.

The reason for the committee's visit and its work are connected with the "New Approved Program of Teacher Education" approach. The visit is the result of a request by Salem wanting to participate in the new approach which certifies the training of elementary and secondary teachers.

Dr. West explained that the committee is here to visit and describe the teacher education program at Salem as reflected in Salem's self-study. During this visit the committee met with faculty members, students, and student teachers, both here and at the public schools in which Salem student teachers are practice teaching.

After completing the survey, the committee will make its report to the state-wide Advisory Committee which has been appointed by the State Board of Education. On the basis of the reports, the Advisory Committee will in turn make the evaluation to the State Board of Education.

By attending classes, meals, college functions, and visiting individuals, the committee got a true picture of Salem. Dr. West said these informal gatherings proved most enjoyable, and he could easily "see why the students and faculty have the pride that they do in Salem College." As a matter of fact he added, "I would love to have my daughter be a Salem graduate."

Freshmen Gain Two Overnights

The petition of October 8 sent to Dr. Dale H. Gramley by Legislative Board requesting more overnights for the freshmen has been passed. Dr. Gramley and the Faculty Advisory Board discussed the petition before Dr. Gramley signed it.

Members of the freshman class who have no academic deficiencies (E or F) in their grades at mid-semester will be permitted two additional overnights in the second half of the semester. The number of overnights a freshman has is contingent on her academic achievement.

Series Features Chamber Music

Next Thursday, October 31, at 8:15 p.m. in Wait Chapel on the Wake Forest campus the Wake Forest Artist Series will present a concert by the Moscow Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Rudolph Barshai.

The group, which specializes in seventeenth and eighteenth century and contemporary music, was founded in 1955 as a group of musicians interested in chamber music. In 1956, it was incorporated into an official organization.

Composed of eighteen members, it features strings, oboes, and the French horn. This fall marks the orchestra's first appearance in America, but they have gained widespread fame in Europe and were especially well-received at the Edinburgh Festival.

The program will consist of Symphony Number 29 (Mozart); Visions Fugitives (Prokofieff), arranged for the orchestra by Barshai; Divertissements (Bartok); and a Concerto (Vivaldi).

Season tickets may be used for admission, and single admission tickets may be purchased at the door for $2.50.

Dorms Receive Due Allotments Of Committee

The Concessions Committee for this year is composed of Margaret Bourdeaux, chairman, Nancy Pendleton, Barbara Gottschalk, and Betty Clark Gray. Dean Heidebreder is the advisor.

The committee receives the commissions given to Salem from the various vending machines on campus and uses the money to pay for matters concerning the students, such as paying the television repair bills.

The committee also gives each dormitory $25 per girl which may be used by the dormitory as it chooses. Frequently subscriptions to publications or articles of furniture are bought, while some dormitories use this allotment for parties.

Salem Board Of Trustees Directs Academy, College Legal Affairs

By Sue Ann Brooks

The Salem College Board of Trustees is a body of 33 members whose chief responsibility is to take care of the legal affairs of the Corporation of Salem College. The Board is composed of Moravians as well as non-Moravians; however, the Moravian representatives are in the majority.

Of the 33 member board, five are representatives of the Provincial Elders Conference of the Moravian Church. This body is a select group elected by the Moravian Church to operate the church.

The other members of the Board of Trustees are: the President of Salem College, the Pastor of Home Moravian Church, the President of the Salem Academy Alumnae Association, the President of the Winston-Salem Alumnae Association of the Academy, and three people who are elected by the General Alumnae Association of Salem College. In addition to these Board members, six people are elected by the Board of Trustees itself to serve. The remaining 15 members are elected by the Moravian Church Synod of the Southern Province—making thirty-three Board members in all.

Every three years, five of the 15 members elected by the Moravian Church Synod retire, as do two of the six members elected by the Board itself. All 15 of the Moravian Church members are elected for a term of three years and may be re-elected for the maximum of three consecutive terms.

Although a majority of the members are affiliated with the Moravian Church, the six Board members and the General Alumnae Association members do not have to be Moravians. Those who represent the Moravian Church are not necessarily ministers. At present, three of the five members of the Provincial Elders Conference are ministers, but the number varies from term to term.

The officers of the Board of Trustees are; the chairman, who is the President of the Provincial Elders Conference; the treasurer and assistant treasurer, who manage the finances; the secretary, who is the official correspondent; and the clerk, who keeps the minutes of the Board meetings. The clerk may or may not be a member of the Board of Trustees. However, if he is not a member, he may not exercise voting rights.

Executive Committee

Within the Salem College Board of Trustees there are several committees organized to carry out effectively the work of the Board. The Executive Committee is comprised of the chairmen of the Finance, Building and Grounds, and Academy committees. The secretary of the Board is also an Executive Committee member, as is one member of the Provincial Elders Conference. In addition the Board selects two Board members to serve on this committee. The duty of the Executive Committee is to act on behalf of the whole Board between meetings, which are held every fall and spring.

The Finance Committee is a three-member committee (appointed by the chairman of the Board) whose chief duties are to prepare the budget, order the annual audit, supervise funds, and work in conjunction with the comptroller and treasurer.

The Building and Grounds Committee, of which there are five members (appointed by the chairman of the Board), carries out the repair, maintenance, and decoration of the campus and buildings.

The Academy Committee handles any affairs relating to Salem Academy; the committee is made up of nine members.

Special committees, in addition to these standing committees, may be appointed by the Board should the need arise. The committees work to carry out the policies made by the Board and may also recommend any change of policies made by the Board.

The organization of the Salem College Board of Trustees is advantageous in that it combines the membership of church-related as well as non church-related factions. All of the boards work together to serve Salem Academy and College in the most profitable way.

The Thirty-ninth Annual Conference of The Associated Collegiate Press and the National Council of College Publications Advisers held its meeting at the Hotel New Yorker on October 17-19. Editor-in-Chief of The Salemite, Anne Romig, and News Editor, Brenda Bethel, represented Salem at the conference.

Salemite Sends Delegates To Represent Newspaper At New York Press Meet

The conference consisted of short courses on Friday and Saturday and an awards banquet on Saturday afternoon. The topic meetings for newspaper, yearbook, and magazine delegates ran for 50 minutes. The All-American newspapers and the All-American yearbooks were displayed during the three-day conference.

One of the sectional meetings Brenda attended was "Coverage of Campus News." This discussion was presented by the editorial staff members of Michigan State News. The Michigan State News runs on a budget of $50,000 a year. Its editorial staff is composed of 150 members with one-fourth of these editors paid one dollar an hour.

Anne attended a discussion on the problems of small college newspapers. In this discussion, a representative from a small men's college in Wellesley, Massachusetts said that the editors at his college are

Assembly Holds Discussion

Tuesday, October 29, the Assembly program will be devoted to an honor discussion. Marty Richmond, chairman of the honors assembly, has asked thirty girls from each of the three upper classes to lead the discussions. The discussion groups will be made up of members from all classes.

The honors program is an attempt to evaluate the honor tradition at Salem.

The speaker on Thursday, October 31, will be the Rev. Thomas Smith, an Episcopal priest from Winston-Salem. He will speak on the progress made by the Negro community in Winston-Salem and the aims of the CORE movement.
