

Mary Lucy Bivins has a busy schedule in her job as director of Alumnae Affairs.

Europe With Randy Mac!

Randolph-Macon Woman's College's third annual European Summer Seminar encompasses three weeks in Brussels, two in Paris, one in Geneva, and concludes with two weeks of independent travel. Three of five courses may be taken, for a total of six credit hours: Conversational French, Politics of European Integration, France—The Third Republic, Erasmus and the Northern Renaissance, and European Economic Integration.

The Seminar will depart by charter jet from New York on June 25 and will return on August 25. The cost for the eight-week period, including round-trip air transportation, meals and lodging for the six weeks of formal seminar, and tuition (but not including expenses during the two weeks of independent travel) will be $1100.

Please contact Dr. Philip Thayer, Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Virginia 24504.

NEWS ROUNDUP

Ribicoff Possible Court Candidate

The name of Senator Abraham Ribicoff (Dem.-Conn.) has been mentioned as a possible replacement for the next Supreme Court vacancy. His co-sponsorship of the Stennis amendment to the recent school integration bill assures him of Southern acceptance, and his appointment would restore the "Jewish seat" on the Court, vacant since the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas.

Report on Explosion Deaths

Maryland Governor Marvin Mandel has released a preliminary F. B. I. and medical report stating that two friends of H. Rap Brown were killed last week when they accidentally detonated explosives they were carrying. The report was apparently designed to counter speculation that the men were killed by foul play.

Mary Lucy Holds Down The Alumnae House As Director

If you've walked by or had an opportunity to go into the Alumnae House this year, then you've probably met the petite, brown-haired director of Alumnae Affairs, Mary Lucy (Hudgens) Bivins, Class of 1966.

Mary Lucy's office is in one of the oldest and most charming buildings on campus — the Alumnae House, a "must" for students to explore sometime during their stay at Salem. From there she handles all correspondence and edits the Bulletin three times a year. She is also coordinator of the Alumnae Fund Campaign and spends occasional days making trips throughout North Carolina to attend area Alumnae Association meetings. And if that isn't enough to keep her busy, as Mary Lucy puts it, "I run a hotel on the side," in reference to guests who stay in the Alumnae House.

The "First House" is Mary Lucy's home here in Old Salem with her husband, John, who is Curator of Crafts for Old Salem, Inc. Their house, so-called because it was the first house built in Salem by the early Moravian settlers, is the half-timbered house across from the Belo Home with the "Apothecary" sign on the front.

She just "loves being back in Winston-Salem" after a three year absence, and having her sister, Martha Hudgens of Spartanburg, South Carolina, here as a freshman makes it all that much better.

While at Salem, Mary Lucy was President of Pierrettes, a charter member of Harlequins, and a recipient of three Pierrot Awards.

She also spent two Salem summers doing Summer Stock at the Asolo Theatre Festival, a repertory company, in Florida.

Mary Lucy spent her first summer after graduation continuing her work in the theatre in Summer Stock at the Minor Latham Theatre at Barnard College in New York City. She spent the following year working in New York before returning to Raleigh to work with the North Carolina State University
