

Salem Loses To Wake Coeds, 2-0; Plans To Attend Volleyball Tourney

Playing its fifth and final game of the season on Thursday, November 9, the Salem hockey team went down to defeat at the hands of a strong Wake Forest team by a score of 2-0.

The first Wake Forest score came just minutes after the opening of the game, this being the only score of the first half. Fighting back in the second half, the Salem eleven almost scored several times, but the Wake Forest defense was able to contain the Salem forward line. Midway through the second half Wake scored another goal giving their lead the "padding" it needed, and the game ended 2-0.

Throughout the season the following people played on the Salem team: Olive Jenkins, Chris Connor, Martha Gomer, Roberta Thompson, Gini Herbst, Robin Ackroyd-Kelly, Gale Landress, Ann Gibbs, Susan Stratton, Debbie Lotz, Celia Watson, Paige French, Mimi Farrar, Jane Cross, June Wade, Jane Cronly, Shelley Habeck, Ethel Tobias, Blair Kerr, Gini Harper, Joy Harris, and Weezie Vincent.

This year Salem has again received an invitation from Appalachian State University in Boone to attend a volleyball play in Saturday, November 18. The volleyball representative to WRA, Robin Ack-royd-Kelly, has organized a team which will compete with eight other schools in a double elimination tournament which means that when a team loses two games it is out of the tournament. This team has been practicing for over a week in order to learn to play as a team as well as to learn how to apply some of the different rules that are used at Appalachian. Representing Salem in this tournament will be Peggy Hart, Olive Jenkins, Robin Ackroyd-Kelley, Chris Little, Betsy McAlister, Shelley Habeck, Helen Jones, Mary Sheppard, Susan Stratton, and Chris Connor. The activities of the day include volleyball in the morning, a cafeteria lunch at Appalachian, and the finals of the tournament on Saturday afternoon.

Salemites At Recital In FAC

Patricia Pence of the Salem College School of Music and Phillip Dunigan of the North Carolina School of the Arts presented a Harp and Flute concert last night, November 16, in Hanes Auditorium.

Their program included among others Sonata in F by Handel, a Harp solo by Miss Pence, Schergo by Maurice Tournier, Telemann's Fantasia for Unaccompanied flute performed by Mr. Dunigan, Sonata in G Minor by Purcell, and Perschetti's Serenade No. 10 for Flute and Harp.

Miss Pence has studied harp under Edna Phillips, formerly of The Philadelphia Orchestra, and Alice Chalifoux of the Cleveland Orchestra.

Brusilow Brings Symphony Here

The Chamber Symphony of Philadelphia presented a concert November 13, through the Winston-Salem Civic Music Association. This was the group's second visit to the area.

Conducting the 36 member orchestra was its founder, Anshel Brusilow. The opening number, Telemann's Don Quixote was well received by the audience. They also performed Britten's Sinfonietta for Chamber Orchestra Op. 1 and Cantus Animae et Cordis by Richard Hjarudumian. Following in-termission was Shubert's Symphony No. 2 in B flat major. For an encore the light notes of Happy Birthday were played for the first clarinetist Edward Marks on the birth of a son and finally as an encore the orchestra performed Bach's Beautiful Air from his 73rd suite.

Salem's Safety Assured By Two Nightwatchmen

As long as Robert Holder and Ray Terrell are seen walking through our campus late at night no one has anything to fear. These two men are our night watchmen. Besides taking Salem girls back to their dorms after closing hours, these men make sure no one else gets into the dorms or into any of the other buildings.

Mr. Holder has worked for Salem for four years; Mr. Terrell just came here last year. Their duty is to make a check over the entire campus every two hours. While the schedule as to which night watchmen will work which night varies, you can be sure that one of them will be on campus from 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights, and from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. on Monday through Thursday nights.

When the night watchmen are not making their rounds, they stay in the housekeeper's office, a room in the basement of Main Hall. This

Little Theatre Presents Two One-Act Plays

By Annie McLeod

Beginning Wednesday, November 15, and running through Sunday, November 19, is the production by the Winston-Salem Little Theatre of "The Typists and the Tiger." Actually, this is not one play, but two one act plays written by Murray Schisgal who also wrote "Luv." These two plays are realistic contemporary productions concerning real people in true life situations. The situations are serious ones, but the comments made about modern life make the plays very funny.

The cast of each play is quite small, involving only two actors. The typists are played by a husband and wife team, Jackie and Ed Oerter and the cast members of "The Tiger" are Mary Kerr and Chris Ringham. When these plays "The Typists", as a picture of every day life, follows an ordinary day of two typists in an office. Actually the day is very symbolic because it encompasses forty years of their lives and shows how they have developed or changed in those years. This play particularly points up the impersonality of modern life and its "get up, go to work, come home" routine.

"The Tiger", on the other hand is not an every day situation but a realistic one, nonetheless. It is the story of a man and the woman he abducts at the subway and drags to his apartment, intent on murdering her. These two people, thrown together in such an odd situation, find that they are very much alike in that they both would like to be thought of as non-conformists. Actually, they are just the opposite. In the end of the play, the role of the Tiger is reversed, giving the production an unusual twist.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Home Economics Club of Salem College is excited to announce that a birthday cake service will be offered to the students of Salem College and Academy. All orders for cakes must be placed with Barbie Barton in 124 Cleveland Hall a week before the cakes are needed.

The Club hopes that this service beginning December 1, will bring enjoyment to all those "surprise" birthday parties. There will be several flavors from which to choose, and the price will be $2.50 for either layer or sheet cake.

Dr. Dale H. Gramley will attend the convention of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools in Dallas, Texas, November 26-29. Attending from Salem Academy will be Miss Alice Litwinchuk, Principal, who is president of the Southern Association of Independent Schools which will meet during the convention.
