was terrific by general consensus

and the Square has finally settled

The Salemite

Published every Friday of the College year by the Student Body of Salem College

OFFICES: Basement of Day Student Center

Printed by the Sun Printing Company

Subscription	Frice $4.50 d 70d.
Editor-in-Chief	Nancy Thomas
Associate Editor	Cara Lynne Johnson
Business Manager	Kathryn Wilson
Managing Editor	Carol Quick
N. P. Italian	Synii ( neel

Feature Editor
Assistant Business ManagerBecky Scott
Advertising ManagerMary Lou Atkinson
Photography Editor Ann Wyche
Headline StaffSallie King, Karen Shelley, Jane Bostian, Helen Best
Managing StaffElizabeth Pridgen, Hillary Masters Layout
Circulation Managers Sandy Kelley, Debby Lotz
Adviser Miss Jess Byrd

Typing Ability Broadens Employment Opportunities

With the advent of warm weather, young girls' thoughts turn to sunbathing, and more time in the Sunspot means less time in the study room. The inability to type will keep some would-be sunseekers laboring later, and longer, than their typist friends.

This first group has come to college having had no experience with typing, either because they did not take it in high school or because they attended schools where no such course was offered. They spend needlessly long hours writing out themes and term papers in long hand. If more papers were typed, then the job of the professors who must read and grade them would not be as great. If more typed papers were handed in, then less time would be needed to decipher the somewhat less-than-legible handwriting

The eager student seeking a summer job can cross more "welcome" mats if she assures her prospective employer that she can type. Even if she has no intention of ever following a secretarial career, summer employment which includes some typing can be valuable experience for almost any later job.

Student teachers, too, would be able to save time by typing the tests they give. There are seniors each year who graduate cum teaching certificate, as future "insurance." The non-teachers leave with no such surety. What can they fall back on in addition to a college degree?

A group of interested students who join forces and try to find a way to include a typing course at Salem might succeed. They also might have no success at all. Whatever the end results of their efforts to add typing to Salem's curriculum, the crusade might stimulate more girls to take typing as a summer elective.

Students, Teachers To Convene In Reidsville To Study Student Stress

With the subject of student stress and development in college, students and faculty members from forty colleges in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia will convene today in Reidsville for the Student Stress Conference. Sponsored by USNSA's Campus Environment Studies Department, this conference will be held March 10-12 in the Betsy-Jeff Penn 4-H Center in Reidsville.

The three days of study on the subject will be accomplished through discussion groups and three general sessions which will enable exchange of ideas and findings among the various groups. Within the discussion groups the delegates to the conference will discuss a series of questions and situations involving the pressures on students in the college environment. Discussing these problems as they appear at Salem will be Dean Jesse Wood, Lyn Davis and Sue Overbey.

Judy Campbell, a Salem senior who is Chairman of the Carolinas-Virginia Region of NSA, is heading the conference and the Steering Committee for the conference, of which senior Florence Pollock is a member. This steering committee has engaged a number of competent consultants to work with the conference: Dr. Peter Breggin, from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare; Dr. David Goldberg, Planning Officer for the Bureau of Research of the U.S. Office of Education; Reverend Robert Albritton, Presbyterian minister to the students of the University of Virginia; Robert Greenway, from the Peace Corps; and Al Re-Staff members in the Campus Environment Studies Department.

The Carolinas Conference is part

Delegates To SSL Attend Mock Assembly Convention

The State Student Legislative 1-4, began Wednesday night with a reception for the delegates at the home of Chancellor Caldwell of North Carolina State. The delegates, who were Kathy Clements and Margie Winstead in the Senate, with Jane Wilson as alternate, and Kathie Carpenter and Palmer Smith in the House, with Christy Davidson as alternate, stayed in the Sir Walter Raleigh Hotel. Jane Horton accompanied the group of delegates as an observer.

On Thursday, Jerry Surratt, Suz-Convention, which took place March anne Mallard, and Judy Campbell arrived for the day. During the first session the delegates elected the Speaker of the House and President of the Senate. In the afternoon session the bills from different schools were presented. Salem's bill, "A Course in Contemporary Political and Economic Systems as a Requisite for Graduation for all High School Students." was presented by Margie in the Senate and Palmer in the House. The bill (ontinued on Page 4) pound cake and sang to her.

Around The Square

down. A group of seniors gathered at Betty Brock's house Saturday afternoon for a party, while most of the juniors appeared at the Tavern. Planned entertainment for the seniors' party was the singing of Jack Ivey and Charles Van Wagner. However, a couple of the boys brought along some surprise entertainment-the Serendipity Singers! The boys met them at the Holiday Inn, so they invited them to come to the party.

Anyone passing the Tavern Saturday afternoon saw the juniors. It was impossible not to see them! According to the last count, they had two kegs of coke and a crate of beer!

Roses have been in the news from an unknown admirer. Tuck Smith received roses and has finally narrowed it down to ten possi-

Elaine Beavers got some for her birthday (only they were christened 'painted weeds" by her friends) and Claire Haines got roses from the boy she dated this weekend instead of a "thank-you" note.

Eight third floor Gramley freshmen packed the phone booth last week in protest of the confiscation of their "Pollyanna" game. Now, girls, Don't you know that when you become a woman you "put away childish things."

An "un-birthday" party was held recently for Kristin Jorgenson. The girls thought it was a shame that her birthday is in the summer, so

The dialogue printed in the March 3 issue of The Salemite was erroneously reported to be an excerpt from "The Streets of New York." The article was written by Trisha of a two-year program involving a total of eight regional conferences and sixteen pilot campus projects.

amended in both houses before being passed. All the approved bills

Well, it's come and gone. IRS they put a candle on a chocolate

Picnics were the order of the day on Saturday. Hordes of people flocked to Tanglewood, the Yadkin River, and Pilot Mountain. But, take it from me—the best place for a picnic is the Wake Forest in-

A lavalier and two pins found their way to Salem this weekend. Freshman Sal Sanford received a Lambda Chi lavalier from Rick Huston who goes to West Texas State University. Jim Strong, if won a scholarship to Bowman Gm you're looking for your Sewann SAE pin, Suanne Brooks has I doubt that you'll be able to it back, though.

Hannah Nicholson

Nancy Richardson just loved cold shower awaiting her when returned with Ed Parker's W Forest Pika pin Saturday Roses from the chapter arrived Monday.

Finally, June 17 is the date A Richert and Kip Ferrell have cided upon. They will live in We ston-Salem next-year, for Kink

. S. Servicemen Reflect On Situations In Vietnam

Most people are either "for" or "against" the war in Vietnand but what do the boys themselves think? Here is a poem write by several servicemen expressing their feelings. It was sent on a tape to a Salem girl by a boy in Vietnam will whom she corresponds.

You sit at home and watch T.V., And sip a glass of icey tea. The news comes on and then you hear The All Star game is drawing near And then you see a far-off land Where men are dying on the sand. A frown appears upon your face; You're tired of hearing about that place. "Who cares about Vietnam across the sea? It's far away and doesn't concern me." You'd rather hear the Beatles play Than learn about the world today. It's great to be alive and free— Forget that guy across the sea. He's far away and waging a war To keep the fight from your front door. This fellow faces death each day, Yet has something light to say. "No mail today"-a wave of sorrow, Then, "what the hell, there is still tomorrow." He walks all day and fights by night But yet he finds time to write. The college girl thinks he's a fool But that's what makes it hard and cruel. Do you appreciate what he'll do, Like giving up his life for you? Yet he asks nothing in return So you can stay in school and learn. The days are hot, the nights are too-What wonders those letters from home can do. He dreams of a nice juicy steak— Then someone yells, "There's a hill to take!" Some will be heroes because they are brave. Still others won't hardly reach the grave. You'll spot him as he passes by, There's a sad but proud look in his eye. He's called the world's best war machine; He is the United States Marine.

Undefeated Freshmen Take Prizes Salem Tops Queens In Basketba

Martha Eubanks, Mary Anna Redfern, and Nancy Richardson, members of the Salem basketball team, sit with coach Miss Anne Woodward to watch Salem defeat Queens March 7 in the gym. The final score was 31-27.

The Freshman basketball team remained undefeated in its last three games and won the annual WRA basketball tournament which ended on March 2. The freshmen beat the Junior-Senior team 34-22 on March 1 and won by a sophomore forfeit on March 2. The Junior-Senior team came in second with three wins and three losses, and the sophomores were unable to win The captain of the Freshir team, Chris Little, was outstand in her play, scoring high in en game. Other outstanding member of the Freshman team were Farrar, Debbie Lotz, Susan Har Paige French, and Lee Wood, Celia Watson, Bevie Carter, Henry, Gail Nicholls, and Ri Ackroyd-Kelly adding strength the team.

Outstanding players for the phomores were Sue Slocum Mary Shepherd, while Eliza Johnston, Dabney Kelley, M Eubanks, and Olive Jenkins led

Junior-Senior team.
On March 7, Salem played Queens College here Salem, with Salem winning score of 31-27. The pool tournament is final stages, with DeeDee and John Burrows in the finals, the winner of the Spitz-McM and Nicholls-Wendt match the other finalists. The comp results of the tournament w announced in the next issue of Salemite.