

Fantasy Assemblies Slated For Winter

By Evie Yancey

Fantasy is the world that we sometimes find ourselves in and don't realize how we got there or what fantasy really means. The student body has been promised some very intriguing assemblies in November and December. Their subject is exploring fantasy.

The first assembly, on Wednesday, November 18, is a collage program. The purpose is to open up the idea of fantasy and ask what the word means. Included in the program will be music, lights, slides and dance. The introductory assembly is guaranteed to speak to your senses concerning fantasy.

On November 16, a Piedmont lecturer will come to speak on Drama and will include thoughts on fantasy. The Thanksgiving assembly is an experimental one with hints of fantasy.

In December, Daniel Logan, a well-known clairvoyant, will come to speak on ESP and its relationship to the world of fantasy. There will also be a panel discussion on drugs and the part they play in fantasy. The Christmas assembly will also include fantasy from the reader's theater.

These assemblies should fascinate most of us and stimulate our thoughts rather than put our minds to sleep. Try to make an appearance at the assemblies and open your mind!

Beyond The Square

"Beyond" Reviews State And National Elections

On November 3rd, 35 senatorial, 35 gubernatorial and all the House seats were up for reelection. In a desperate fight the Republicans tried to gain a majority in both houses of Congress and the Democrats fought back, both sides spending a tremendous amount of money on T. V. campaigns.

President Nixon and Vice-President Agnew both campaigned heavily for people in their party and sometimes against people in their party, as was the case in New York. Here Goodell, a liberal Republican was not supported by Nixon. Nixon threw his support to the Conservative party headed by Buckley (who won).

People are still speculating about the meaning of the election results. Democratic National Chairman Larry O'Brien declared, "We're back in business." The Democrats increased their control in the House by nine votes and have taken over twelve state governorships, while yielding only two to the Republicans. It was in the Senate that the Republicans gained three seats at best, two if the undecided Indiana race goes against the Republicans.

Nixon did manage to take senatorial seats away from the liberals Gore in Tennessee and Tydings in Maryland. It was also a victory for the President in that the President's party normally loses much more in an off-year election.

The scene in the Democratic party is hopeful as all the new Governors and the Democratic legislatures have a strong voice in redrawing congressional district lines by 1972, leaving a mark that will last for a decade.

The issues of the election centered around Nixon's attempt to exploit a conservative drift in the nation caused by disgust with student unrest, crime, pornography and the revolutionaries. This emotional appeal proved wrong in many cases. Most voters proved to be more concerned with the economy and rising unemployment. Whether Nixon can successfully rally his "ideological majority" in Congress remains to be seen. It is now time for the country to settle down and watch the leaders for 1972 emerge.

Source: TIME, November 16, 1970

The Salemite

Editor-in-Chief ..... Sara Engram

EDITORIAL STAFF

Associate Editor ..... Linyer Ward
Assistant Editor ..... Ginger Zemp
Managing Editor ..... Cori Pasquier
News Editor ..... Jeanne Patterson
Feature Editor ..... Laurie Daltroff
Fine Arts Editor ..... Libby Cain
Special Projects Editor.....Catherine Cooper
Copy Editor ..... Jane Dimmock
Photography Editor ..... Tricia Allen
Roving Photographer .....Billie Everhart

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager ..... Phyllis Melvin
Advertising Manager ..... Martha Bernard
Circulation Manager ..... Libby Seibert
Published by Students of Salem College
Printed by the Sun Printing Company
Subscription Price $4.60 a year
Member U. S. Student Press Association
Advisor ..... Mrs. J. W. Edwards

Pollution 1 2 Test

Attention All Polluters - What's Your 1 2?

Under conservationist's fire for a great many years for polluting the environment, during the last year or so Industry has responded with an estimated billion dollars' worth of advertising designed to tell its side of the pollution story.

The full impact of this vast information program cannot be accurately assessed, of course, but each individual can make some subjective judgments by his performance in answering true or false to the following statements.

1. ( ) Industry cannot stop polluting without going out of business.
2. ( ) The public demanded throwaway bottles.
3. ( ) We must cut more timber from our National Forests or the poor will go homeless.
4. ( ) Water pollution is not harmful to health because treatment plants remove all the harmful chemicals and other pollutants.
5. ( ) Conservationists opposing pollution from electric power plants will cause blackouts and brownouts this summer.
6. ( ) Radiation from nuclear power plants poses no danger to the environment.
7. ( ) Thermal pollution from electric power plants will actually benefit marine life.
8. ( ) Industrial polluters didn't realize they were hurting the environment until just the last year or so.
9. ( ) The federal government is spending more money than ever before to enforce air and water pollution control regulations.
10. ( ) There are no "bad guys", everyone is equally to blame for our country's current pollution problems.
11. ( ) The increasing incidence of water-borne disease is directly related to increasingly polluted public water supplies.
12. ( ) In order to prevent pollution, the public will have to give up air conditioners and other luxuries.

13. ( ) Industry is willing to clean up its pollution, but technology just hasn't developed most of the necessary techniques.
14. ( ) Private citizens can make a significant contribution to cleaning up water pollution by putting bricks in their toilet tanks and not using colored tissues.
15. ( ) At the present time there is no substitute for DDT but the U. S. Department of Agriculture is working hard on it.
16. ( ) Hundreds of Americans will be killed by air pollution this year and the health of millions more will be damaged.
17. ( ) One out of four people taking this test is drinking water considered unsafe by the U. S. Public Health Service.
18. ( ) Industry is going all out to support stringent anti-pollution legislation.
19. ( ) The Federal Government is finally using the full power of existing laws to crack down on polluters.
20. ( ) After seeing Industry's side of the pollution picture, all things considered, the big conservation organizations have been a little unfair in their criticism.

Give yourself one point for each correct answer, (see below), then grade yourself on the following chart:

- 15-20 ..... You've been digging out the facts.
- 10-15 ..... You're normally susceptible.
- 5-10 ..... You're probably a major stockholder in the Brooklyn Bridge.
- 0-5 ..... You're a senior officer in a polluting company and believe everything your PR firm says about you.

Questions 11, 16, and 17 are true; all others are false.

(If you answered false to question 20, Madison Avenue blew a billion dollars.)

—Reprinted from Conservation News

Salemites Help Headstart

Several Salem students are currently involved in Headstart Programs in the Winston-Salem area. As part of their Education 110 requirement, Dr. Elizabeth Welch's students will take part in the project for eight one-hour sessions. The program was begun last year by the education department in an effort to introduce students to the teaching process. It is expected to continue.

At the onset of this year's project May Strikes: The Statistics

BOULDER, Colo. (CPS)—America's entry into Cambodia and the Jackson and Kent State shootings produced the most intense reaction on colleges and universities with the highest academic admission policies, according to a survey by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education.

The commission survey of 2,551 college and university presidents; with 73 percent responding, also concluded that colleges and universities in the Northeast showed greater reaction than elsewhere.

The commission said colleges and universities that admit freshmen from the top 10 percent of high school classes had more reaction than schools with open admission policies. The study made no comment on this finding.

In the most selective schools, there were these reactions: 35 percent had student strikes of one day or longer, 80 percent had student campaigns to communicate with local residents about the war, 79 percent had peaceful demonstrations and 9 percent, violent demonstrations.

Schools with open admissions had these reactions: 9 percent strikes, 33 percent campaigns, 41 percent peaceful demonstrations and 5 percent violent demonstrations. Some schools were listed in more than one category.

ject, students were asked to choose at which of the Headstart Centers and at what time they wanted to work. After transportation problems were solved, each student began to work an hour a week. As a teacher's aide, she may work with any one of the three age groups at the Headstart Center where the children range from ages 3-5.

Dr. Welch believed that her students were, for the most part, enthusiastic about their experiences at Headstart. She ascertains that the program benefits both Salem pupils and Headstart pupils as the two learn from each other.

Susan Hendrick agrees that her Headstart work has been a learning experience for her, "I've learned a lot about children and how their home affects them. This has helped me form a more understanding attitude."

Those participating in the work have been able to work separately with groups of children and have discovered several ways to retain their pupils' attention. Recently Mary Funkhouser thrilled her youthful audience with a puppet which she brought to illustrate a story she had read to them. Pam Langston and Mary Erwin King, who both volunteered to help in the Headstart Program, had a sing-along with their five year old group when Pam brought her guitar. Laura Crumpler, Nancy Warren, and Charlyn Sewell surprised their children with Halloween masks which kept them occupied the entire hour.

Salem students generally feel they are being rewarded for their efforts as the children seem anxious to learn. Mary Edwin King summed up her feelings of the program by saying, "The kids really enjoy it so much that they seem reluctant to go home, and because of that, so do I."

Support Creativity - Buy Doughnuts!

In order to finance an exciting week of music, drama, and art, April Arts must supplement the funds allotted them through the Student Government Association fees with several money-making projects.

For the past two weeks, the April Arts committee has sold doughnuts in the recreation room of each dormitory from 9:30 to 11 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday. This is not only quite beneficial for the sake of the profit earned, but also very convenient as far as Salemites are concerned. Although few students can muster sufficient strength to pull themselves out of bed and drag their bodies to the refectory at 8 a.m. on the weekends, many girls would enjoy some sort of morning meal. Until two weeks ago, these not-so-silent stomachs were destined to go hungry for a part of each weekend. But now, thanks to the CREATIVENESS of the April Arts committee, everyone can be satisfied!

Future plans include a rummage sale and talent show, but Salem students can take advantage of the doughnut sales now! Signs will be posted several days before these weekends so that everyone will know the times and places that doughnuts will be available.

Remember that the success of these endeavors depends on your patronage, and the fulfillment of the hopes of the April Arts committee for an unforgettable week of cultural events depends on the success of the fund-raising projects.